INTRODUCTION

Singly and in partnership, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources continues to provide outdoor recreational opportunities for persons with disabilities. In addition to qualified hunters and anglers receiving method exemptions, access is available at several Kentucky locations open to the public for fishing, hunting and wildlife viewing. Several wildlife management area field offices are also accessible. Conservation campers who stay at Camp Earl Wallace or Camp Robert E. Webb will find accessible bathhouses.

The following locations are accessible to most individuals with disabilities. Accessible parking is available in several areas.
