INTRODUCTION.

---

MILITARY JURISDICTION.

Sec. I. MILITARY JURISDICTION is of four kinds:

1. Military Law; which is the legal system that regulates the government of the military establishment. It is a branch of the municipal law, and in the United States derives its existence from special constitutional grants of power.

2. The Law of Hostile Occupation (Military Government); that is, military power exercised by a belligerent by virtue of his occupation of an enemy's territory, over such territory and its inhabitants. This belongs to the Law of War and therefore to the Law of Nations. When a conquered territory is ceded to the conqueror, military government continues until civil government is established by the new sovereign.

3. Martial Law at Home (or, as a domestic fact); by which is meant, military power exercised in time of war, insurrection, or rebellion, in parts of the country retaining their allegiance, and over persons and things not ordinarily subjected to it.

4. Martial Law applied to the Army; that is, military power extending in time of war, insurrection, or rebellion over persons in the military service, as to obligations arising out of such emergency and not falling within the domain of military law, nor otherwise regulated by law.

The last two divisions are applications of the doctrine of necessity to a condition of war. They spring from the right of national self-preservation.

Sec. II. THE SOURCE OF MILITARY JURISDICTION is the Constitution; the specific provisions relating to it being found in the powers granted to Congress, in the authority vested in the President, and in a provision of the Fifth Amendment.

2. Military Law is derived from both Written and Unwritten Sources.

The Written Sources are the Articles of War, adopted as a part of the Revised Statutes of the United States in 1874 and since amended in some particulars; other statutory enactments relating to the military service; the Army Regulations; and general and special orders, and decisions promulgated by the War Department and by department, post, and other commanders.

The Unwritten Source is the "custom of war," consisting of the customs of the service both in peace and in war.

Sec. III. MILITARY TRIBUNALS are of three kinds, viz:

1. Courts-Martial (including summary courts), for the trial of offenders against military law.

2. Courts of Inquiry, for examining transactions of, or accusations or imputations against, officers or soldiers.

3. Military Commissions, for the trial of offenders against the laws of war and under martial law founded in necessity.

ARREST AND CONFINEMENT BEFORE TRIAL.<sup>1</sup>

2. "Only commanding officers have power to place officers in arrest, except as provided in the twenty-fourth Article of War. An arrest may be ordered by the commanding officer, in person or through a staff officer, orally or in writing."<sup>1</sup>

3. "An officer arrested will repair at once to his tent or quarters, and there remain until more extended limits have been granted by the commanding officer. Close confinement will not be enforced except in cases of a serious nature."<sup>2</sup>

4. "An officer in arrest will not wear a sword nor visit officially his commanding or other superior officer, unless directed to do so. His applications and requests of every nature will be made in writing."<sup>3</sup>

5. "Officers will not be placed in arrest for light offenses. For these the censure of the commanding officer will generally answer the purpose of discipline. Whenever a commanding officer places an officer in arrest and releases him without preferring charges he will make a written report of his action to the department commander, stating the cause. The department commander, if he thinks the occasion requires, will call on the officer arrested for any explanation he may desire to make, and take such other action as he may think necessary, forwarding the papers to The Adjutant General of the Army for file with the officer's record, or for further action."<sup>4</sup>

6. "In ordinary cases where inconvenience to the service would result from it, a medical officer will not be placed in arrest until the court-martial for his trial convenes."<sup>5</sup>

7. "When an officer is put in arrest for the purpose of trial, except at remote military posts or stations, the officer by whose order he is arrested shall see that a copy of the charges on which he is to be tried is served

upon him within eight days after his arrest, and that he is brought to trial within ten days thereafter, unless the necessities of the service prevent such trial; and then he shall be brought to trial within thirty days after the expiration of said ten days. If a copy of the charges be not served, or the arrested officer be not brought to trial, as herein required, the arrest shall cease. But officers released from arrest, under the provisions of this article, may be tried, whenever the exigencies of the service shall permit, within twelve months after such release from arrest."<sup>1</sup>

Sec. II. ARREST AND CONFINEMENT OF SOLDIERS.

1. Noncommissioned officers against whom charges may be preferred for trial will be placed in arrest in their barracks or quarters. They will not be confined in the guardhouse in company with privates, except in aggravated cases or where escape is feared.<sup>2</sup>

2. Noncommissioned officers in arrest will not be required to perform any duty in which they may be called upon to exercise command. Noncommissioned officers in confinement will not be sent out to work.

3. Soldiers against whom charges may be preferred for trial by summary court will not be confined in the guardhouse, but will be placed in arrest in quarters, before and during trial and while awaiting sentence, except when in particular cases restraint may be necessary.<sup>3</sup>

4. Privates against whom charges may be preferred for trial by general court-martial will be confined in the guardhouse before and during trial. While awaiting trial and sentence, or undergoing sentence, they will, if practicable, be kept apart from privates confined for minor offenses or by sentence of an inferior court.<sup>4</sup>

5. Privates in confinement awaiting trial will not be sent to work with prisoners undergoing sentence if it can be avoided; but may, in the discretion of the commanding officer, be required to attend drills or be sent to work during the usual working hours under charge of a special sentinel.<sup>1</sup>

6. Privates in arrest may, in the discretion of the commanding officer, be required to attend parades, inspections, drills, school, or other military duties and to assist in policing in and around their barracks.

7. Except as provided in the 24th Article of War, or when restraint is necessary, no soldier will be confined without the order of an officer, who shall previously inquire into his offense. Arrest or confinement without trial as a punishment for an offense is forbidden. An officer authorizing the arrest or confinement of a soldier will, as soon as practicable, report the fact to his company or detachment commander.<sup>2</sup>

SEC. III. GENERAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE ARREST OF OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS.

1. "No * * * officer commanding a guard shall refuse to receive or keep any prisoner committed to his charge by an officer belonging to the forces of the United States; provided the officer committing shall, at the same time, deliver an account in writing, signed by himself, of the crime charged against the prisoner."<sup>3</sup>
 "Every officer to whose charge a prisoner is committed shall, within twenty-four hours after such commitment, or as soon as he is relieved from his guard, report in writing,<sup>4</sup> to the commanding officer, the name of such prisoner, the crime charged against him, and the name of the officer committing him. * * *"<sup>5</sup>

2. "If there are any prisoners with no record of charges against them, the old officer of the day will report that

COURTS-MARTIAL.

COMPOSITION.

1. COURTS-MARTIAL are composed of commissioned officers only. All officers of the Regular Army, except those on the retired list,<sup>1</sup> are eligible for detail for the trial of offenders belonging to the Regular Army;<sup>2</sup> but no officer will be detailed for the trial of an officer superior to himself in rank when it can be avoided.<sup>3</sup>

2. Officers of the Regular Army and of the Marine Corps, detached for service with the Army by order of the President, may be associated together for the trial of offenders belonging to either of these bodies.<sup>4</sup> But with this exception officers of the Regular Army are not competent to sit on courts for the trial of offenders belonging to other forces.<sup>5</sup>

3. Officers of volunteers and of the militia, when the latter are called into the service of the United States, are competent to act as members of courts for the trial of regular officers or soldiers. Militia officers are also competent to sit upon courts for the trial of volunteers. But the majority membership of courts-martial for the trial of the militia must be composed of militia officers.<sup>6</sup>

4. In the United States military service, the following-named courts-martial are authorized: 1st, the "General Court-martial;" 2d, the "Summary Court;" 3d, the "Garrison Court-martial;" 4th, the "Regimental Court-martial."

<sup>6</sup>32 Stat., 776, sec. 8, as amended by sec. 6, Act of May 27, 1908 (G. O. 99 A. G. O., 1908). However, in view of the provisions of the 77th A. W. officers of the Regular Army are not competent to sit on courts-martial for the trial of militia officers.

5. The General Court-martial, being the most important, will be first considered—the others, ordinarily called “Inferior Courts-martial,” in the order named. But, as all courts-martial have much in common in regard to their jurisdiction, procedure, punishment, etc., the text may, as a rule, be regarded as apposite to all, unless the general court is specially mentioned. Exceptions in regard to jurisdiction, etc., will be made as each inferior court is considered.

6. A General Court-martial may consist of any number of members from five to thirteen, inclusive, and a judge-advocate; but of not less than thirteen members when this number can be convened without manifest injury to the service.<sup>1</sup> When, in the course of a trial, the court is reduced in number by reason of absence, challenge, or the relieving of members, it may proceed with business so long as five members remain. When from any cause a general court is reduced below the minimum, five, it can transact no other business than to direct the judge-advocate to report the fact to the convening authority and to adjourn to await further orders. In such a case, if the trial has not been entered upon, new members may be added; but if any testimony has been taken, the court should preferably be dissolved and a new one ordered.<sup>2</sup>

CONSTITUTION.

1. The President is empowered to institute general courts-martial—1st, as Commander-in-Chief of the Army, under the Constitution; 2d, in the special contingency mentioned in the next paragraph; 3d, in the particular cases provided for by section 1230, Revised Statutes.

2. Any general officer commanding an army, a territorial division, or a department, or colonel commanding a separate department, may appoint a general court-martial whenever necessary.<sup>3</sup> But when any such commander is the accuser or prosecutor of any officer under his command the court must be appointed by the President.<sup>1</sup> In time of war this power is extended to the commander of a tactical division or of a separate brigade; but in this case when such commander is the accuser of any person under his command the court must be appointed by the next higher commander.<sup>2</sup>

3. The Superintendent of the United States Military Academy has power to convene general courts-martial for the trial of cadets, subject to the same limitations and conditions now existing as to other courts-martial.<sup>3</sup>

4. The officer who appoints a court-martial—general, garrison, or regimental—may dissolve it, and control its existence, but not the subject-matter of its deliberations. In the absence of special orders or legislation to that effect, personal presence within the territorial limits of his department is not essential to the validity of commands given by a department commander to be executed within such limits, such, for instance, as the appointment of a court-martial.<sup>4</sup>

JURISDICTION.

Sec. I. Courts-martial derive their existence solely from acts of Congress, and their jurisdiction is limited to the purpose of the maintenance of military discipline. Their decisions, within their jurisdiction, are not reviewable by any courts whatever.<sup>5</sup> The 30th Article of War relates to an exceptional procedure, not necessary to consider in this connection.

2. Courts-martial have exclusive jurisdiction to try acts constituting military offenses only, and also jurisdiction to try acts which, besides constituting military offenses, are civil crimes. In the latter case the military

<sup>4</sup> See par. 193, A. R. The authority to convene a court-martial or to relieve or detail members, etc., can not be delegated to a staff officer during the absence from his department of the commander (Digest Opin. J. A. G., § 185).

ordinarily gives precedence to the civil court; in general, however, that jurisdiction which has first fully attached is properly allowed to have the precedence, and when an officer or a soldier has been arraigned before a duly constituted court-martial for an offense triable by it, the jurisdiction thus attached can not be set aside by the process of a State court.<sup>1</sup>

3. As regards persons, courts-martial have jurisdiction, at all times and in all places, over officers and soldiers of any troops, whether militia or others, mustered and in pay of the United States,<sup>2</sup> over officers and soldiers of the marines, when detached for service with the Army,<sup>3</sup> over persons who fraudulently enlist in the service of the United States and receive pay or allowance thereunder,<sup>4</sup> and over offenders, in general, to whom, owing to the commission of a crime, military jurisdiction has legally attached—as by an arrest or confinement—before expiration of term of service, provided such jurisdiction is not terminated by their discharge. This jurisdiction over persons in the military service covers all military offenses committed by them, whether within or beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the United States. Military offenses are not territorial.

4. As a rule, military jurisdiction ends when a soldier is discharged. The present exceptions to this rule are, discharged officers and soldiers guilty of fraud against the United States under the 60th Article of War; discharged officers granted trial after summary dismissal, under section 1230, Revised Statutes; and military convicts.<sup>5</sup>

---

<sup>1</sup> See Digest Opin. J. A. G., § 1036, and notes. Par. 963, A. R., provides that "in order that military jurisdiction may promptly vest, charges will be preferred immediately in every case that is subject to military jurisdiction but in which the offense is of such a nature that it is possible for the civil courts also to claim jurisdiction."

<sup>4</sup> Act of July 27, 1892; see G. O. 57, A. G. O. 1892. A fraudulent enlistment is an enlistment procured by means of a willful misrepresentation in regard to a qualification or disqualification for enlistment, or by intentional concealment of a disqualification, which has had the effect of causing the enlistment of a man not qualified to be a soldier, and who but for such false representation or concealment would have been rejected.

