Dear Dr. Henney:

I am writing to support those interested in requesting that you address the use of human antibiotics in livestock.

It is reprehensible that anyone would treat healthy livestock with such antibiotics. As a country we are more and more ignoring possible future problems for immediate quick fixes for humans and animals. We are jeopardizing health for profit.

I believe it is absolutely necessary to investigate long term affects immediately. Suspend the free interchange of antibiotics between animals, sick or healthy, and humans!

Sincerely,

Marjorie Noll
