

THE HONORABLE RUSSELL F. CANAN
ASSOCIATE JUDGE
SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Judge Russell F. Canan was appointed to the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in 1993 by President William Jefferson Clinton.

Judge Canan was born in New York City and attended public schools in the area. After graduating from college, he worked as a health education worker, at which time he assisted in setting up health clinics for migrant farm workers. He obtained his law degree from Antioch School of Law in the District of Columbia.

Judge Canan served as a law clerk to the late John D. Fauntleroy, an Associate Judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. He also worked for the Legal Assistance Branch of the Superior Court. In 1977, Judge Canan and classmates from Antioch School of Law, Jeffrey O'Toole, Bill Walsh, and Elkanah Burns, opened the law offices of Canan, Burns & O'Toole. His practice focused on litigation primarily in the criminal defense and civil rights fields.

In 1983 and part of 1984, Judge Canan helped establish the Southern Center for Human Rights in Atlanta, Georgia, where he represented prisoners on death row. He also directed class action civil rights lawsuits. Upon returning to the District of Columbia, he returned to the private practice of law with the firm of Milliken, Van Susteren & Canan, with partners now-Senior Judge Stephen Milliken, Greta Van Susteren, and Karen Schneider. He was later in the private practice of law with the firm of Canan, Kiersh & Lobo with his partners, Steven R. Kiersh and Cynthia W. Lobo.

Currently, Judge Canan serves as the Chairperson of the Judicial Education Committee of the Superior Court, as well as Chairperson of the Rules Subcommittee of the Criminal Advisory Rules Committee. Judge Canan is the former Chairperson of the Jury Management Committee, and presently serves on that committee as well as the Committee for Appointment and Retention of Magistrate Judges. Judge Canan has served in the Criminal and Civil Divisions of the court as well as the Family Court.

Throughout his career, Judge Canan has served as an Adjunct Professor at the Antioch School of Law, Georgetown University Law Center, George Washington University Law School, and the Washington College of Law at the American University. Judge Canan has been an instructor at the Harvard Law School Trial Advocacy Workshop, and has lectured throughout the country before such groups as the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, Amnesty International, and the American Bar Association.