5. In time of war this jurisdiction extends to "all retainers to the camp and all persons serving with the armies of the United States in the field, though not enlisted soldiers;"<sup>1</sup> to any person who "relieves the enemy with money, victuals, or ammunition, or knowingly harbors or protects an enemy;"<sup>2</sup> or who "holds correspondence with, or gives intelligence to, the enemy, either directly or indirectly;"<sup>3</sup> and to spies.<sup>4</sup>

6. As regards offenses, the jurisdiction embraces, the offenses specifically defined in the Articles of War, or included under the general terms of the 61st and 62d articles; the offense of military persons trading with the enemy,<sup>5</sup> and that of fraudulently enlisting in the service of the United States.<sup>6</sup>

7. A court having once duly assumed jurisdiction of an offense and person, can not, by any wrongful act of the accused, be ousted of its authority or discharged from its duty to proceed fully to try and determine, according to law and its oath. Thus the fact that, pending the trial, the accused has escaped from military custody, furnishes no ground for not proceeding to a finding, and, in the event of conviction, to a sentence, in the case; and the court may and should find and sentence as in any other case.

Sec. II. General Courts-Martial have, as regards persons and with reference to other courts-martial, exclusive jurisdiction over officers,<sup>7</sup> cadets,<sup>8</sup> and "candidates for promotion."<sup>9</sup> Over enlisted men, other than candidates for promotion, and military convicts, they have concurrent jurisdiction with the inferior courts<sup>10</sup> in cases cognizable by the latter.<sup>11</sup>

<sup>10</sup> They have concurrent jurisdiction with garrison and regimental courts-martial in time of war over the persons mentioned in the 63d A. W.

<sup>11</sup> Par. 967, A. R., prescribes that noncommissioned officers will not, if they object thereto, be brought to trial before regimental, garrison, or summary court-martial without the authority of the officer competent to order their trial by general court-martial. See also act approved June 18, 1898, page 130, post.

2. As regards offenses,<sup>1</sup> they have exclusive jurisdiction over all offenses punishable capitally,<sup>2</sup> and over those set forth in the 58th Article, when committed in time of war. Over other offenses they have concurrent jurisdiction with the inferior courts; but all offenses for which the limit of punishment is in excess of the limits of the punishing power of an inferior court, as well as all serious noncapital offenses for which limits of punishment have not been prescribed, will, when practicable, be tried by general court-martial.

CHARGES AND SPECIFICATIONS.

Sec. I. A military charge corresponds to a civil indictment. It consists of two parts—the technical “charge,” which designates the alleged offense in general terms, and the “specification,” which sets forth the facts constituting the same. The requisite of a charge is, that it shall be laid under the proper Article of War or other statute; of a specification, that it shall set forth facts sufficient to constitute the particular offense. Under the general term “charges,” any number of technical charges and their specifications may be included.

2. When an Article of War relates to but one kind of offense, the charge may be laid as a violation of such article. If the offense has a technical name or description known to the service, such as “Desertion,” “Absence-without-leave,” “Sleeping on post,” etc., it may be charged simply as such, or, preferably, also laid under the appropriate Article of War. A charge laid under the 61st Article of War will properly describe the offense as “conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.” A charge laid under the 62d Article of War may give the name or description of the offense, alleging it to be “in violation of the 62d Article of War,” or may describe it as “conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline.”

3. When an offense is specifically provided for in an Article of War the charge will be laid under that article and not under the 62d Article. Especially is it wrong to lay a charge under the 62d Article when the offense falls under an article which prescribes a fixed punishment.

4. In case of an absence from any appointed parade, drill, or other exercise, but not from the limits of the post, the charge should be laid under the 33d Article of War; in case of absence from the post, or command, under the 32d; and sometimes, in order that the court may be able to judge of the full nature of the offense, under both, as when some duty, other than an ordinary roll call, is neglected; e. g., when a soldier, regularly detailed for guard, absents himself not only from guard mounting but also from his post.

5. Soldiers found drunk on any guard, party, or other duty after having actually entered upon such duty, but not until then discovered to be drunk, should be charged with violation of the 38th Article of War.

6. In preferring charges against an enlisted man who has coupled with desertion a later fraudulent enlistment, there will be added to the usual specification setting forth the desertion, an additional one setting forth the offense of desertion by reenlisting without a regular discharge from his former regiment, troop, battery, or company. The specifications to the charges of desertion and fraudulent enlistment will set forth the offenses under the original name and organization, and include the other name, etc., under an alias.<sup>1</sup>

7. Accused persons will not be joined in the same charge, nor tried on joint charges, unless for concert of action in an offense. To warrant the joining of several persons in the same charge, the offense must be such as requires for its commission a combination and must have been committed in concert, in pursuance of a common intent.

8. As to whether an act which is a civil crime is also a military offense no rule can be laid down which will cover all cases, for the reason that what may be a military offense under certain circumstances may lose that character under others. For instance, larceny by a soldier from a civilian is not always a military crime, but it may become such in consequence of the particular features, surroundings, or locality of the act. What these may be can not be anticipated with a sweeping rule, comprehensive enough to provide for every possible conjunction of circumstances. Each case must be considered on its own facts. But if the act be committed on a military reservation, or other ground occupied by the army, or in its neighborhood, so as to be in the constructive presence of the army; or if committed while on duty, particularly if the injury be to a member of the community whom it is the offender's duty to protect; or if committed in the presence of other soldiers, or while in uniform; or if the offender use his military position, or that of another, for the purpose of intimidation or other unlawful influence or object—such facts would be sufficient to make it prejudicial to military discipline within the meaning of the 62d Article of War.

Sec. II. The specification need not possess the technical nicety of an indictment at common law. A bald statement of facts is sufficient, provided the legal offense itself be distinctly and accurately described.<sup>1</sup>

2. In order that the accused may be left in no doubt as to the precise offense with which he is charged, the time and place of the commission of the offense should be stated as accurately as possible. When any doubt exists as to the exact date and locality, it may be stated that the act specified was committed "on or about" a certain time, or "at or near" a given place. In preparing several specifications under one charge, the time and place of the alleged offense should be given in each.

Sec. III. Many of the Articles of War include two or more offenses. When a charge is to be laid under such an article, the particular offense committed should be stated. A specification in an alternative form is bad pleading. For example, it is wrong to allege "selling or through neglect losing," in violation of the 17th Article of War.

2. The prosecution is at liberty to charge an act under two or more forms, when it is doubtful under which it will more properly be brought by the testimony. In the military practice, the accused is not entitled to call upon the prosecution to elect under which charge it will proceed in such, or indeed in any, case.

Sec. IV. "Before forwarding charges they will be carefully investigated by the commanding officer, or an officer designated by him, other than the officer preferring the charges, and in forwarding the charges the name of the officer making the investigation will be noted in the commanding officer's indorsement. The commanding officer will state in his indorsement whether or not, in his opinion, the charges can be sustained."<sup>1</sup> Before referring to summary courts charges for which the maximum limit of punishment that may be awarded is greater than one month's forfeiture and confinement, commanding officers will cause the accused to sign a statement on the charge sheet as to whether or not he consents to trial by summary court. A note of this statement in each case will also be entered on the monthly report of trials by such court.

2. Charges against an enlisted man forwarded to the authority ordering a general court-martial, or submitted to a summary, garrison, or regimental court, must be accompanied by the proper evidence of previous convictions.<sup>2</sup> "General courts-martial will consider only such evidence of previous convictions as is referred to them by the convening authority."<sup>3</sup>

3. Charges against an enlisted man forwarded to the authority competent to order a general court-martial for his trial will also be accompanied by a statement of service<sup>1</sup> in accordance with the form given on page 145, post. In case of a deserter the surgeon's report required by paragraph 125, Army Regulations, will also be forwarded with the charges.<sup>2</sup>

Sec. V. After charges have been formally referred by competent authority to a court-martial for trial, the court is not authorized in its discretion and upon its own motion, to strike out a charge or specification, or to direct or permit the judge-advocate to drop, or withdraw, such charge or specification, or to enter a nolle prosequi as to the same. For such action the authority of the convening officer is requisite. Where, however, by a special plea or objection, an issue is made by the accused as to the sufficiency of any charge and specification, the court, without referring the question to the convening officer, is empowered to sustain the plea or objection, and quash or strike out the charge.

2. Charges should be signed by a commissioned officer, but a contract surgeon or dental surgeon may sign charges against an enlisted man.<sup>3</sup>

ADDITIONAL CHARGES.

1. After the accused has been arraigned upon certain charges, has pleaded thereto, and the trial on the same has been entered upon, new and additional charges, which the accused has had no notice to defend, can not be introduced or the accused required to plead thereto. Such charges should be made the subject of a separate trial, upon which the accused may be enabled properly to exercise the right of challenge to the members of the court and effectively to plead and defend.

ORGANIZATION.

1. The authority appointing a court-martial designates the place for holding the court, the hour of meeting, the members of the court, and a judge-advocate.<sup>4</sup>

2. Courts will be assembled at posts or stations where trial or examination will be attended with the least expense. They will, as far as practicable, hold their sessions so as to interfere least with ordinary routine duties.

3. A general court-martial assembles at its first session in accordance with the order convening it; thereafter, according to adjournment. The members wear dress uniform, or service uniform in commands not provided with dress uniform, with their sabers; the judge-advocate and the accused appear in the same uniform as the court without side arms. Military witnesses wear the same uniform as the court with side arms. The accused should not be brought before the court in irons, unless there are good reasons to believe that he will attempt to escape or to conduct himself in a violent manner; but the fact that a prisoner has been tried in irons can not, in any case, affect the validity of the proceedings.

4. When the court is ready to proceed, the members take seats at a table provided for their use; the president sits at the head of the table and the other members at his right and left alternately, according to rank. The judge-advocate sits at the foot of the table or at a separate table; the accused and his counsel at a table provided for them and placed in a convenient position. A witness, when testifying, is seated near the judge-advocate, and the reporter at a table placed near the witness' chair.

5. The order of procedure is given in detail in the "form for record of a general court-martial," page 144, post. During the reading of the order convening the court and the arraignment, the judge-advocate and the accused should stand; while the court and the judge-advocate are being sworn, all stand; when a reporter, an interpreter, or a witness is being sworn, he and the judge-advocate should stand; and when the judge-advocate, the accused, or his counsel addresses the court, he should rise.

6. The organization of the court is complete on the swearing in of the members and the judge-advocate.

THE MEMBERS.

1. Members of a court-martial will be named in the order appointing it, in accordance with their rank. They will sit according to rank as announced, and will "behave with decency and calmness."<sup>1</sup> A court-martial has no power to punish its members, but a member is liable for improper conduct as for any other offense against military discipline. Improper words used by a member should be taken down in writing, and any disorderly conduct reported to the appointing authority.<sup>2</sup>

Reading of newspapers or other evidence of inattention by members of a court-martial during its sessions constitutes a violation of duty to the prejudice of good order and military discipline. It is the duty of the president of the court to admonish against such inattention, and charges may be preferred against a member who does not heed the admonition.

2. "Members of a court-martial, in giving their votes, shall begin with the youngest in commission."<sup>3</sup> In all deliberations the law secures the equality of the members.

3. When a member is prevented from attending a session of the court he will communicate the cause to the judge-advocate, so that the same may be entered in the record of proceedings. If he fails to do so it is the duty of the president at the next meeting of the court to call upon him for such explanation as he may desire to make.

4. A member stationed at the place where a court-martial sits is liable to duty with his command during adjournment of the court from day to day.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>3</sup> 95th A. W. A tie vote on the findings is a vote of "not guilty;" a tie vote on a proposed sentence or on any objection or motion is a vote in the negative. The sentence is not adopted, and the objection or motion is not sustained.

THE PRESIDENT.

1. "A president of the court will not be announced. The officer highest in rank present will act as president."<sup>1</sup> Besides his duties and privileges as a member, the president is the organ of the court to maintain order and conduct its business. He speaks and acts for the court in every instance where a rule of action has been prescribed by law, regulations, or its own resolution. He administers the oath to the judge-advocate and authenticates by his signature all acts, orders, and proceedings of the court requiring it.

THE JUDGE-ADVOCATE.

1. "The judge-advocate * * shall prosecute in the name of the United States, but when the prisoner has made his plea he shall so far consider himself counsel for the prisoner as to object to any leading question to any of the witnesses, and to any question to the prisoner, the answer to which might tend to criminate himself."<sup>2</sup>

2. Before the court assembles the judge-advocate should note and report to the convening authority any irregularity in the order convening the court and see that the charges are technically and correctly drawn. He may ordinarily correct obvious mistakes of form, or slight errors in name, dates, amounts, etc., but he should not, without the authority of the convening officer, make substantial amendments in the allegations, or—least of all—reject or withdraw a charge or specification, or enter a nolle prosequi as to the same, or substitute a new and distinct charge for one transmitted to him for trial.

