Dear Colleague:

Thank you for your interest in doing business with the Office of Personnel Management (OPM). Enclosed in this package of material is general and specific information you will find useful for this purpose.

OPM performs market surveys on all open market large purchases (those exceeding $100,000) to determine if they should be set aside for any of the different categories of small businesses, or for small disadvantaged businesses (including the Small Business Administration's (SBA) 8(a) program). We rely heavily on SBA's Procurement Marketing and Access Network (PRO-Net) to identify these various small businesses that may offer supplies and services to meet our requirements. You may obtain information on PRO-Net registration from the Small Business Administration at 202-205-73 12 or on the Internet at <http://www.sba.gov>.

A good new source for information on procurement is the Government-wide single, point-of-entry called FedBizOpps. You may access the Government's official, free website at <http://www.fedbizopps.gov>. It offers easy, one-stop access to all Federal agencies' contracting opportunity notices, as well as solicitation documents, through one virtual address on the Internet.

We also occasionally announce our procurement opportunities between $2,500 and $100,000 through the Federal Acquisition Computer Network (FACNET). Information about getting started in electronic commerce and trading partner registration with the Federal Government, including the latest list of certified Value Added Networks (VAN's), is available from the Electronic Commerce Information Center, 1-800-334-3414. The Small Business Administration's U.S. Small Business Administration's Outside Resources & Great Business Hotlinks site at <http://www.sba.gov/hotlist>, featuring a menu of business resources covering many counseling and assistance activities.

I have also included in this package information about OPM's recurring procurement actions. You may use this information as a sort of forecast to prepare for future OPM procurements. Continually review FACNET and FedBizOpps for releases of these and other solicitations.

In addition, we also announce procurement opportunities on our agency Internet webpage. Our Internet address is <http://www.opm.gov/procure>, where you can also obtain an electronic copy of this document. Also at the OPM website, you can find updated listings of OPM contracting officers and OPM purchase cardholders in the OPM Electronic Reading Room at <http://www.opm.gov/efoia/html/reading.htm>.

If you have any questions about contracting opportunities with OPM, please contact Mr. Henry Wong, OPM's Small Business Technical Advisor, at 202-606-1598, or if you need additional copies of this publication please call Denise Haizlip-Harrod on 202-606-4116.

Sincerely,

GENERAL INFORMATION HELPFUL IN DOING BUSINESS WITH OPM

As a center of excellence in human resource management, OPM provides high-quality services to all of our customers. The President, Congress, and Federal agencies look to OPM for advice on human resources policy. OPM provides effective, merit-based, and family-friendly personnel systems for use government wide.

OPM is the preferred source for system design and expert consultation concerning human resource operating systems, research and innovation, and education and training in human resources and management. Ultimately, OPM's efforts support a Federal workforce that achieves the results desired by the American public.

OPM's responsibilities include administering the Federal employment merit system (recruiting, examining and promoting workers), the pension system, and health and life insurance programs.

OPM's central office is located at 1900 E Street, NW, Washington, DC. OPM has field offices, service centers, computer centers, representative offices, and management development centers throughout the United States.

OPM's field offices and service centers conduct their own procurements. Field offices are located in Atlanta, GA; Chicago, IL; Dallas, TX; Philadelphia, PA; and, San Francisco, CA. Companies interested in exploring procurement opportunities in OPM's field offices should contact them directly. A list of offices and their points of contact are included in this document, and are kept current and available at the OPM website at <http://www.opm.gov/efoia/html/reading.htm>.

The types of products and services OPM buys are:

- C Food and lodging services, and training and office space for its Management Development Centers (located in Shepherdstown, WV, and Aurora, CO, respectively).
- C Consolidated facilities management services for the Federal Executive Institute in Charlottesville, VA.
- C Computer hardware and maintenance, and software and software support for the Computer Centers, and all other OPM offices.
- C Training services, including the development of innovative training methodologies.
- C Various types of studies such as cost containment for the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program.

C Facility management contracts (e.g., custodial, trash and debris removal, security) for OPM offices.

C Conference space and conference planning/management services.

Procurements within OPM are processed differently, according to complexity and dollar value. Simple procurements, valued at $2,500 or less (e.g. supplies) are usually made with the Governmentwide purchase cards. The user of the product or service often is a purchase cardholder and normally makes the purchase directly.

The current Governmentwide purchase card contract (awarded through the General Services Administration (GSA)) is Visa. If your company does not currently accept Visa, all you need do is apply to a bank. There is no difference in the Government Visa card and a normal Visa card except purchases made using the Government card are tax exempt. Banks vary in the rates they charge, so you should check with several. The Small Business Administration (SBA) may be able to assist you if you have problems setting up an account.

