Subject: Does DOE have legal authority to award "transferable credits" for "early voluntary" greenhouse gas reductions?

Dear all:

Next month, the Department of Energy (DOE) will unveil its plan to award "transferable credits" for "early voluntary" greenhouse gas reductions. CEI has long warned that such credits will corrupt the politics of energy policy,□;creating the institutional framework and lobbying incentives for energy rationing. Inthe attached paper, CEI□;explains- again -□;whyDOE has no legal authority to award credits.