3. The judge-advocate should acquaint the prisoner with the accusations against him, inform him of his right to have counsel,<sup>3</sup> and to testify in his own behalf, and furnish him with a copy of the charges, if desired. He may ask a prisoner how he intends to plead; but, when the accused is an enlisted man, he should in no case try to induce him to plead guilty or leave him to infer that if he does so his punishment will be lighter. When the accused determines to plead guilty the judge-advocate should advise him of his right to introduce evidence in explanation of his offense, and should assist him in securing it; and if the charge be desertion, the judge-advocate should satisfy himself that the accused understands that such plea will be an admission of his unauthorized absence with the intention of not returning.

4. The judge-advocate should also, before the court assembles, obtain a suitable room for the court, see that it is in order, procure the requisite stationery, summon necessary witnesses,<sup>1</sup> make a preliminary examination of the latter, and as far as possible systematize his plans for conducting the case.

5. During the trial the judge-advocate conducts the case for the Government. He executes all orders of the court; reads the convening order to the accused; swears the members of the court, the reporter, interpreter, and all witnesses; arraigns the accused; examines witnesses; keeps, or superintends the keeping of, a complete and accurate record of the proceedings,<sup>2</sup> and affixes his signature to each day's proceedings.<sup>3</sup> In conjunction with the president of the court he authenticates the record by his signature,<sup>3</sup> and at the end of the trial transmits the same to the convening authority.<sup>4</sup> Whenever, by reason of the death or disability of the judge-advocate occurring after the court has decided on the sentence, the record can not be authenticated by his signature, it must show that it has been formally approved by the court and must be authenticated by the signature of the president.<sup>5</sup>

6. While the court is in open session the judge-advocate should respectfully call the attention of the court to any illegalities in its action, and to any irregularities in its proceedings. He should act as legal adviser of the court so far as to give his opinion upon any point of law arising during the trial, when it is asked for by the court, but not otherwise.

7. When a court sits in closed session the judge-advocate will withdraw, and when his legal advice or assistance is required, it will be obtained in open court.<sup>1</sup>

8. Throughout the trial the judge-advocate should do his utmost to present the whole truth of the matter in question. He should oppose every attempt to suppress facts or to torture them into false shapes, to the end that the evidence may so exhibit the case that the court may render impartial justice.

9. The judge-advocate should regard his duty toward the accused as not strictly limited by the 90th Article of War, and when the latter is ignorant and without counsel the judge-advocate should take care that he does not suffer upon the trial from any ignorance or misconception of his legal rights, and has full opportunity to interpose such pleas and make such defense as may best bring out the facts, the merits, or the extenuating circumstances of his case.

10. Whenever the court adjourns to meet at the call of the president, the judge-advocate will notify the members of the time designated by the president for reassembling.

COUNSEL.

1. The accused is not of right entitled to counsel, but the privilege is almost invariably conceded, and if refused, such refusal may be ground for the disapproval of the proceedings.<sup>2</sup>

2. The commanding officer of a post where a general court-martial is convened will, at the request of any prisoner who is to be arraigned, detail a suitable officer as counsel for the defense. If there be no such officer

<sup>1</sup> Par. 956, A. R.

available for detail the fact will be reported to the authority appointing the court for his action.<sup>1</sup>

3. An officer detailed as counsel for a soldier before a general court-martial should guard the interests of the accused by all honorable and legitimate means known to the law, so far as they are not inconsistent with military relations.<sup>2</sup> He should not obstruct the proceedings with frivolous or manifestly useless objections.

4. If the judge-advocate keeps the record in longhand the counsel will be required to reduce his questions and arguments to writing; but if the court has a stenographic reporter the counsel will be allowed to question witnesses and address the court orally.

REPORTER.

1. "The commanding officer will detail, when necessary, a suitable enlisted man as clerk to assist the judge-advocate of a general court-martial, or military commission, or the recorder of a court of inquiry."<sup>3</sup>

2. "A judge-advocate of a general court-martial or military commission, and a recorder of a court of inquiry, when appointed by a general officer or a colonel exercising the command of a general officer, may employ when authorized by the convening authority, a stenographic reporter, who shall be paid at the following rates of compensation by the Pay Department on vouchers certified to be correct by the judge-advocate or recorder, who will forward a copy of the same with the record:

“Ten (10) cents for each 100 words for copying papers material to the inquiry, and two (2) cents for each 100 words for each carbon copy of the same, when ordered by the court or commission for its use.

“Two (2) cents for each 100 words for the second and each additional carbon copy of the record when authorized by the convening authority.

“Except for such part of the journey as may be covered by Government transportation, mileage at the rate authorized for a civilian witness not in Government employ, and three ($3.00) dollars a day for expenses when the judge-advocate or recorder keeps him at his own expense, away from his usual place of employment for twenty-four hours or more, on public business referred to the court or commission, shall be allowed the reporter for himself, and when ordered by the court or commission, for each necessary assistant.

“The judge-advocate or recorder shall require the reporter to furnish the typewritten record of the proceedings of each session of the court or commission with one carbon copy of the same not later than twenty-four hours after the adjournment of that session. The complete record to be finished, indexed, bound, and ready for authentication not later than forty-eight hours after the completion of its action by the court or commission on the merits of the case or hearing.”<sup>3</sup>

<sup>2</sup>The carbon copy is for use of the judge-advocate and the court during the trial, and, if accused desires, it should, after being corrected, completed and certified as a true copy, except as to findings, sentence, and exhibits not copied, be furnished to him. When this is done a certificate to that effect will accompany the record. If not furnished to the accused it will be transmitted direct to the Judge-Advocate-General of the Army.

3. Reporters are selected and employed by the judge-advocate of the court, and will be paid by the Pay Department on the certificate of the judge-advocate.<sup>1</sup>

4. "No person in the military or civil service of the Government can lawfully receive extra compensation for clerical duties performed for a military court."<sup>2</sup>

INTERPRETER.

1. "Interpreters to courts-martial are paid by the Pay Department upon the certificate of the judge-advocate that they were employed by order of the court. They will be allowed the pay and allowances of civilian witnesses."<sup>3</sup>

CHALLENGE.

1. "Members of a court-martial may be challenged by a prisoner, but only for cause stated to the court. The court shall determine the relevancy and validity thereof, and shall not receive a challenge to more than one member at a time."<sup>4</sup> Under the custom of the service the judge-advocate may also challenge for cause.

2. A positive declaration by the challenged member that he is not prejudiced against the accused, nor interested in the case, is ordinarily satisfactory to the accused, and, in the absence of material evidence in support of the objection, will justify the court in overruling it. If, however, the statement is unsatisfactory, or the member makes no response, the accused may offer testimony in support of his objection or may subject the challenged member to an examination by interrogatories in the same manner that a juror is examined in criminal courts. If the accused desires that the challenged member be put on his voir dire, the judge-advocate will administer the oath before the court is sworn.

3. Courts should be liberal in passing upon challenges, but they will not entertain an objection that is not specific, nor one upon the mere assertion of the accused, if it is not admitted by the challenged member. A challenge upon the ground, admitted or proven, that a member preferred the charges or is a material witness in support thereof, or that he has investigated the charges and expressed the opinion that they can be established, should be sustained by the court.

4. The court of itself can not excuse a member in the absence of a challenge. A member, not challenged, who thinks himself disqualified, can be relieved only by application to the convening authority. No member who has been absent during the taking of evidence shall thereafter take part in the trial; but this provision shall not be construed as invalidating the proceedings of courts-martial if no objection is made, and the court permits the member to sit, but is to be regarded as a requirement which should always be complied with when practicable. Especially should a member who has been absent during an important part of the proceedings not be permitted to resume his seat.

5. The judge-advocate is not challengeable; but in case of personal interest in the trial he should apply to the convening authority to be relieved.

OATHS.<sup>1</sup>

Of Members.—The judge-advocate shall administer to each member before the court proceeds upon any trial, the following oath, which shall also be taken by all members of regimental and garrison courts-martial:

“ You, A B, do swear that you will well and truly try and determine, according to evidence, the matter now before you, between the United States of America and the prisoner to be tried, and that you will duly administer justice, without partiality, favor, or affection, according to the provisions of the rules and articles for the government of the armies of the United States, and if any doubt should arise, not explained by said articles, then according to your conscience, the best of your understanding, and the custom of war in like cases; and you do further swear that you will not divulge the sentence of the court until it shall be published by the proper authority, except to the judge-advocate; neither will you disclose or discover the vote or opinion of any particular member of the court-martial, unless required to give evidence thereof, as a witness, by a court of justice, in a due course of law. So help you God.”<sup>1</sup>

2. Of the Judge-Advocate.--When the oath has been administered to the members of a court-martial, the president of the court shall administer to the judge-advocate, or person officiating as such, an oath in the following form:<sup>2</sup>

“ You, A B, do swear that you will not disclose or discover the vote or opinion of any particular member of the court-martial, unless required to give evidence thereof, as a witness, by a court of justice, in due course of law; nor divulge the sentence of the court to any but the proper authority, until it shall be duly disclosed by the same. So help you God.”<sup>3</sup>

3. Of Witness.--All persons who give evidence before a court-martial shall be examined on oath, or affirmation, in the following form:

“ You swear (or affirm) that the evidence you shall give, in the case now in hearing, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. So help you God.”<sup>1</sup>

4. Of Reporter.—“You swear that you will faithfully perform the duties of reporter to this court. So help you God.”

5. Of Interpreter.—“You swear that you will truly interpret in the case now in hearing. So help you God.”

6. Voir Dire.—“You swear that you will true answers make to questions touching your competency as a member of the court (or witness) in this case. So help you God.”

7. Judge-advocates of departments and of courts-martial, and the trial officers of summary courts, are authorized to administer oaths for the purposes of military justice, and for other purposes of military administration.<sup>2</sup>

8. “Any officer or clerk of any of the departments lawfully detailed to investigate frauds on, or attempts to defraud, the Government, or any irregularity or misconduct of any officer or agent of the United States, and any officer of the Army detailed to conduct an investigation, and the recorder, and if there be none the presiding officer of any military board appointed for such purpose, shall have authority to administer an oath to any witness attending to testify or depose in the course of such investigation.”<sup>3</sup>

POSTPONEMENT.

1. If, before the accused is arraigned, a postponement is necessary, application therefor should properly be made to the convening authority. The court may, during trial, “for reasonable cause, grant a continuance to either party, for such time, and as often as may appear to be just: Provided, That if the prisoner be in close confinement, the trial shall not be delayed for a period longer than sixty days."<sup>1</sup>

2. Upon application by the accused for a postponement or a continuance because of the absence of a witness, it should distinctly appear, on his oath, that the witness is material, and why, and that the accused has used due diligence to procure his attendance, and has reasonable ground to believe, and does believe, that he will be able to procure such attendance within a reasonable time stated.

3. Application for extended delay will, when practicable, be made to the authority appointing the court. When made to the court, if in the opinion of the court it is well founded, it will be referred to the convening authority to decide whether the court shall be adjourned or dissolved.

ARRAIGNMENT.

1. The court being organized, and both parties ready to proceed, the judge-advocate will read the charges and specifications, separately and in order, to the accused, and ask him how he pleads to each—"guilty," or "not guilty." The order pursued, in case of several charges or specifications, will be to arraign on the first, second, etc., specifications to the first charge, then on the first charge, and so on with the rest.<sup>2</sup>

PLEAS.

1. Ordinarily the plea of the accused is "guilty" or "not guilty" to each charge and specification; or, guilty of a specification excepting certain words, and of the excepted words not guilty; or, as when charged with an offense which includes a lesser one of kindred degree, guilty to the specification except certain words, substituting therefor certain others, and to the charge not guilty, but guilty of the lesser kindred offense.<sup>3</sup>

2. A plea of guilty does not necessarily exclude evidence. In cases of discretionary punishment,<sup>1</sup> a full knowledge of the circumstances attending the offense is essential to the court in measuring the punishment, and to the convening authority in acting on the sentence. It is, therefore, proper for the court to take evidence after a plea of guilty, except when the specification is so descriptive as to disclose all the circumstances of mitigation or aggravation.

3. In all cases after a plea of guilty, the accused will be permitted to offer evidence in mitigation of the offense charged; and if the offense be desertion, it should appear of record that he understood his plea to admit the intention to abandon his enlistment and not merely an unauthorized absence.<sup>2</sup>

4. When testimony is heard after a plea of "guilty," the witnesses may be cross-examined, evidence may be produced to rebut their testimony, evidence as to character may be offered, and the court may be addressed in extenuation of the offense or in mitigation of punishment.

5. When the accused pleads "guilty" and, without any evidence being introduced, makes a statement inconsistent with his plea, the statement and plea will be considered together, and if guilt is not conclusively admitted, the court will direct the entry of a plea of "not guilty," and proceed to try the case on the general issue thus made.

