Total		367,000	171,873

Food and Nutrition Service funds were used to provide benefits to improve the nutritional level and health of nutritionally at-risk, low-income pregnant, breastfeeding and postpartum women, infants, and children up to their fifth birthday.

The Agricultural Research Service is conducting security assessments at 100 ARS laboratories. As of the end of November, 88 of those assessments have been completed. In addition, ARS entered into a contract for two feasibility studies dealing with the national need for a BSL-4 lab and the feasibility to conduct exotic disease research and diagnostics on the mainland. The scope of work for security upgrades has been completed for three BSL-3 and five non-BSL-3 facilities and additional guard services have been hired for Plum Island, NY; Laramie, WY; Ames, IA; and Athens GA. The agency has identified both in-house and extramural research projects to develop rapid detection tests for threat agents and genetics analyses of pathogens.

The Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service obligated funds to enhance pest detection surveys in cooperation with the States; initiate classical swine fever (CSF) testing at NVSL; collect samples for BSE testing; and for physical and operational security upgrades at various APHIS laboratory facilities. Funds have also been obligated to initiate the purchase of rapid detection and diagnostic equipment and to accelerate the development of the automated targeting system with Customs for smuggling interdiction. Work on the automated targeting system has been suspended until OMB lifts the moratorium on the allocation of funds for all activities associated with the transfer to the new Department of Homeland Security. The Cooperative State Research, Education and Extension Service obligated funds that were provided by APHIS to augment the funds being used to support the university-based Rapid Detection and Diagnostics Network.

The Food Safety and Inspection Service used funds for physical and cyber security upgrades at critical labs; to enhance FSIS' system for monitoring and tracking food-related consumer complaints; and to develop table top training exercises for district offices to improve detection and emergency response capabilities. Additionally, "FSIS Security Guidelines for Food Processors" was published and distributed to all Federal and State inspected establishments.

Of the funds appropriated to the Office of the Secretary, the Cooperative State Research, Education and Extension Service obligated funds for grants to support the university-based Rapid Detection and Diagnostics Network and to establish a regional diagnostic lab redundancy. Departmental Administration has obligated funds for physical/operational security needs; to initiate procurement of contract security guard services; and to fund ARS for biomedical testing and lab services.

The Federal Aviation Administration's obligations were used for security-related research and air marshals. Although the air marshals obligations show up under Operations General Fund, adjustments will be made to share them with the Operations Trust Fund. FAA's temporary difficulties with its accounting system conversion complicated the accounting of these TSA-related obligations in October.

The Federal Highway Administration's obligations were used for projects related to the World Trade Center site.

The Federal Railroad Administration's obligations were to Amtrak for expenses incurred for security increases, and to upgrade the safety of the New York City rail tunnels.

The Federal Transit Administration's obligations were used to provide technical assistance to transit operators in developing security and emergency plans, and costs associated with determining transit assets damaged or destroyed by the World Trade Center collapse.

The Office of Inspector General's obligations were for border security audit work and port security work.

The Office of the Secretary's Payments to Air Carriers obligations represent subsidies to provide airline service to small communities.

The Research and Special Programs Administration's obligations were for engineering and design services, building demolition and relocation of phones, all related to the relocation and improvement of the Crisis Management Center.

The Transportation Security Administration's obligations included contracts for screener hiring, training and airport roll-out initiatives.

o Obtain vehicle repairs and maintenance.

o Procure consulting services for the Air Transportation Stabilization Board.

o Print additional special disaster notices to grant tax relief and to extend filing deadlines.

o Provide for air support for counter-terrorism and air space security.

o Provide grief counseling to IRS employees and their family members as a direct result of the events of September 11th.

o Secure additional inspectional support in the state of Michigan from the National Guard. (Note: the funding for the nationwide National Guard Support Agreement, which supported the additional inspections, is fully obligated) o Construct space and procure video teleconferencing, equipment and furniture for the Terrorist Asset Tracking Center.

o Provide additional air support related to counterterrorism and airspace security.

*- The Internal Revenue Service deobligated funds due to expenditures that were less than anticipated.

- As a part of the Inspector General for Tax Administration's (TIGTA) effort to replace its WTC office, contracts were made with GSA. Estimate provided by GSA were too high. TIGTA deobligated that amount, $35,000 in expenses were charged to its no-year appropriation that weren't associated with this project. The net result is that their cumulative obligations decreased by $99,000 from January to February.

- The decrease in total budget authority reflects the transfer of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, to the Department of Justice on January 24, 2003.

Department of Veterans Affairs
National Cemetery Administration (NCA)	12-0129	217	16
General Operating Expenses (GOE)	12-0151	2,000	978
Total		2,217	994

The funding for NCA were used for interment in National Cemeteries for veterans who died in the September 11th attacks. The expenditures are low because very few remains were recovered from the World Trade Center and Pentagon. Furthermore, since recovery efforts are completed no new burials are expected. The funding for GOE is to be used for a comprehensive evaluation of all Veterans Affairs' processes and facilities to determine what improvements should be made to secure employees, veterans, and continuity of services. The evaluation recommendations should include and consider other security actions and recommendations implemented by other Federal, State, and local government agencies.

* - Budget Authority (from "15-day wait" funds) includes funds for an initial purchase of irradiation equipment to sanitize the mail, costs of personnel protection equipment (gloves, masks, etc.), first response/environmental testing kits and services, site clean-up and medical goods and services, and for public education material. In May 2002, these funds were reprogrammed to allow USPS more flexibility in responding to the threat of biohazards in the mail. As of June 14, 2002, USPS had obligated the entire $175 million for these purposes.

 This Budget Authority (from P.L. 107-117, the FY 2002 Emergency Supplemental Act) is provided to protect postal employees and postal customers from exposure to biohazardous material, sanitize and screen the mail, and replace or repair Postal Service facilities destroyed or damaged in New York City as a result of the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks. USPS is permitted to obligate resources to "sanitize and screen the mail" only after it meets the congressional mandate to prepare an overall emergency preparedness plan and an expenditure plan for these resources. USPS submitted its plan the week of March 4, 2002.
