beginning. Unseasonable records weather patterns are now the only reliable quality of seasonal weather patterns. What have we done? Well, on with the show! This is my comment on the "Supplemental Y. M. Repository E.I.S."

I think proof indicates the Y. M. permanent nuclear waste storage project ~~is~~ cannot succeed. I really don't believe permanent storage can ever be possible. I wish it was possible. I think we are in a grave crisis. There should be a crash government program to immediately replace the energy produced by nukes with other sources (most ideally solar + hydrogen fuel sources) and other similar sources. All nuke plants should shut down in concert with that, current waste stored as safely as possible + massive increases into research on how to convert radioactive materials into non-radioactive materials, applied as soon as means are developed.

There isn't much time left. The critical Vanishing point. The point of no return is near.