6. If the prisoner, from obstinacy or deliberate design, stands mute, or answers foreign to the purpose, the court will proceed to trial and judgment as if the prisoner had pleaded "not guilty."<sup>3</sup>

7. Instead of pleading to the general issue, the accused may interpose a special plea either to the jurisdiction, in abatement, or in bar of trial,<sup>4</sup> or he may make either of these special pleas to any specification, presenting reasons why he should not be tried on it. The burden of substantiating such pleas rests on the accused. Both sides should be heard, and the proceedings under the plea recorded. If the plea in bar of trial be found valid, the court will report its decision to the convening authority and await further instructions; if, by the special plea, an issue is made, the court is empowered to sustain or overrule the plea;<sup>1</sup> when a special plea is made and overruled, the accused will be required to plead to the general issue.

8. A second enlistment in the service of the United States, when the first has not been fulfilled, is not void, but voidable at the option of the United States only; so that a man who, whilst serving under such a second enlistment, commits an offense, can not successfully plead the fraudulent character of his second enlistment in bar of trial. Paragraph 132, Army Regulations, relates to soldiers not charged with crime who are discovered to be deserters from the Navy or Marine Corps, and does not interpose any obstacle to trial by court-martial for offenses committed while in the military service.

9. The statute of limitation (103d Article of War) is not prohibitory as to jurisdiction,<sup>2</sup> but is properly a matter of defense, which, to be effective, must be pleaded and proved, or, in some express manner, taken advantage of on the evidence.

ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES.

Sec. I. "The judge-advocate will summon the necessary witnesses for the trial, but will not summon witnesses at the expense of the Government without the order of the court unless satisfied that their testimony is material and necessary."<sup>3</sup>

2. The accused is, in general, entitled to have all the material witnesses for his defense summoned; except when their testimony would be merely cumulative, and evidently add nothing to the strength of his case. As far as possible, he should be allowed a full and free defense, as the least denial to him of any proper facility, opportunity, or latitude for it may serve to defeat the ends of justice.

<sup>3</sup> Par. 957, A. R. All witnesses for both the prosecution and the defense are summoned or subpoenaed by the judge-advocate.

Sec. II. To procure the attendance of witnesses stationed or residing within the State, Territory, or District in which the court is ordered to sit, and to compel them to testify, etc., the judge-advocate will proceed as follows:

1. Judge-advocates of courts-martial will, whenever it is possible, send subpoenas through military channels.<sup>1</sup> In case a civilian witness duly subpoenaed before a general court-martial refuses to appear or qualify as a witness, or to testify or produce documentary evidence, as required by law, he will at once be tendered or paid by the nearest paymaster one day's fees and mileage for the journeys to and from the court, and will thereupon be again called upon to comply with the requirements of the law. The fees and mileage of civilian witnesses residing beyond the limits of the State, Territory, or District in which the court-martial is held will not be paid in advance, as such witnesses can not be punished if they refuse to obey the summons.<sup>2</sup>

2. If the desired witness is a civilian, living near the post where the court is convened, duplicate subpoenas<sup>3</sup> will be prepared, one of which will be served upon the witness by the judge-advocate or by any person instructed by him; if the residence of the witness wanted is not near the post, but still within the State, etc., the judge-advocate will send the duplicate subpoenas direct to the convening authority, requesting service of the same.

3. Service on a civilian witness is made, under court-martial practice, by a personal delivery of the subpoena to the witness; and proof of service by returning the duplicate original to the judge-advocate, indorsed as explained in the form published on page 173, post. Any person may serve the subpoena,<sup>1</sup> but the service must be personal.

4. Should a civilian witness fail to appear<sup>2</sup> after due and reasonable notice, after having been served with a subpoena, the judge-advocate has power to issue the like process to compel him to appear and testify which courts of criminal jurisdiction within the State, Territory, or District where such court shall be ordered to sit may lawfully issue.<sup>3</sup> This power also includes the power to execute such process through an officer, who shall be specially charged with its execution.<sup>4</sup>

5. Whenever it becomes necessary to enforce the attendance of a civilian witness, as provided in the preceding paragraph, the judge-advocate will issue a warrant of attachment<sup>5</sup> directing and delivering it for execution to an officer designated by the department commander for the purpose. He will also deliver to this officer the subpoena, indorsed with affidavit of service (to be returned when the warrant is executed), and a certified copy of the order appointing the court-martial.

6. In executing such process it is lawful to use only such force as may be necessary to bring the witness before the court. Whenever force is actually required, the post commander nearest witness's residence will furnish a military detail sufficient to execute the process.<sup>6</sup>

7. If, in executing this legal process, the officer detailed for that purpose should be served with a writ of habeas corpus from any United States court, or by a United States judge, for the production of the witness, the writ will be promptly obeyed and "the person alleged to be illegally restrained of his liberty will be taken before the court from which the writ has issued, and a return made setting forth the reasons for his restraint. The officer upon whom such a writ is served will at once report, by telegraph, the fact of such service direct to The Adjutant-General of the Army and to the commanding general of the department."<sup>1</sup>

8. If, however, the writ of habeas corpus is issued by any State court (or a State judge) it will be the officer's duty to make respectful return, in writing, informing the court that he holds the person named in the writ by authority of the United States pursuant to a warrant of attachment issued under section 1202 of the Revised Statutes of the United States by a judge-advocate of a lawfully convened court-martial, and that the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that State courts and judges are without jurisdiction in such cases.<sup>2</sup>

9. After having made the above return, it is the duty of the officer to obey the process of the United States, to hold the prisoner in custody under it, and to refuse obedience to the mandate or process of any other government. And, consequently, it is his duty not to take the prisoner, nor suffer him to be taken, before a State judge or court upon a writ of habeas corpus issued under State authority.<sup>3</sup>

10. If the military witness is stationed at another post the department commander will be requested to order the witness to attend.

13. With the consent of both parties the deposition of a military or civilian witness residing or stationed within the State, Territory, or District in which the court sits may be taken and read in evidence.

Sec. III. To procure the testimony of witnesses stationed or residing without the State, etc., the following practice will be observed:

1. A writ of attachment does not run beyond the State, Territory, or District in which the court-martial sits. The testimony of civilian witnesses residing beyond such State, Territory, or District will ordinarily be taken by deposition under the 91st Article of War; but this can not be done when it is necessary that they should be confronted with the accused. In such cases their testimony can only be taken on their voluntarily appearing before the court.

The testimony of military witnesses stationed or residing beyond<sup>2</sup> the State, Territory, or District in which the court sits will also ordinarily be taken by deposition.

<sup>2</sup> See page 175, note 2, post.

2. The method of procedure to obtain a deposition<sup>1</sup> is as follows:

The party, prosecutor or defendant, desiring the deposition, submits to the court a list of interrogatories to be propounded to the absent witness; the opposite party then prepares and submits a list of cross-interrogatories, a reasonable time being allowed for this purpose; redirect and recross-interrogatories are added, if desired; finally the court, having assented to the interrogatories thus submitted, adds such as, in its judgment, may be necessary to elucidate the whole of the witness's testimony.

The interrogatories having been accepted by the court, the judge-advocate will, if the witness is a civilian, prepare duplicate subpoenas<sup>2</sup> requiring the witness to appear in person, at a time and place to be fixed by the officer, military or civil, who is to take the deposition. If the name of this officer is not known, the space for it will be left blank.

The judge-advocate will then send the interrogatories and subpoenas and proper account for civilian witness<sup>3</sup> to the commanding general of the department within the territorial limits of which the witness resides, with request that the deposition be secured, the required data supplied in the account for civilian witness, and the post-office address given, so that the account may be certified by the judge-advocate and transmitted to the proper paymaster for payment. In the case of an officer or enlisted man serving at a place excepted from the jurisdiction of a department commander, the interrogatories, subpoenas, and account will be forwarded to The Adjutant-General of the Army.

Depositions may also be taken before the assembling of the court-martial, on interrogatories and cross-interrogatories or on reasonable notice, subject to exceptions when read in court.

3. If the deposition of a military witness is required, subpoenas will not be inclosed with the interrogatories, but the officer before whom the deposition is to be taken, or the officer who causes it to be taken, will direct the witness to appear at the proper time and place.

4. Judge-advocates of departments and of courts-martial, and the trial officers of summary courts, are authorized to administer oaths and take depositions.<sup>1</sup> If none of these officers are available, any other Army officer may be designated to see that the deposition is properly taken;<sup>2</sup> or the deposition may be referred to a notary public, or other civil officer empowered to administer oaths for general purposes (his name and official character being inserted in the designation), with request that he will take the deposition and return it with his certificate that it was duly made and taken under oath. In either case, the oath must be administered and the jurat (i. e., the certificate that the deposition was "subscribed and sworn to") subscribed by a civil officer empowered to administer oaths for general purposes.

5. Persons before whom depositions of civilian witnesses are taken for use before courts-martial will be paid the fees allowed by the law of the place where the depositions are taken.<sup>3</sup>

6. Upon the return of the interrogatories and deposition they will be submitted to the court by the president or judge-advocate. The papers will then be properly marked, appended to the record, and referred to in the proceedings, where all action upon the subject necessary for the information of the reviewing authority will be recorded.

7. Upon the receipt of the deposition, the judge-advocate will also complete and sign the ordinary "account for a civilian witness,"<sup>4</sup> certifying that the witness duly attended as a witness at a certain time and place and duly gave his deposition before a certain official named, and then transmit the account to the proper paymaster with a copy of the order convening the court.

<sup>2</sup> An officer so designated will, before serving the subpoena, complete it if necessary by inserting the name and official designation of the notary (or other official having authority to administer the oaths), before whom it is to be taken and the date on which and place where it is proposed to take it. When the deposition has been duly taken, he will certify to this fact and transmit it direct to the president of the court.

8. In capital cases (i. e., those in which the offense is punishable by death)<sup>1</sup> or in cases where the judge-advocate can certify "that the interests of justice demand that the witness shall testify in the presence of the court," the regular subpoenas will be made out by the judge-advocate, certified to as above, if necessary, and transmitted to the department commander of the department where the court is convened, with a request that they be duly served on the witness, if a civilian. If the witness is in the military service the department commander will be requested to order him, or cause him to be ordered, to attend before the court.

9. "An officer or enlisted man who receives a summons or subpoena to attend as a witness before any military court, board, civil court, or other competent tribunal, which is sitting beyond the limits of the department where he is serving, will, before starting to obey the same, forward it through the proper channel to his department commander, that necessary orders, or authority to obey such process, may be given. In urgent cases, or when the public interest would be liable to suffer by delay, a post commander may authorize immediate departure, reporting his action and the reasons therefor to the department commander."<sup>2</sup>

10. "Officers and enlisted men reporting as witnesses before a civil court should receive from the civil authorities the necessary expenses incurred in travel and attendance; neither mileage nor travel allowances will be paid in such cases by the War Department. If, however, it is absolutely necessary to furnish them transportation in kind to enable them to appear, as witnesses for the Government, before a civil court of the United States, an account of such expenditure, together with the evidence that they were properly subpoenaed and did attend the court, will be forwarded to the War Department for presentation to the Department of Justice. Officers providing such transportation will notify the court, or the marshal thereof, that it was furnished to enable the witnesses to perform the requisite journeys in obedience to the summons."<sup>3</sup>

1. A civilian witness before a court-martial is entitled, upon his discharge, to receive from the judge-advocate<sup>2</sup> a certificate, setting forth the fact of his having been summoned as a witness in the case, and the number of days of his attendance in that capacity before the court. To entitle a witness to the payment of fees, it is not essential that he should produce a formal subpoena, addressed to and complied with by him, or that he should have been formally summoned in the case. A strict observance, however, of section I, page 34, ante, would require the issue of formal subpoenas to witnesses on both sides, and it is the better practice for the judge-advocate to cause such to be served in each instance.<sup>3</sup>

2. "Civilians in the employ of the Government when traveling upon summons as witnesses before military courts are entitled to transportation in kind from their place of residence to the place where the court is in session and return. If no transportation be furnished, they are entitled to reimbursement of the cost of travel actually performed by the shortest usually traveled route, including transfers to and from railway stations, at rates not exceeding 50 cents for each transfer, and the cost of a double berth in a sleeping car or steamer when an extra charge is made therefor. They are also entitled to reimbursement of the actual cost of meals and rooms at a rate not exceeding $3 per day for each day actually and unavoidably consumed in travel or in attendance upon the court under the order or summons. No allowance will be made to them when attendance upon court does not require them to leave their stations."<sup>4</sup>

3. "A civilian, not in Government employ, duly summoned to appear as a witness before a military court or at a place where his deposition is to be taken for use before such court, will receive $1.50 for each day of his actual attendance before such court or for the purpose of having his deposition taken, and 5 cents a mile for going from his place of residence to the place of trial or of the taking of his deposition, and 5 cents a mile for returning, except as follows:<sup>1</sup>

"(a) In Porto Rico and Cuba, he will receive $1.50 a day while in attendance as above stated, and fifteen cents for each mile necessarily traveled over stage line or by private conveyance, and 10 cents for each mile over any railway or steamship line.

