

Private-Sector Jobs Lost Since Start of Recession

Source: Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor

Impact of Unemployment Rising to 10 Percent

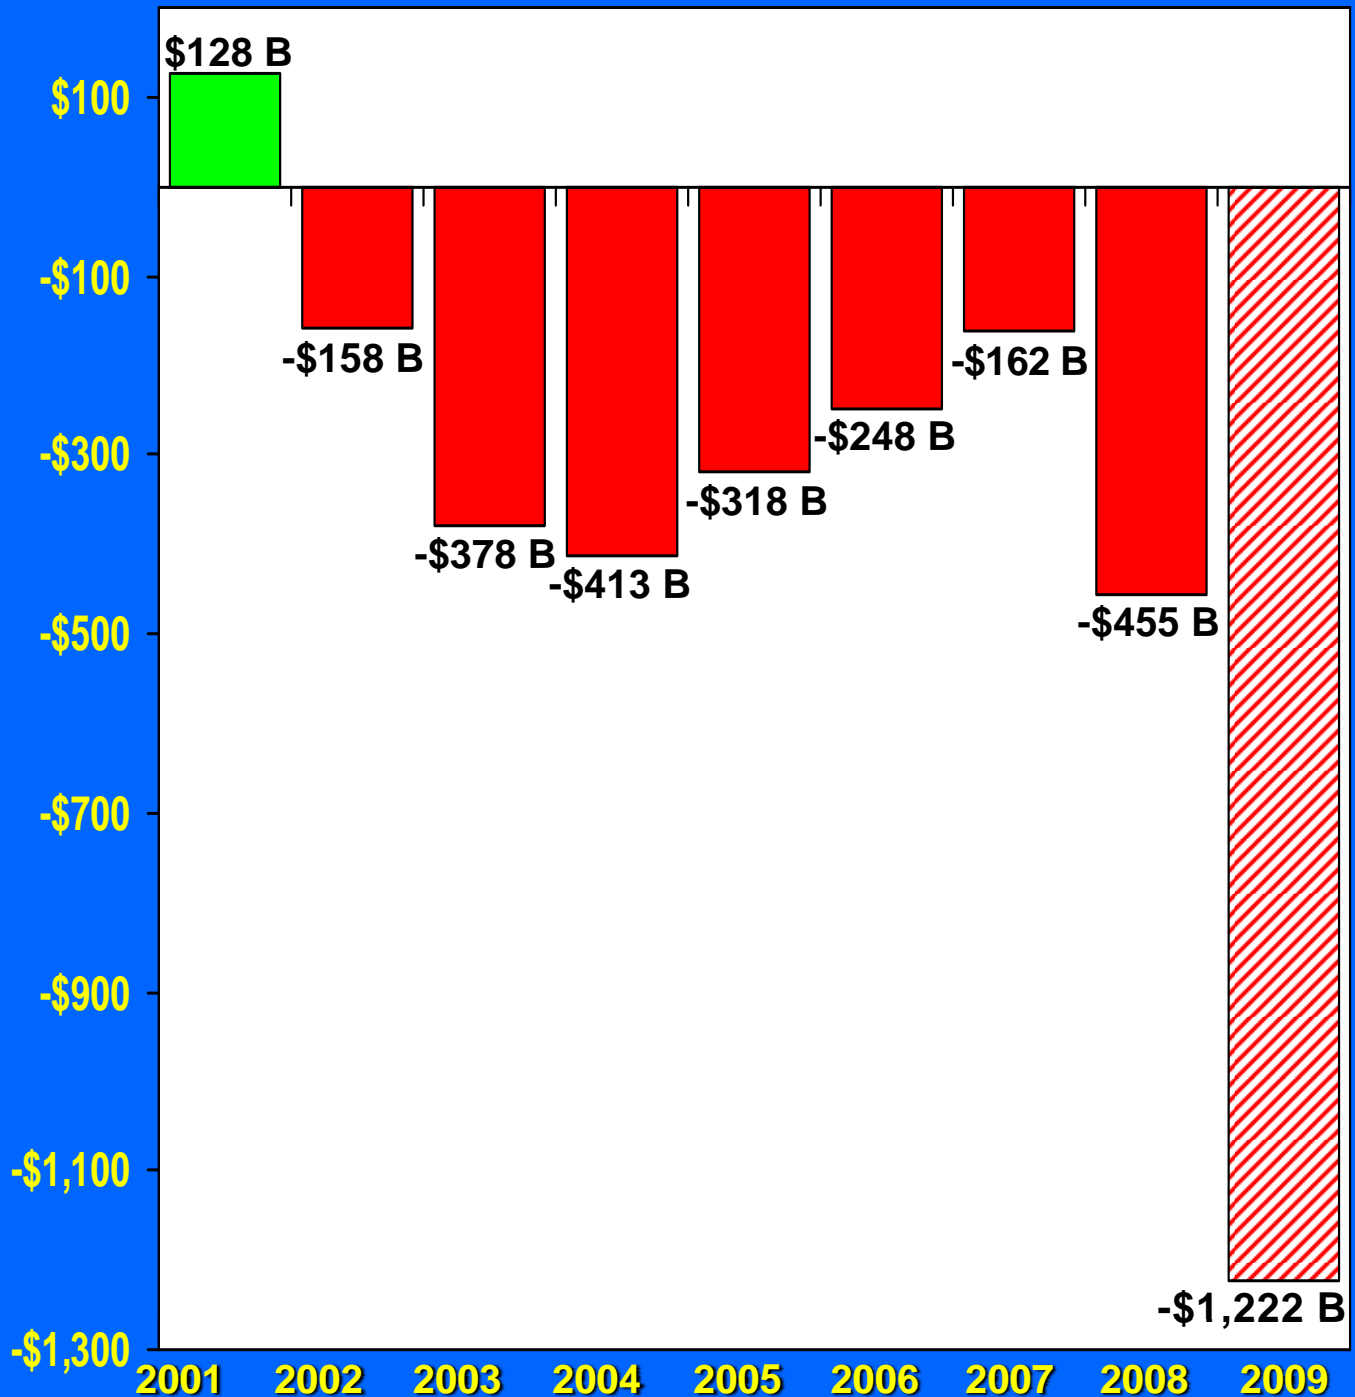

Source: Labor Department, SBC

Note: Staff calculations based on BLS data through November 2008

Dramatic Deterioration in Budget Picture

(Deficit in billions of $)

Sources: OMB, CBO

Note: 2009 estimate from CBO January Budget Outlook with tax cuts extended, AMT reform, and ongoing war costs.

