

1 [* Yucca sounds like a nightmare waiting to happen. If it goes through, we will pull up and move out of state taking our new business and family with us.

It's just too risky and too much can go wrong, including accidents during transportation whilst moving any waste and potential terrorist strikes contaminating everything. Not to mention the ground water contamination from future leaks.

We're pretty sure a contaminated Vegas will leave the housing market even worse than it is as no one will want to move here! So we will quit whilst we are ahead. How many other people who live here think the same as we do. Can the state stand to start losing thousands of residents who are in fear for their lives? Do we need a healthy city to suddenly be given the equivalent of a Doctors notice that we have weeks to live with a brain tumor or cancer?

No to Yucca. Find another solution for the sake of all of us please]