"(b) In Alaska, east of the one hundred and forty-first degree of west longitude, he will receive $2 a day while in attendance as above stated, and 10 cents a mile, and west of said degree $4 a day and 15 cents a mile.

"(c) In the States of Wyoming, Montana, Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Idaho, Colorado, and Utah, and in the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona, he will receive $3 a day for the time of actual attendance as above stated, and for the time necessarily occupied in going to and returning from the same, and 15 cents for each mile necessarily traveled over any stage line or by private conveyance, and 5 cents for each mile by any railway or steamship."<sup>2</sup>

4. "The charges for return journeys of witnesses will be made upon the basis of the actual charges allowed for travel to the court, and the entire account thus completed will be paid upon discharge from attendance, without waiting for completion of return travel."<sup>3</sup>

5. "The items of expenditure authorized in paragraphs 999 and 1000 (Army Regulations) will be set forth in detail and made a part of each voucher for reimbursement. No other items will be allowed. The certificate of the judge-advocate will be evidence of the fact and period of attendance and will be made upon the voucher."<sup>4</sup> The correctness of the items as to civilians in Government employ will be attested by the affidavit of the witness, to be made when practicable before the judge-advocate.<sup>1</sup>

7. "Compensation to civilians in or out of Government employ for attendance upon civil courts is payable by the civil authorities."<sup>2</sup>

8. The fees of civilian witnesses, and the mileage of witnesses and fees of civil officers taking depositions, will be paid by the Pay Department.

EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

1. Witnesses are usually examined apart from each other, no witness being allowed to be present during the examination of another who is called before him. But this rule is not inflexible; it is in modern practice subject to the discretion of the court, nor is it ever so rigidly observed as to exclude the testimony of a person who has been present at the examination of other witnesses.

2. Courts-martial follow in general, so far as apposite, the common-law rules of evidence<sup>3</sup> as observed by the United States courts in criminal cases, but they are not required by statute to do so, and a certain latitude in the introduction of evidence and the examination of witnesses, by an avoidance of technical and restrictive rules, is permissible when it is in the interest of the administration of military justice, but no witness shall be compelled to incriminate himself or to answer any question which may tend to incriminate or degrade him.<sup>4</sup> The accused at his own request, but not otherwise, is competent to testify. His failure to make such a request shall not create any presumption against him.<sup>5</sup>

3. While the proper and usual order and sequence of examination of witnesses is outlined in the "form for record of a General Court-Martial," page 146, post, the court may, in the interest of truth and justice, call or recall witnesses, or permit their recall at any stage of the proceedings; it may permit material testimony to be introduced by either party quite out of its regular order and place, or permit a case once closed by either or both sides to be reopened for the introduction of testimony previously omitted, if convinced that such testimony is so material that its omission would leave the investigation incomplete. In all such cases both parties must be present, and any testimony thus received would be subject to cross-examination and rebuttal by the party to whom it may be adverse.

4. Affidavits taken ex parte and not as depositions under the 91st Article of War are in no case admissible as evidence unless expressly consented to by the accused with full knowledge of his rights.

5. The accused, in addition to his own testimony, or where he has not testified, may make a verbal or written statement as to the case. The statement should not be sworn to, and if sworn to should not be received as evidence by the court.

FINDINGS.

1. The findings of the court will be governed by the evidence considered in connection with the pleas. The finding upon the charge should be consistent with that upon the specification.

2. The accused may be found guilty of parts of the specification, not guilty of the remainder, and then, if the specification still supports the charge, guilty of the charge.

3. If the evidence proves the commission of an offense less in degree than that specified, yet kindred to it, the court may except words of the specification, substitute others instead, pronounce the guilt and innocence of the substituted and excepted words, respectively, and then find the accused not guilty of the charge but guilty of the lesser kindred offense. Of this form of verdict the most familiar is the finding of guilty of absence without leave under a charge of desertion. In such a case, in its finding of guilty upon the specification, the court should in terms except the words "did desert," and "in desertion," and substitute therefor, respectively, the words "did absent himself without leave from," and

“without leave.” The finding upon the charge should regularly be “not guilty, but guilty of absence without leave, in violation of the 32d Article of War.”<sup>1</sup>

4. Another legal and now common form of finding is where an accused is charged with a specific offense, made punishable by an Article of War, other than the 62d, and the court is of the opinion that, while the material allegations in the specification are proved, they do not fully sustain the charge as laid, but do clearly establish a breach of military discipline; in this case the accused may properly be found guilty of the specification, and not guilty of the charge, but guilty of “conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline.” It should be remembered, however, that the court can not in its finding legally substitute the 62d Article of War for any other, unless the proof fails to substantiate the specification under the original charge. The reverse of this form of finding has never been sanctioned. Thus where a charge is laid under the general article, a finding under any other article, or, where a charge is laid under a specific article, a finding under any other specific article, would be illegal.

5. In a case of virtual acquittal, to use the term “guilty” is improper; the correct expression is, “find the facts as charged, but attach no criminality thereto.” “Guilty” should be employed only when the accused has been convicted of a crime deserving punishment.

PREVIOUS CONVICTIONS.<sup>2</sup>

1. Whenever a soldier is convicted of an offense for which a discretionary punishment is authorized, the court will receive evidence of previous convictions, if there be any; such evidence being limited, except as provided in sec. 5, page 59, post, to previous convictions by courts-martial<sup>1</sup> of an offense or offenses within one year preceding the date of any offense charged and during the current enlistment. General, regimental, and garrison courts-martial will, after a finding of guilty, be opened for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is such evidence and, if so, of receiving it.<sup>2</sup> These courts will consider only such evidence of previous convictions as is referred to them by the convening authority.

<sup>1</sup> It is beyond the power of a reviewing officer to change a finding by his own action. Thus where, in a case of desertion, the reviewing authority approved “so much only of the finding of guilty of desertion as convicted the accused of absence without leave,” it was held that he thus substituted a finding of his own for that of the court, and that his action was unauthorized.

<sup>2</sup> By “previous conviction” is meant a conviction where the sentence has been approved by competent authority. This refers to all trials except where the only officer present sits as a summary court, when no approval of the sentence is required by law.

2. Previous convictions by courts-martial must be proved by the records of previous trials and convictions, or by duly authenticated copies of such records, or by duly authenticated copies of the orders promulgating such trials.<sup>3</sup> The usual evidence of previous convictions by summary court is the copy of a summary court record furnished to company and other commanders, as required by paragraph 965, Army Regulations, or one furnished for the purpose and certified to be a true copy by the commanding officer or adjutant (at the headquarters where the original record of the summary court which tried the case is kept). When the proof produced is the copy furnished to the company or other commander, it will be returned to him and a copy of it attached to the record.<sup>4</sup>

3. The previous convictions are not limited to those for offenses similar to the one for which the accused is on trial. The object is "to see if the prisoner is an old offender, and therefore less entitled to leniency than if on trial for his first offense." This information might not be fully obtained if evidence of previous convictions of similar offenses only were laid before the court. It has no bearing upon the question of guilt of the particular charge on trial, but only upon the amount and kind of punishment to be awarded, and to this end it is proper that all previous convictions should be known.

PUNISHMENT.

1. Punishment, under the Articles of War, is either fixed or is left to the discretion of a court-martial. If the punishment is prescribed in the article violated, any other punishment than that prescribed is illegal. Before pronouncing sentence, the court should, therefore, in case of any uncertainty, examine the article violated to see what punishment may be legally awarded, and in awarding punishment it should be remembered that the proper amount of punishment is the least by which discipline can be efficiently maintained.

2. For officers, the legal punishments by courts-martial, depending on the nature of the offense, are death, dismissal, suspension from rank, command, or duty, with or without loss of pay or part of pay, loss of rank, imprisonment, fine or forfeiture of pay, reprimand, and confinement to limits of post or reservation.

3. For soldiers, the legal punishments, depending on the character of the offense and the jurisdiction of the court, are, death, confinement,<sup>1</sup> confinement on bread-and-water diet, solitary confinement, hard labor, ball and chain, forfeiture of pay and allowances, dishonorable discharge from service,<sup>2</sup> for first-class privates reduction to second-class privates, and reprimand; for noncommissioned officers, reduction to the ranks also,<sup>3</sup> and for "candidates for promotion," deprivation of all rights and privileges arising from a certificate of eligibility.<sup>4</sup>

4. "No person in the military service shall be punished by flogging, or by branding, marking, or tattooing on the body."<sup>5</sup>

5. Military prisoners will not be punished by being required to carry a heavy log. Some other punishment can be found equally effective and not open to the objections urged against this method.

6. Punishment by ball and chain will be imposed only in extreme cases.<sup>1</sup>

7. "Sentences imposing tours of guard duty are forbidden."<sup>2</sup>

8. Solitary confinement, or confinement on bread-and-water diet, shall not exceed fourteen days at a time, nor be again enforced until a period of fourteen days has elapsed. Nor shall such confinement exceed eighty-four days in any one year.<sup>3</sup>

9. A court-martial can direct a forfeiture only in favor of the United States, and can not assign the pay of a soldier to any other person; nor can a soldier be required to receipt for money paid without his consent.

10. If a soldier be brought to trial for absence without leave and convicted, or for desertion and is convicted of absence without leave only, the soldier will be charged with the expense of transportation of himself and guard to his proper station. It is not necessary for the court to include this charge in its sentence. The company commander will make the charge without the action of the court.<sup>4</sup>

11. "If a soldier be brought to trial under a charge of desertion and acquitted, or convicted of absence without leave only, any amount paid as a reward for his arrest will not be stopped against his pay unless, in case of conviction of absence without leave, the sentence of the court shall so direct. The sentence in such case should direct the charge to take the form of a stoppage, not a forfeiture, thus allowing the amounts to be credited as a reimbursement."<sup>5</sup>

12. "No person in the military service shall, under the sentence of a court-martial, be punished by confinement in a penitentiary, unless the offense of which he may be convicted would, by some statute of the United States, or by some statute of the State, Territory, or District in which such offense may be committed, or by the common law, as the same exists in such State, Territory, or District, subject such convict to such punishment."<sup>1</sup>

13. The 97th Article of War limits the discretion of the court only as "to imprisonment in the penitentiary, and it has been nowhere provided that the punishment may not in other respects be greater than the civil courts could inflict."<sup>2</sup> Notwithstanding this, a court-martial should properly consult the statute governing the civil courts, in order to determine a reasonable measure of punishment for the offense.

14. The most common offenses punishable by confinement in a penitentiary are those mentioned in Article 60, and robbery, grand larceny, embezzlement, forgery, burglary, arson, mayhem, manslaughter, assault with intent to kill, rape, or assault with intent to commit rape. Any of these offenses, when committed to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, either in time of peace or war, are punishable as stated.

MAXIMUM LIMITS OF PUNISHMENT.<sup>3</sup>

The act of September 27, 1890, provides: "That whenever by any of the Articles of War for the government of the Army the punishment on conviction of any military offense is left to the discretion of the court-martial, the punishment therefor shall not, in time of peace, be in excess of a limit which the President may prescribe.”

The last order of the President prescribing limits of punishment is as follows:

EXECUTIVE ORDER.

The Executive Order, dated June 12, 1905, establishing limits of punishment for enlisted men of the Army, under an act of Congress approved September 27, 1890, and which was published in General Orders, No. 96, War Department, Washington, June 19, 1905, is amended so as to prescribe, for time of peace, as follows:<sup>1</sup>

ARTICLE I.

In all cases of desertion the sentence may include dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of pay and allowances.

SECTION 1. Subject to the modifications authorized in section 2 of this article, the maximum limit of the term of confinement (at hard labor) for desertion committed in time of peace shall be three (3) years.

SEC. 2. The foregoing limitations are subject to modification under the following conditions:

(a) The punishment of a deserter may be increased by one year of confinement at hard labor in consideration of each previous conviction of desertion.

(b) The punishment for desertion when joined in by two or more soldiers in the execution of a conspiracy, or for desertion in the presence of an outbreak of Indians or of any unlawful assemblage which the troops may be opposing, shall not exceed dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and confinement at hard labor for five years.

ARTICLE II.

Except as herein otherwise indicated, punishments shall not exceed the limits prescribed in the following table:

Offenses.	Limits of punishment.
UNDER 17TH ARTICLE OF WAR.
Selling horse or arms, or both.	Dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and confinement at hard labor for three years.
Selling accouterments or clothing.	Dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and confinement at hard labor for one year.
Losing or spoiling horse or arms through neglect.	Six months' confinement at hard labor and forfeiture of $10 per month for the same period; for noncommissioned officer, reduction in addition thereto.

EXECUTIVE ORDER.

