

I signed up for the National Do Not Call List and have found it to be a resounding success for me, the average consumer. If the Telemarketing Sales Rule is changed to allow for ANY additional calls, either prerecorded or not, it would be a disaster from my point of view. With the National Do Not Call list in effect as currently implemented I have had peace in my own home. The last thing I need is more telephone calls from people I do not know trying to sell me things I do not want. My time is valuable to me and I DO NOT WANT telemarketers calling, period. What will it take for the FCC to understand this? KEEP THE RULE THE WAY IT IS!!!