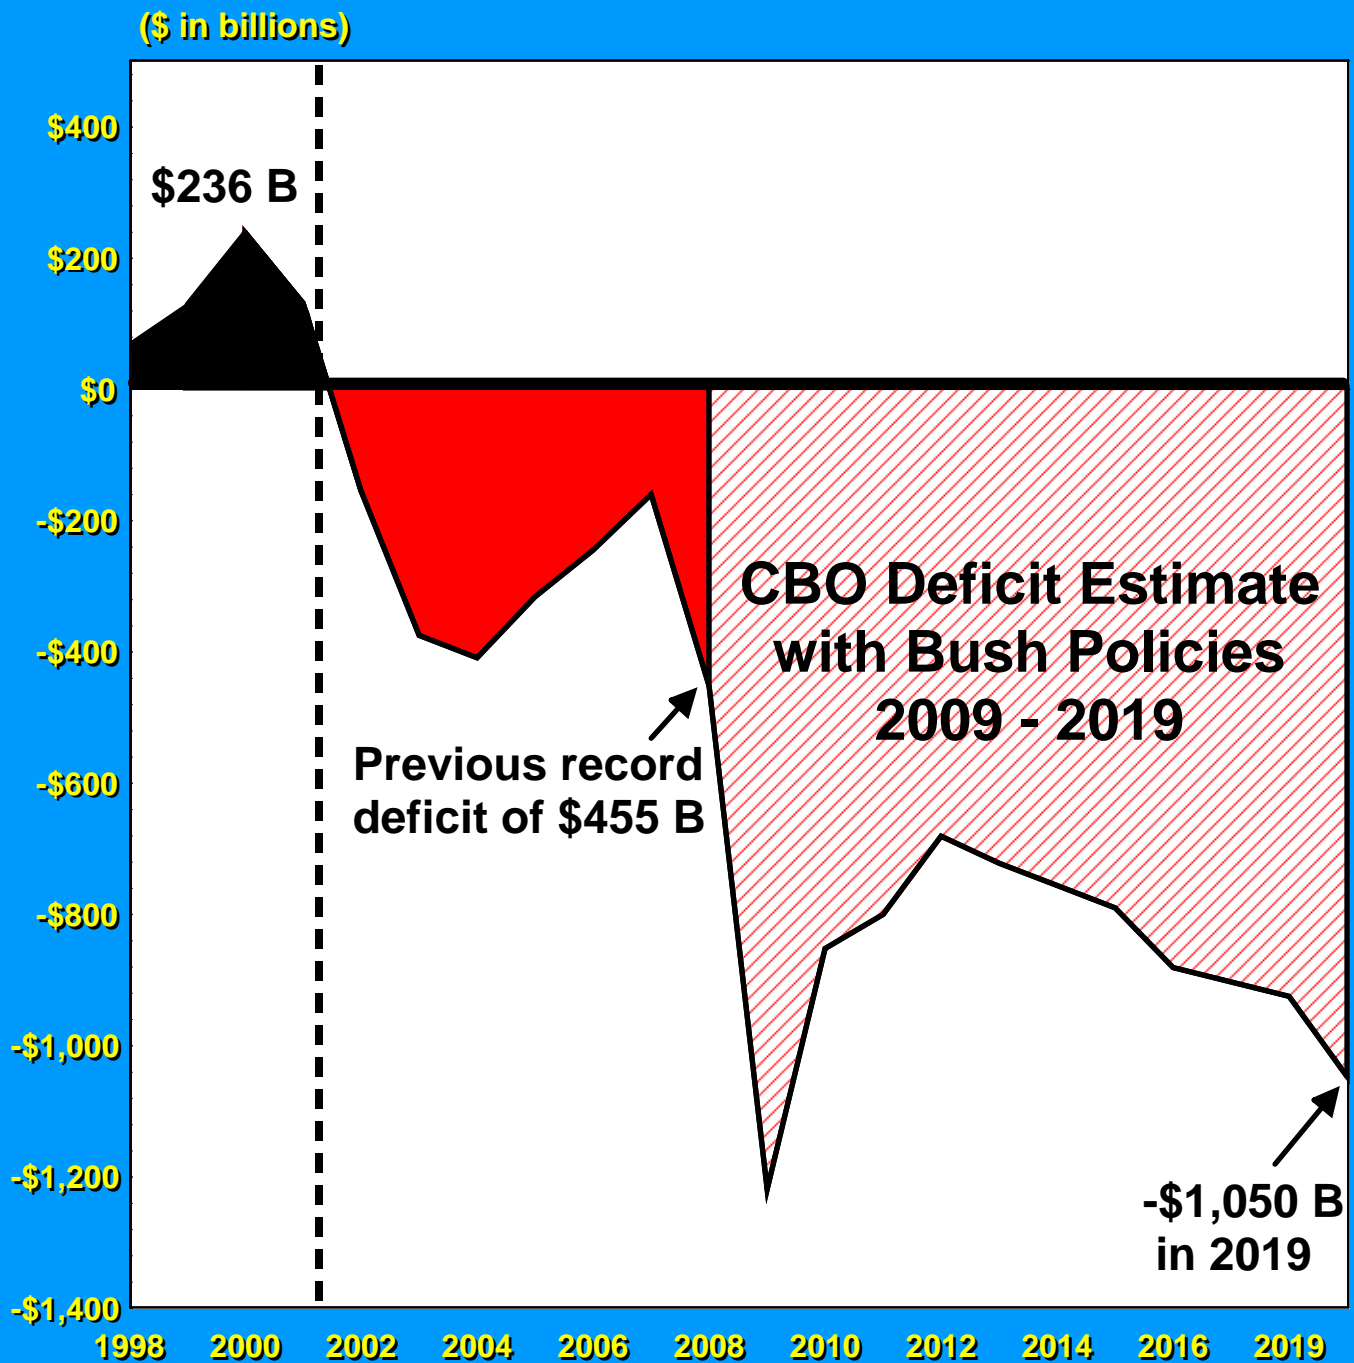

Increase in Debt in 2009 is Greater Than the $1.2 Trillion Deficit

Sources: CBO, SBC

Note: 2009 estimate from CBO January Budget Outlook with tax cuts extended, AMT reform, and ongoing war costs.

Ten-Year Budget Outlook

Sources: CBO and SBC

Note: CBO January 2009 estimate with tax cuts made permanent, AMT reform, ongoing war costs, and without extension of 2009 emergencies.

Building a Wall of Debt

Gross Federal Debt Soars

Sources: CBO, SBC

Note: 2009 estimate from CBO January Budget Outlook with tax cuts extended, AMT reform, and ongoing war costs.

Federal Debt Soars Under CBO Long-Term Budget Scenario

Source: CBO Long-Term Budget Outlook, December 2007

Note: CBO alternative fiscal scenario with tax cuts made permanent, AMT indexed for inflation, and Medicare physician payments growing with higher MEI rate.

Conrad-Gregg Bipartisan Fiscal Task Force

- To address long-term fiscal imbalance
- Panel of lawmakers and Administration officials
- Everything on table
- Fast-track consideration; Congress must vote
- Bipartisan outcome

President-elect Obama on Addressing Long-Term Fiscal Situation

“...[S]hort term, we’ve got to focus on boosting the economy and creating ... jobs, but part and parcel of that is a plan for a sustainable fiscal situation long term...”

– President-elect Barack Obama
Remarks at Press Conference
Announcing Economic Team
November 24, 2008

China Losing Taste for Debt From the U.S.

Key Lender Finds Uses for Money at Home

By KEITH BRADSHER

HONG KONG — China has bought more than $1 trillion of American debt, but as the global downturn has intensified, Beijing is starting to keep more of its money at home, a move that could have painful effects for American borrowers.