The Executive Order dated November 25, 1908, establishing limits of punishment for enlisted men of the Army, under Act of Congress approved September 27, 1890, which order was published in General Orders No. 204, War Department, December 15, 1908, is amended by adding thereto maximum limits for certain offenses committed by military prisoners held in confinement under sentences involving dishonorable discharge, as follows:

Offenses.	Limits of punishment.
Under 62d Article of War.
(a) Attempt to escape.....	Six months' confinement at hard labor.
(b) Conspiring with others to escape..	Six months' confinement at hard labor.
(c) Escape from sentry or guard or from place of confinement or while on parole.	One year's confinement at hard labor.

WM. H. TAFT.

THE WHITE HOUSE, March 3, 1910.

tions by court-martial of an offense or offenses within one year preceding the date of commission of any offense charged and during the current enlistment. These convictions must be proved by the records of previous trials and convictions, or by duly authenticated copies of such records, or by duly authenticated copies of the orders promulgating such trials and convictions. Charges forwarded to the authority competent to order a general court-martial, or submitted to a summary, garrison, or regimental court-martial, must be accompanied by the proper evidence of previous convictions.

SEC. 2. Whenever a soldier is convicted of an offense for which a discretionary punishment is authorized, the court will receive evidence of previous convictions (see section 1 of this article), if there be any. General, regimental, and garrison courts-martial will, after a finding of guilty, be opened for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is such evidence and, if so, of receiving it.

SEC. 3. Previous convictions in connection with inferior court offenses.—When a soldier is convicted of an offense the punishment for which under Article II of this order or the custom of the service does not exceed three months' confinement at hard labor and forfeiture of three months' pay, the punishment so authorized may, upon proof of previous convictions (see section 1 of this article) be increased one-half for each of such convictions up to the limit of three months' confinement at hard labor and forfeiture of three months' pay, and, for noncommissioned officer or first-class private, reduction in addition thereto. In case of a soldier whose total length of service does not exceed one year, upon proof of five or more of such convictions, if the total of the sentences, substitutions considered (see Article VII), equals or exceeds forfeiture of $50 or confinement at hard labor for 100 days, the limit of punishment shall be dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and confinement at hard labor for three months; but in cases where the length of service exceeds one year, the limit of punishment shall be as just stated upon proof of five or more previous convictions, whatever the character of the sentences may have been, but if dishonorable discharge be not adjudged, the limit shall be three months' confinement at hard labor and forfeiture of three months' pay, and, for a noncommissioned officer or first-class private, reduction in addition thereto.

SEC. 4. Previous convictions in connection with general court-martial offenses.—When the conviction is for an offense punishable under Article II of this order or the custom of the service with a greater punishment than three months' confinement at hard labor and forfeiture of three months' pay, such punishment shall not be increased by reason of previous convictions, except as hereinafter specified; but evidence of those described in section 1 of this article will be submitted to the court to aid it to determine upon the proper measure of punishment subject to the limit already authorized. In the case of a soldier whose total length of service does not exceed one year, upon proof of five or more of such convictions, if the total of the sentences, substitutions considered (see Article VII), equals or exceeds forfeiture of $50 or confinement at hard labor for 100 days, the court may, if the authorized limit does not include dishonorable discharge, adjudge dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of all pay and allowances with the authorized confinement; but in cases where the length of service exceeds one year, the limit of punishment shall be as just stated, upon proof of five or more previous convictions, whatever the character of the sentences may have been.

SEC. 5. On a conviction of desertion evidence of convictions of previous desertions may also be introduced, irrespective of the enlistment or of the period which may have elapsed since such conviction or convictions.

SEC. 6. When a noncommissioned officer is convicted of an offense not punishable with reduction, he may, upon proof of one previous conviction within the prescribed period (see section 1 of this article), be sentenced to reduction in addition to the punishment already authorized.

SEC. 7. First-class privates may be reduced to second-class privates in all cases where for like offenses on the part of noncommissioned officers their reduction in grade is now authorized.

ARTICLE IV.

When a soldier shall, on one arraignment, be convicted of two or more offenses, none of which is punishable under Article II of this order or the custom of the service with dishonorable discharge, but the aggregate term of confinement for which, as specified in said article, may exceed six months, dishonorable discharge with forfeiture of pay and allowances may be awarded in addition to the authorized confinement.

ARTICLE V.

If, in any case where the limit of punishment is dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and confinement at hard labor for a stated number of months, dishonorable discharge be not adjudged, the limit of forfeiture shall be all pay due and to become due during the prescribed limit of confinement.

ARTICLE VI.

This order prescribes the maximum limit of punishment for the offenses named, and this limit is intended for those cases in which the severest punishment should be awarded. In other cases the punishment should be graded down according to the extenuating circumstances. Offenses not herein provided for remain punishable as authorized by the Articles of War and the custom of the service.

ARTICLE VII.

Substitutions for punishment named in Article II of this order are authorized at the discretion of the courts at the following rates:

Two days' confinement at hard labor for one dollar forfeiture, or the reverse; one day's solitary confinement on bread and water diet for two days' confinement at hard labor or for one dollar forfeiture; provided that a noncommissioned officer not sentenced to reduction shall not be subject to confinement;<sup>1</sup> and provided that solitary confinement shall not exceed fourteen days at one time, nor be repeated until fourteen days have elapsed, and shall not exceed eighty-four days in one year.

This order shall become operative in the United States and contiguous Territories thirty days after its date, and elsewhere within the jurisdiction of the United States sixty days from its date.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
November 25, 1908.

SENTENCE.<sup>2</sup>

1. When in any case the punishment is, by the Articles of War, left to the discretion of the court-martial, <sup>1</sup> Forfeiture may be substituted for the confinement in the prescribed limit.

the court will, before proceeding to award the punishment, ascertain whether a limit has been fixed by the foregoing executive order.<sup>1</sup> Those members desiring to propose a sentence usually write it on a slip of paper and hand it to the president. The president reads the proposed sentences to the court and the members vote on them in order, beginning with the lightest, until a majority agree upon a sentence. In a case where a punishment is fixed, the members vote upon a sentence awarding this punishment. Upon a death sentence two-thirds of the members must concur (the record so explicitly stating), and no person can be sentenced to death except in cases expressly mentioned in the Articles of War, or in section 1343, Revised Statutes, as thus punishable.<sup>2</sup>

2. Courts-martial in awarding sentences upon military convicts are restricted to imposing additional confinement to be served upon the completion or termination of their existing sentences, and will not interfere with the manner of executing such sentences by prescribing loss of good-conduct time, solitary confinement, or confinement on bread and water diet, leaving all such punishments to be imposed by the commanding officer as the ordinary means of enforcing discipline.<sup>3</sup>

3. A general court-martial may sentence a soldier to confinement in a penitentiary for any offense which may be thus punished "by some statute of the United States, or by some statute of the State, Territory, or District in which such offense may be committed, or by the common law, as the same exists in such State, Territory, or District."<sup>4</sup> When, therefore, the sentence of such a court-martial prescribes imprisonment, the court "will state therein whether the prisoner shall be con-

ined in a penitentiary<sup>1</sup> or in some place under military jurisdiction, being guided in its determination by the 97th Article of War. Where from any cause there is a doubt in the mind of the court whether the offense is punishable by penitentiary confinement, such words as 'in such place as the reviewing authority may direct' will be used in the sentence."<sup>2</sup>

4. "When a sentence imposes forfeiture of pay, or of a stated portion thereof, for a certain number of months, it stops for each of those months the amount stated. Thus: 'Ten dollars of monthly pay for one year' would be a stoppage of $120. When the sentence is silent as to the date of commencement of forfeiture of pay, the forfeiture will begin with the period for which pay has accrued since last payment. A forfeiture not limited by the sentence to any particular month or months or other space of time, but expressed simply as a forfeiture of so many months' pay, or of a certain amount of pay, is legally chargeable against the pay due and payable at the next payment, and the balance, if any, against pay accruing thereafter, until the forfeiture is fully satisfied, but the rate of forfeiture will be the rate of pay the soldier is entitled to receive at the date of the promulgation of the sentence."<sup>3</sup>

5. "Notwithstanding a sentence contemplates payment of a stated sum to a soldier upon his release from confinement, it can not be made unless there is a sufficient balance to his credit after all authorized stoppages are deducted."<sup>4</sup>

6. "A sentence adjudging a dishonorable discharge to take effect at such period during a term of confine-

RECORD OF PROCEEDINGS.<sup>2</sup>

1. Every court-martial will keep an accurate record<sup>3</sup> of its proceedings. The record in each case will be complete in itself, and will contain a copy of the order appointing the court. It will be authenticated by the signatures of the president and judge-advocate, the latter affixing his signature to each day's proceedings. Whenever, by reason of the death or disability of the judge-advocate occurring after the court has decided on the sentence, the record can not be authenticated by his signature, it must show that it has been formally approved by the court and must be authenticated by the signature of the president.<sup>4</sup> The record must show that the court was organized as the law requires, that the prisoner was asked if he wished to object to any member and his answer to such question, and that the members of the court and the judge-advocate were duly sworn.

2. The reading of previous proceedings and of testimony for approval will be dispensed with, unless for special reason considered necessary by the court, or a witness desires to have certain testimony read for correction.<sup>5</sup>

3. All orders modifying the detail of the court and issued after its original organization must be incorporated in the record. The record should also note the fact of a new member taking his seat, or a new judge-advocate commencing to officiate, according to orders, on a certain day. (But, see page 29, par. 4, ante.)

4. The entire proceedings will be spread upon the record; all orders and rulings of the court; all motions, propositions, objections, arguments, statements, etc., of the judge-advocate or the accused; the testimony of each witness, as nearly as possible in his own language; in short, every feature of the proceedings material to a complete history of the case and to a correct understanding of every point of the same by the reviewing authority will be recorded at length. Testimony taken before regimental or garrison courts-martial will not be reduced to writing.<sup>1</sup>

5. Where a soldier deserts and, without a discharge from his original term, enlists under a different name, the specifications to the charges of desertion and fraudulent enlistment will set forth the offenses under the original name and organization, and include the other name, etc., under an alias, and the arraignment, findings, sentence, and action of the reviewing authority will also give the original name and organization, followed by the other name, etc., under an alias, e. g., Private A— B—, Troop —, — U. S. Cavalry (original name, etc.), alias Private C— D—, Co. —, —, U. S. Infantry (other name, etc.).<sup>2</sup>

6. Although, since the passage of the act of Congress of July 27, 1892, "to amend the Articles of War, etc.," it is desirable that the record of a court-martial should show that when it sat in closed session the judge-advocate withdrew, it will not vitiate the proceedings if this is not expressly stated. When the record shows that the court was closed, the presumption is that it was closed in accordance with the requirements of law.

7. The "statement of service" referred to on page 19, paragraph 3, ante, will not be introduced in evidence nor made a part of the record of the trial, but will be considered by the court and shown to the accused, with a view to its correction by the introduction of evidence should it be required. The statement will be forwarded with the record for file in the office of the Judge-Advocate-General.<sup>1</sup>

8. A recommendation to clemency will not be embraced in the body of the sentence; but will be appended to the record after any exhibits referred to in the proceedings. Only those members who concur in a recommendation should sign it.

REVISION OF RECORD.<sup>2</sup>

1. "When the record of a court exhibits error in preparation, or seemingly erroneous conclusions, the reviewing authority may reconvene the court for a reconsideration of its action, pointing out defects. Should the court concur in the views submitted, it will proceed by amendment to correct its error, and may modify or completely change its findings. A reopening of the case, by calling or recalling witnesses, is illegal."<sup>3</sup>

2. An amendment can be made by the court only when duly reconvened for the purpose, and when made must be the act of the court as such.<sup>4</sup> A correction made by the president or other member, or by the judge-advocate independently of the court, and by means of an erasure or otherwise, is unauthorized. If omissions in the record are to be supplied, the page and line on which they occur will be stated and the corrections given in full. The original record will not be interlined nor altered in any way.

REVIEWING AUTHORITY.

1. "No sentence of a court-martial shall be carried into execution until the same shall have been approved by the officer ordering the court, or by the officer commanding for the time being."<sup>5</sup>

<sup>1</sup> See note 1, page 138, post, as to use of statement of service.

2. The officer having authority to confirm the sentence of a court-martial will state at the end of the proceedings in each case his decisions and orders.<sup>1</sup>

3. "All sentences of a court-martial may be confirmed and carried into execution by the officer ordering the court, or by the officer commanding for the time being, where confirmation by the President, or by the commanding general in the field, or commander of the department," is not required by the Articles of War.<sup>2</sup> In time of peace, sentences directing the dismissal of an officer or inflicting the punishment of death require confirmation by the President.<sup>3</sup> Proceedings involving either dismissal or death will therefore (except in time of war, in cases mentioned in the 105th and 107th Articles of War) be forwarded by the convening authority, after approval,<sup>4</sup> direct to the Judge-Advocate-General for the action of the President.