Purchases made using simplified purchasing procedures (i.e., non-complex purchases below the simplified acquisition threshold, which is currently $100,000) are planned, budgeted and purchased by various OPM organizations. OPM currently has over 100 contracting officers nationwide who have delegated authority to make purchases up to $100,000. Purchases between $25,000 and $100,000 are sometimes made through the Federal Acquisition Computer Network (FACNET). You may also access the Government's official, free website that is the Federal Government's new single point of entry for Federal contracting opportunities at <http://www.fedbizopps.gov>. Purchases exceeding $25,000 are publicized on FedBizOpps when the procurement is not conducted using FACNET.

Purchases at or below $100,000 are generally not reviewed by OPM's Small Business Technical Advisor (SBTA). In accordance with the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR), procurement actions between $2,500 and $100,000 must be set aside for small business participation only, unless an exception is met.

Major contracts (those exceeding $100,000) awarded by OPM include, among others, Janitorial Services, Security Guard Services, Training Management Assistance (TMA), Consolidated Facilities Management Services, Telecommunications Services, Systems Software Support Services, Computer Maintenance Services and Lease of Space with Food and Lodging Services for OPM's Management Development Centers. Contracts for these recurring requirements are normally awarded with one basic and 4-option years.

All open market contracting opportunities greater than $100,000 that are not unilaterally set-aside by the contracting officer are reviewed by OPM's SBTA prior to processing. The SBTA performs a market survey, including the use of the SBA Procurement Marketing and Access Network (PRO-Net), to determine whether or not the purchase could be a set-aside for one of the classes of small businesses. If the survey is successful in finding small businesses capable of meeting the requirement, a recommendation is made to the contracting officer to conduct a set-aside the procurement for HUBZone, small businesses, small disadvantaged businesses, or 8(a) firms.

A list of planned and/or recurring procurement actions, with the approximate date the current contract expires, is also provided.

Contracts expected to exceed $500,000 that are awarded to large businesses require a subcontracting plan when subcontracting opportunities exist. Please solicit these companies directly for subcontracting opportunities. Those contracts are shown on the list of planned and/or recurring procurement actions.

Mr. Steven Van Rees is the Director, Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (OSDBU). He may be reached at 202-606-2200. The Small Business Technical Advisor is Henry Wong, who may be reached at 202-606-1598.

INFORMATION OF VALUE TO SMALL BUSINESSES IN MARKETING TO THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

Publications on U.S. Government contracting are available from the U.S. Government Printing Office located at 710 North Capitol Street, NW. The telephone number is 202-512-0132; the fax number is 202-512-1355. Free, electronic copies of the full text of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) are available at <http://www.acqnet.gov/far>.

Most open market U.S. Government contract opportunities, expected to exceed $25,000, are advertised on the FedBizOpps website or through the Federal Acquisition Computer Network (FACNET). FedBizOpps includes synopses of Government procurement requirements, the Government's interest in locating sources for its requirements, as well as notices of contract awards. You can access all of this information and more at <http://www.FedBizOpps.gov>, the new primary source for information on Federal Government contracting opportunities, as of October, 2001. As for electronic commerce, you may obtain information about future directions for the Federal government through the Internet at <http://www.egov.com>.

The Federal Procurement Data Center (FPDC) collects data on Federal agencies' procurement actions exceeding $25,000. Contract information includes the name of the agency making the award, contract number, dollar value, product or service procured, and performance location. The report is published annually and contains approximately 200 pages. Data may be requested by North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) Code, by agency, or by product or service. Ensure that your company is listed on the Small Business Administration's (SBA) Pro-Net System. Information about Pro-Net may be found on the SBA home page, <http://www.sba.gov>, Pro-Net provides access and is linked to the CBD, agency home pages and other sources of procurement activities.

The National Technology Transfer Center (NTTC) is a full service, technology commercialization center, formed to help companies compete in world markets. NTTC's Internet address is <http://www.nttc.edu> where you can find information on products, training, and technology assessment and access.

Keep abreast of, and give input to, changes to Federal procurement policy affecting small businesses by joining trade groups, e.g., The National Association of Small Businesses, The National Association of Black Procurement Professionals, National Contract Management Association, the National Association of Minority Contractors, and the Small, Minority, and Women Entrepreneurs. These groups interact with Congress and the Small Business Administration in the formative stages of procurement laws and regulations.

If you are a small business certified under the Small Business Administration 8(a) program, it might be helpful to try to develop a relationship with other 8(a) companies that have Government contracts. They will be able to provide information about the process.

Become familiar with the services provided by the Small Business Administration by contacting the SBA office in your area, or at the Washington District Office at 202-606-4000, or 1-800-827-5722.