The declining Chinese appetite for United States debt, apparent in a series of hints from Chinese policy makers over the last two weeks, with official statistics due for release in the next few days, comes at an inconvenient time.

On Tuesday, President-elect Barack Obama predicted the possibility of trillion-dollar deficits “for years to come,” even after an $800 billion stimulus package. Normally, China would be the most avid taker of the debt required to pay for those deficits, mainly short-term Treasuries, which are government i.o.u.’s.

In the last five years, China has spent as much as one-seventh of its entire economic output buying foreign debt, mostly American. In September, it surpassed Japan as the largest overseas holder of Treasuries.

But now Beijing is seeking to pay for its own $600 billion stimulus — just as tax revenue is falling sharply as the Chinese economy slows. Regulators have ordered banks to lend more money to small and medium-size enterprises, many of which are struggling with lower exports, and to local governments to build new roads and other projects.

“All the key drivers of China’s Treasury purchases are disappearing — there’s a waning appetite for dollars and a waning appetite for Treasuries, and that complicates the outlook for interest rates,” said Ben Simpfordorfer, an economist in the Hong Kong office of the Royal Bank of Scotland.

Fitch Ratings, the credit rating agency, forecasts that China’s foreign reserves will increase by $177 billion this year — a large number, but down sharply from an estimated $415 billion last year.

China’s voracious demand for

Continued on Page A10