4. A military commander can not delegate to an inferior or other officer his function as reviewing authority as conferred by the 104th and 109th Articles of War. Nor can he authorize a staff or other officer to subscribe for him his decision and orders on the proceedings.

5. Every officer authorized to order a court-martial has power to pardon or mitigate any punishment adjudged by it,<sup>5</sup> except that of death,<sup>6</sup> or the dismissal of an officer.<sup>7</sup>

6. "The power to remit or mitigate punishment imposed by a court-martial, vested in the authority who appointed the court or the corresponding authority under whose jurisdiction the sentence is being executed,

<sup>4</sup> The convening authority, before forwarding the case, should complete the sentence by designating the place of confinement, where confinement is imposed by the sentence, as in cases where no confirmation is required.

extends only to unexecuted portions of a sentence. If the punishment be one imposed by a general court-martial, it may be remitted or mitigated only by an officer competent to order a general court-martial and under whose jurisdiction the sentence is being executed. The fact that a soldier has been dishonorably discharged through his sentence does not affect this power. An application for clemency in case of a prisoner sentenced to confinement in a penitentiary, or in the United States Military Prison or any branch thereof, will be forwarded to the Secretary of War for the action of the President. A military prisoner sentenced to confinement in a penitentiary, or in the United States Military Prison or any branch thereof, will, so far as concerns the exercise of clemency, be considered to have passed beyond the jurisdiction of a division or department commander from the date of the approval of his sentence, without regard to the fact of his being temporarily retained within the command of the division or department commander pending transfer to a penitentiary, or the United States Military Prison or any branch thereof. The power to commute sentences imposed by military tribunals, not being vested in military commanders, can be exercised by the President only."<sup>1</sup>

7. "Any officer who has authority to carry into execution the sentence of death, or of dismissal of an officer, may suspend the same until the pleasure of the President shall be known; and, in such case, he shall immediately transmit to the President a copy of the order of suspension, together with a copy of the proceedings of the court."<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> 111th A. W. Immediately upon the promulgation of any sentence of court-martial in the case of a commissioned officer involving suspension from rank and command, confinement, reduction in lineal rank, or any other material change in the officer's status, the commander who has authority to approve such sentence and carry it into execution will advise The Adjutant-General of the Army by telegraph of the sentence imposed as approved or mitigated and the date of promulgation thereof. (G. O. 6, W. D., 1910.)

8. While a reviewing authority may remit or mitigate a sentence, he can not change it so as to impose a punishment of a different nature; thus, he can not change a sentence of dishonorable discharge awarded an enlisted man to confinement at hard labor;<sup>1</sup> but a legal sentence of dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances due, and confinement at hard labor for a definite period may be mitigated by the authority designated in paragraph 6, page 66, ante, to confinement at hard labor and forfeiture of all pay and allowances for a period not to exceed the period of confinement awarded in the sentence.<sup>2</sup>

9. "The authority which has designated the place of confinement, or higher authority, may change the place of confinement of any prisoner under the jurisdiction of such authority;"<sup>3</sup> but "when the court has sentenced a prisoner to confinement at a post, no power is competent to increase the punishment by designating a penitentiary as the place of confinement."<sup>4</sup> When a penitentiary has been erroneously designated the reviewing authority may disapprove it and designate a proper place.

10. When general courts-martial have properly sentenced soldiers to confinement in a penitentiary,<sup>5</sup> "department commanders will designate the United States Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans., as the place of such execution of sentence, in cases in which the term of confinement imposed is more than one year. If any State or Territory within a military department has made provision by law for the confinement of such prisoners in its penitentiaries, the department commander, with the approval of the Secretary of War, may designate one as the place of execution of sentence."<sup>6</sup>

<sup>4</sup> Id., 976. A punishment of confinement in a penitentiary, when legal, may be mitigated to confinement at a military post.

<sup>5</sup> See page 51, par. 12, ante.

11. "When a sentence of confinement or forfeiture is in excess of the legal limit, the part within the limit is legal and may be executed."<sup>1</sup>

12. "The time at which a dishonorable discharge is to take effect, as fixed by a sentence, can not be postponed by the reviewing officer."<sup>2</sup>

13. "A sentence to confinement, with or without forfeiture of pay, can not become operative prior to the date of confirmation. If it be proper to take into consideration the length of confinement to which the prisoner has been subjected previous to such confirmation, it may be done by mitigation of sentence."<sup>3</sup>

14. "An order remitting a forfeiture of pay operates only on the pay to become due on and after the date of the order."<sup>4</sup>

15. "The order promulgating the proceedings of a court and the action of the reviewing authority will, when practicable, be of the same date. When this is not practicable, the order will give the date of the action of the reviewing authority as the date of the beginning of the sentence. This does not apply to sentences of forfeiture of all pay and allowances. A soldier awaiting result of trial will not be paid before the result is known."<sup>5</sup>

16. "Trials by general courts-martial, including so much of the proceedings as will give the charges and specifications, the pleadings, findings, and sentence, and the action and remarks of the reviewing authority, will be announced in general orders issued from the War Department or from the proper division or department headquarters. If the charges contain matter which for any reason is unfit for publication, such matter will be omitted from the order, but a copy thereof will be promptly furnished by the reviewing authority to the commanding officer of the post at which the officer or soldier is confined, to be included with the papers re-

CONFINEMENT AFTER TRIAL.

1. “Enlisted men * * * who have been tried will, prior to the promulgation of the result, be designated as ‘awaiting result of trial;’ enlisted men serving sentences of confinement, not involving dishonorable discharge, will be designated as ‘garrison prisoners;’ those sentenced to dishonorable discharge and to terms of confinement at military posts or elsewhere will be designated as ‘military convicts.’”<sup>2</sup>

2. “Prisoners awaiting trial by, or undergoing sentence of, general court-martial and those confined for serious offenses will, if practicable, be kept apart from those confined by sentence of an inferior court, or for minor offenses. Enlisted men awaiting trial or awaiting result of trial will not be sent to work with garrison prisoners or military convicts if it can be avoided, and may, in the discretion of the commanding officer, be required to attend drills, or sent to work under charge of a sentinel, during the usual working hours. Military convicts will not be confined with other prisoners except in cases of necessity.”<sup>3</sup>

3. “Prisoners will not be placed in irons except pursuant to sentence of a court-martial, or in the extraordinary case of a prisoner who, in the judgment of the commanding officer, is a desperate or dangerous character, in which case report of action and the circumstances will be immediately made to the department commander. A prisoner may be shackled or handcuffed while being transported from one post to another; or from a post to a penitentiary when, in the judgment of

4. "Prisoners will be forwarded from places of trial to posts at which they are sentenced to serve confinement only on orders of department commanders or higher authority. The strength of guards to accompany them will be limited to the necessities of safe delivery. Orders detailing guards in charge of military prisoners will provide for the return journey of the guard and for commutation of rations, when such commutation is necessary. The commanding officer of a post from which a prisoner is transferred will send under seal, to the commanding officer of the post where the sentence of confinement is to be executed, the following papers in his case, viz: Discharge papers, if discharged, descriptive list, orders promulgating and modifying sentences, statement of conduct while under sentence to date of transfer, and a list of clothing in possession of the prisoner when forwarded."<sup>2</sup>

5. "All serviceable clothing which belongs to a prisoner, and his blankets, will accompany him to the post designated for his confinement, and will be fully itemized on the clothing list mentioned in the preceding paragraph. The guard in charge of the prisoner during transfer will be furnished with a duplicate of this list and will be held responsible for the delivery of all articles itemized therein, with the prisoner. At least one serviceable woolen blanket will be sent with every such prisoner so transferred."<sup>3</sup>

7. "Military convicts, other than those confined in penitentiaries, will be allowed in abatement of their terms of confinement when serving sentences of over three months and not over twelve months five days for each complete period of twenty-five days during the whole of which their conduct has been good; but the abatement of five days so authorized shall not have the effect in any case of reducing the confinement below three months. On sentences exceeding one year they will be allowed the foregoing abatement for the first year of the sentence including abatement, and thereafter ten days for each complete period of twenty days during the whole of which their conduct has been good. Abatements thus authorized may be forfeited, wholly or in part, by subsequent misconduct, such forfeiture to be determined by the commanding officer of the post where the prisoner is confined. A military convict serving sentence in a penitentiary will be allowed the abatement authorized for convicts in that penitentiary."<sup>2</sup>

8. "When the date for the commencement of a term of confinement imposed by sentence of a court-martial is not expressly fixed by the sentence, the term of confinement begins on the date of the order promulgating it. The sentence is continuous until the term expires, except when the person sentenced is absent without authority."<sup>3</sup> The word days in a sentence of confinement means periods of twenty-four hours, counting from guard-mounting on the first day of the sentence.<sup>4</sup>

10. Where a soldier, while undergoing sentence of confinement imposed without dishonorable discharge, is tried for a further offense and sentenced to dishonorable discharge and confinement, the period of confinement under his prior sentence will terminate upon the date of his dishonorable discharge, leaving to be executed only the confinement imposed by the second sentence.

11. "No military convict will be released from confinement except on an order communicated by the commanding officer, who, before giving such order, will himself verify the date of expiration of the convict's sentence by examining all orders fixing or modifying his term of confinement."<sup>2</sup>

HABEAS CORPUS.

1. "Officers will make respectful returns, in writing, to all writs of habeas corpus served on them. When the writ is issued by a State court or judge, and the person held by the army officer is a civilian who has been apprehended under a warrant of attachment to be taken before a court-martial to testify as a witness, the officer will not produce the body, but will, by his return, set forth fully the authority by which he holds the person, and allege that the State authority is without jurisdiction to issue the writ of habeas corpus, and ask to have the same dismissed. He will also exhibit to the court or officer issuing the writ of habeas corpus the warrant of attachment and the subpoena (and the proof of the service of the subpoena) on which the warrant of attachment was based, and also a certified copy of the order convening the court-martial before which he had been commanded to take the person."<sup>3</sup>

2. "Should a writ of habeas corpus issued by a State court or judge be served upon an army officer, commanding him to produce an enlisted man or military convict, and show cause for his detention, the officer will decline to produce in court the body of the person named in the writ, but will make respectful return<sup>1</sup> in writing to the effect that the man is a duly enlisted soldier of the United States or a military convict under sentence of court-martial, as the case may be, and that the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that a magistrate or court of a State has no jurisdiction in such a case."<sup>2</sup>

3. No writ of habeas corpus shall be issued against a military officer or soldier who is detaining a prisoner in any unorganized province or territory of the Philippine Islands.<sup>3</sup>

4. It shall be a conclusive answer to a writ of habeas corpus against a military officer or soldier, and a sufficient excuse for not producing the prisoner in all organized provinces of the Philippine Islands, if the Commanding General or any general officer in command of the department or district shall certify that the prisoner is held by him either—

One copy of the order promulgating the action of the court, and a copy of every subsequent order affecting the case, will be forwarded to the Judge-Advocate-General, for file with the record of each case. When more than one case is embraced in a single order, a sufficient number of copies will be forwarded to enable one to be filed with each record. The proceedings of all courts appointed by the President will be sent direct to the Secretary of War.<sup>1</sup>

2. "Applications of officers, enlisted men, and military prisoners for copies of proceedings of general courts-martial, to be furnished them under the one hundred and fourteenth Article of War, will, when received by post or other commanders, be forwarded direct to the Judge-Advocate-General."<sup>2</sup>

INFERIOR COURTS-MARTIAL.

THE SUMMARY COURT.<sup>1</sup>

1. Composition, etc.—The summary court is composed of one officer, designated by the commanding officer of a garrison, fort, or other place, regiment or corps, detached battalion or company, or other detachment, for such place or command, or for each battalion of a command. When more than one officer is present with a command, the commanding officer should not designate himself as a summary court. But the summary court may be appointed and the officer designated by superior authority when by him deemed desirable.

2. When but one commissioned officer is present with a command, he is a summary court and finally determines the cases tried by him. In such case no order appointing the court will be issued, but the officer will enter on the record that he is the "only officer present with the command."<sup>2</sup> In all other cases the sentences must, before they can be executed, be approved by the officer appointing the court or the officer commanding for the time being.

3. The summary-court act does not give the accused the right to object to trial by summary court, except as stated in the next paragraph, nor does it require that when the trial officer is the accuser the case shall be tried by another court. A summary court can not, however, adjudge confinement and forfeiture in excess of a period of one month, unless the accused shall before trial consent in writing to trial by said court, but in any case of refusal to so consent, the trial may be had either by general, regimental, or garrison court-martial, or by said summary court, but in case of trial by said summary court without consent as aforesaid, the court shall not adjudge confinement or forfeiture of pay for more than one month.<sup>1</sup>

4. Noncommissioned officers can not, if they object thereto, be brought to trial before summary courts without the authority of the officer competent to order their trial by general court-martial, but shall, in such cases, be brought to trial before garrison, regimental, or general courts-martial, as the case may be.<sup>2</sup>

5. Jurisdiction.—The summary court has jurisdiction both in time of peace and of war.

6. As regards persons, the summary court can not legally try officers, cadets, candidates for promotion, or the civilians mentioned in the 63d Article of War. As to noncommissioned officers, see paragraph 4, ante. Over all other enlisted men and over general prisoners the summary court has jurisdiction.

