> Dear Sir/Madam:

> The transportation sector accounts for a large and growing > share of global greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions. Worldwide, > motor vehicles emit well over 900 million metric tons of CO2 > each year, accounting for more than 15 percent of global fossil > fuel CO2 releases. However to date, only a few transportation > projects have been developed and implemented specifically > with the purpose of reducing GHG emissions and participating > in international GHG reduction initiatives.

> The US Department of Energy's Clean Cities Program > (<http://www.cities.doe.gov>) is pleased to invite you to attend > a session on climate change, alternative transportation technologies,

- > and development of GHG mitigation projects in the transportation
- > sector. The session is organized as part of the 7th Annual Clean
- > Cities Conference to be held in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania,
- > May 13-16, 2001 (<http://www.ccities.doe.gov/conference.shtml>).
- >
- > The climate change session, which takes place on Wednesday,
