Subject: Making a Difference for Generations ^ Los Alamos National Laboratory and United Way

On Monday, September 26, the Laboratory will begin its annual United Way campaign. Our annual campaign is the most significant way that we, as a Laboratory, directly assist our neighboring communities. This year's theme, Making a Difference for Generations, acknowledges that the United Way spans the generations, helping local organizations provide food, shelter, medical, and other life-giving assistance to the youngest and oldest in our communities.

Dave Beck, Acting Associate Director for Weapons Engineering and Manufacturing is serving as chairman of the campaign. He and the Community Relations Office will be keeping you informed through electronic and printed media of special events, motivating testimonials, division/group meetings, and other rewarding events that will help guide your personal choice in charitable giving. Questions about this year's campaign can be directed to <mailto:unitedway@lanl.gov>unitedway@lanl.gov or by telephone to our Community Relations Office at 5-4400.

In addition, each of you will soon receive a brochure containing campaign pledge materials. As in the past, online pledging is available at <http://unitedway.lanl.gov/>http://unitedway.lanl.gov.

Over the years, your generosity has had an enormous positive impact on our communities and has drawn us all closer together. I ask you to continue that spirit of giving as we reach out to those who are near and dear to us ^ our Northern New Mexico neighbors.

Thank you for your contribution.
