

Dear Dr. Stokes:

I am writing to add my comments regarding the use of non-animal tests as replacements for lethal dose testing in the use of chemicals. I believe it has been shown over and over that animal testing is really basically unreliable since human systems just aren't the same. Also I object vehemently to the pain and suffering we inflict on other sentient beings for our own convenience, when we do have alternatives.

Please institute a radical change and end the use of ALL animal testing in favor of the alternative and lets become a better and more sane society.

Thank you for your consideration of this issue.

Sincerely,
Sandy R. Watson
