

Trading Cards

"Luck and opportunity favor the prepared!"

Name: Patricia Lorenas

Title: Science Lead, International Space Station, Cell Culture Unit

What I do: I work on a team and provide input and science oversight for the development of a cell culture system for use on the International Space Station. I report project progress, act as a liaison on diverse issues, write test plans, and insure a quality product. In addition, I oversee our labs and direct the in-house testing.

Education: AS (Associate of Science) Animal Health Technology, BA, MPA (Master of Public Administration) in progress

Experience: two years veterinary medicine, three years biotechnology industry, 12+ years research

Skills: science background, written and oral communication, interpersonal skills

Interests: family, mountain biking, gardening, reading about science discoveries

"Luck and opportunity favor the prepared!"

Name: Patricia Lorenas

Title: Science Lead, International Space Station, Cell Culture Unit

What I do: I work on a team and provide input and science oversight for the development of a cell culture system for use on the International Space Station. I report project progress, act as a liaison on diverse issues, write test plans, and insure a quality product. In addition, I oversee our labs and direct the in-house testing.

Education: AS (Associate of Science) Animal Health Technology, BA, MPA (Master of Public Administration) in progress

Experience: two years veterinary medicine, three years biotechnology industry, 12+ years research

Skills: science background, written and oral communication, interpersonal skills

Interests: family, mountain biking, gardening, reading about science discoveries

"Luck and opportunity favor the prepared!"

Name: Patricia Lorenas

Title: Science Lead, International Space Station, Cell Culture Unit

What I do: I work on a team and provide input and science oversight for the development of a cell culture system for use on the International Space Station. I report project progress, act as a liaison on diverse issues, write test plans, and insure a quality product. In addition, I oversee our labs and direct the in-house testing.

Education: AS (Associate of Science) Animal Health Technology, BA, MPA (Master of Public Administration) in progress

Experience: two years veterinary medicine, three years biotechnology industry, 12+ years research

Skills: science background, written and oral communication, interpersonal skills

Interests: family, mountain biking, gardening, reading about science discoveries

"Luck and opportunity favor the prepared!"

Name: Patricia Lorenas

Title: Science Lead, International Space Station, Cell Culture Unit

What I do: I work on a team and provide input and science oversight for the development of a cell culture system for use on the International Space Station. I report project progress, act as a liaison on diverse issues, write test plans, and insure a quality product. In addition, I oversee our labs and direct the in-house testing.

Education: AS (Associate of Science) Animal Health Technology, BA, MPA (Master of Public Administration) in progress

Experience: two years veterinary medicine, three years biotechnology industry, 12+ years research

Skills: science background, written and oral communication, interpersonal skills

Interests: family, mountain biking, gardening, reading about science discoveries