7. As regards time of trial, the jurisdiction of a summary court is not affected by the time when cases are brought before it, the requirement of the law as to time being directory only. The commanding officer, and not the court, will determine when and what cases will be brought before it. Delay in the trial of a soldier does not invalidate the proceedings, but may be considered by the court in awarding sentence.<sup>3</sup>

8. Power.—Summary courts have power to administer oaths;<sup>4</sup> to hear and determine cases; and, when satisfied of the guilt of an accused party, to adjudge the punishment to be inflicted.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>4</sup> This refers to oaths of witnesses. The trial officer himself is not sworn. The trial officers of summary courts, judge-advocates of courts-martial, and judge-advocates of departments have power to administer oaths for purposes of military justice and for other purposes of military administration. (See act of July 27, 1892, page 121, post.) A summary court is not empowered to issue process of attachment to compel the attendance of a civilian witness.

9. Procedure.—The accused will be arraigned and allowed to plead, according to court-martial practice. When the accused pleads not guilty, witnesses will be sworn and evidence received, the accused being permitted to testify in his own behalf and make a statement, but the evidence and statement will not be recorded.

10. The summary court, as soon as trial is concluded, will record its findings and sentence<sup>2</sup> in the summary court record and submit it to the officer appointing the court, who will record thereon his approval or disapproval, in part or in whole, with date and signature. Should the only officer present with the command sit as summary court, the findings and sentence will be recorded in like manner.<sup>3</sup> No other records of the proceedings will be kept, and such trials will not be published in orders.

11. Previous Convictions.—Charges submitted for trial by a summary court will be accompanied by the certified copies of previous convictions on file with the company records, which copies will be returned to the company records immediately after trial. If this evidence is not submitted, the summary court may take judicial notice of any such evidence which that record contains. If the charges be referred to a garrison or regimental court-martial, the copies of previous convictions will accompany them, but will be returned to the company records immediately after trial.<sup>4</sup>

12. Whenever, in determining on its sentence, a summary court shall take into consideration previous convictions, a note of the number of such previous convictions will be made on the summary court record.

13. Limit of Punishing Power.—Summary courts are subject to the restrictions of the 83d Article of War.

Under this article inferior courts-martial “have power to award punishment not to exceed confinement at hard labor for three months or forfeiture of three months’ pay, or both, and in addition thereto, in the case of noncommissioned officers, reduction to the ranks, and in the case of first-class privates reduction to second-class privates: Provided, That a summary court shall not adjudge confinement and forfeiture in excess of a period of one month unless the accused shall before trial consent in writing to trial by said court, but in any case of refusal to so consent the trial may be had either by general, regimental, or garrison court-martial, or by said summary court, but in case of trial by said summary court without consent as aforesaid, the court shall not adjudge confinement or forfeiture of pay for more than one month.” This is the limit of their punishing power. For those offenses for which a limit of punishment has been prescribed, a summary court is restricted to the kinds of punishment named, except as to the substitutions in the settled ratio given on page 60, ante.

14. Record.—“There shall be a summary court record kept at each military post, and in the field at the headquarters of the proper command, in which shall be entered a record of all cases heard and determined and the action had thereon.”<sup>1</sup>

15. Clemency.—The commanding officers authorized to approve the sentences of summary courts and superior authority have power to remit or mitigate the same.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Act of June 18, 1898; see page 130, post. For form for record, see page 159, post.

16. "When the only officer present with a command sits as a summary court, no approval of the sentence is required by law, but he should sign the sentence as such officer and date his signature."<sup>1</sup>

17. Instructions for Post and Other Commanders, relating to Summary Courts.—Charges for offenses cognizable by inferior courts will be laid before the proper commander, who, if he thinks the accused should be tried, will cause him to be brought before the summary court<sup>2</sup> or garrison or regimental court-martial. Before referring to summary courts charges for which the maximum limit of punishment that may be awarded is greater than one month's forfeiture and confinement, commanding officers will cause the accused to sign a statement on the original charges as to whether or not he consents to trial by summary court, which statement, along with the charges, becomes a part of the summary court record. A note of this statement in each case will also be entered on the monthly report of trials by such court.<sup>3</sup>

18. "Commanding officers are not required to bring every dereliction of duty before a court for trial, but will endeavor to prevent their recurrence by admonitions, withholding of privileges, and taking such steps as may be necessary to enforce their orders."<sup>4</sup> In accordance with the spirit of the foregoing, company commanders are authorized, subject to the control of the commanding officer of the post, to dispose of cases of derelictions of duty in their commands which would be within the jurisdiction of inferior courts-martial by requiring extra tours of fatigue, unless the soldier concerned demands a trial. This right to demand a trial must be made known to him.<sup>5</sup>

cases as may properly be brought before it. Trials will be had on Sunday only when the exigencies of the service make it necessary."<sup>1</sup>

20. Commanding officers will furnish company and other commanders with copies of the summary court record relating to men of their commands, said copies to be certified to be true copies by the commanding officer or adjutant.<sup>2</sup>

21. The name of each officer at a post who has acted as a summary court will be reported on the post return, with dates.

THE GARRISON COURT-MARTIAL.

1. Composition.—A garrison court-martial is composed of three members<sup>3</sup> and a judge-advocate. The remarks regarding the eligibility of officers for court-martial duty, on page 11, paragraphs 1-3, ante, apply to garrison courts.

2. Constitution.—Every officer commanding a garrison, fort, or other place where the troops consist of different corps may appoint garrison courts.<sup>4</sup> The term "other place" includes any locality whatever where the command may be, whether in garrison or in the field. To fulfill the requirement regarding "different corps," it is sufficient if there be on duty in the command a single officer or soldier of another arm of service than that of which the main body is composed.

3. Jurisdiction, etc.—The summary court act has expressly abolished the field officer's court, and has practically substituted the summary court for the garrison and regimental courts-martial, both in time of peace and war, subject to the provisions that noncommissioned officers shall not, if they object thereto, be brought to trial before summary courts without the authority of the officer competent to order their trial by general court-martial, but shall in such cases be brought to trial before garrison, regimental, or general courts-martial, as the case may be;<sup>1</sup> and the 83d Article of War provides that a summary court shall not adjudge confinement and forfeiture in excess of a period of one month unless the accused shall before trial consent in writing to trial by said court, but in any case of refusal to so consent the trial may be had either by general, regimental, or garrison court-martial.

4. The garrison court-martial can not try capital cases, nor commissioned officers, cadets, or candidates for promotion; but it has jurisdiction over all other enlisted men,<sup>2</sup> military convicts, and, in time of war, over the persons described in the 63d Article of War.

5. A garrison court-martial may be convened under the following circumstances:

(a) Where the accused, not being an enlisted man or a military convict, is not subject to the jurisdiction of a summary court, although he is subject to the jurisdiction of other inferior courts-martial.

(b) In case the accused, before trial, refuses to consent in writing to trial by summary court, the case being one which a summary court can not, under these circumstances, adequately punish.

(c) When the accused, being a noncommissioned officer, objects to trial by summary court.

6. Whenever under the summary court act or the 83d Article of War it becomes necessary to convene a garrison or regimental court, the order appointing it will state the facts which bring the cases to be tried within the exceptions of those laws.<sup>3</sup>

7. The general remarks heretofore made regarding the president, members, judge-advocate, organization, order of procedure,<sup>4</sup> etc., of courts-martial apply to garrison courts, except when the general court is specifically mentioned.

<sup>4</sup> Testimony taken before a garrison or regimental court-martial will not be reduced to writing. (Par. 988, A. R.)

THE REGIMENTAL COURT-MARTIAL.<sup>1</sup>

1. Composition.—The regimental, like the garrison court-martial, is composed of three members and a judge-advocate; but in case of the regimental court only officers of the offender's regiment or corps are eligible for detail on the court.<sup>2</sup>

2. Constitution.—Every officer commanding a regiment or corps may appoint a regimental court-martial.<sup>2</sup> The word "corps" includes the Corps of Engineers, the Ordnance, and the Signal Corps.

3. Jurisdiction.—With the exception that the regimental court-martial has jurisdiction only over offenders belonging to the regiment or corps from which the court is composed, and over civilians attached thereto, as contemplated in the 63d Article of War, what has been said of the jurisdiction, punishing power, and procedure of garrison courts applies equally to regimental courts.<sup>3</sup>

The regimental court-martial also has the jurisdiction conferred upon it by the 30th Article of War.<sup>1</sup>

COURTS OF INQUIRY.

1. Constitution.—A court of inquiry may be ordered, that is, convened, by the President or by any commanding officer, but shall never be ordered by a commanding officer except upon a demand by the officer or soldier whose conduct is to be inquired of.<sup>1</sup>

2. There is no statutory restriction to the meaning of the term "commanding officer," consequently any commander of the officer or soldier who makes the request would have authority to convene the court, but if the charge to be inquired into is beyond the jurisdiction of a court-martial which such commander can convene, he would not, by analogies of the service in the administration of military justice, be the proper convening authority in such case. It is the offense charged which should give the jurisdiction to convene and not the status of the party in service.<sup>2</sup>

3. Jurisdiction.—A court of inquiry is convened to examine into the nature of any transaction of, or accusation or imputation against, any officer or soldier,<sup>3</sup> and the inquiry is confined to those actually in the service.<sup>4</sup> It will not give an opinion on the merits of the case inquired of unless specially ordered to do so.<sup>5</sup> The opinion may not be unanimous and a dissenting opinion is therefore authorized. The court is not barred by any statute of limitation in its investigation.<sup>6</sup>

4. Composition.—“A court of inquiry shall consist of one or more officers, not exceeding three, and a recorder, to reduce the proceedings and evidence to writing.”<sup>1</sup>

5. The form of the convening order is similar to that for a court-martial. It details the members and recorder by name, and specifies the subject-matter of inquiry, and directs a report of the facts only, or of the facts with an opinion.

6. Where the court is composed of two or more members and the number is reduced by casualty or challenge, the court may proceed with the reduced number, but the convening authority should be notified, as a new member may be detailed and take his seat during the inquiry.

7. Organization.—It is the custom of the service to allow the same right of challenge of members as in courts-martial.

8. The oath of the members of the court is administered by the recorder and that of the recorder by the president of the court. The oaths are those prescribed by the 117th Article of War.

9. A reporter for a court of inquiry is allowed to be paid under current appropriation acts for the support of the army. The employment and rate of compensation is in the discretion of the Secretary of War only. Reporters are usually paid at the rates fixed by army regulations for those of general courts-martial.

10. Procedure.—A court of inquiry is governed by the general principles of military law, applying the analogies of a court-martial where they are applicable, and recurring to adjudged cases, precedents, rules, authoritative legal opinions and approved books of legal exposition, where there is no pertinent paramount stated rule.<sup>2</sup>

11. “A court of inquiry, and the recorder thereof, have the same power to summon and examine witnesses as is given to courts-martial and the judge-advocates thereof. Such witnesses shall take the same oath which is taken by witnesses before courts-martial, and the party accused shall be permitted to examine and cross-examine them, so as fully to investigate the circumstances in question."<sup>1</sup>

12. The examination of witnesses may be by the court, by a member thereof, or by the recorder, in the discretion of the court. The recorder is not an adviser of the court, nor a prosecutor before it, but must assist the court, if it so desires, in all matters leading to correct conclusions of fact and law.

13. The court must give its conclusions as to the facts as a finding, and, when ordered, give an opinion on the merits of the case.

14. "The proceedings of a court of inquiry must be authenticated by the signatures of the recorder and the president thereof, and delivered to the commanding officer."<sup>2</sup> The form for the record of a general court-martial should be followed in making up the record of the court.

RETIRING BOARDS.

1. Constitution and Composition.—"The Secretary of War, under the direction of the President, shall, from time to time, assemble an Army retiring board,<sup>1</sup> consisting of not more than nine nor less than five officers, two-fifths of whom shall be selected from the Medical Corps. The board, excepting the officers selected from the Medical Corps, shall be composed, as far as may be, of seniors in rank to the officer whose disability is inquired of."<sup>2</sup>

2. The provision of the statute as to the rank of the members is directory only, and the decision of the convening authority, as evidenced by the selection of the members of the board, is conclusive.

3. Retiring boards are convened by the Secretary of War, who, in the absence of any statutory authority, under the custom of the service, appoints a recorder. The recorder is not charged with any specific function other than to record the proceedings of the board. He will, however, carry out such instructions as may be given him by the board and may be required by the latter to collect evidence, present it to the board, examine the witnesses and, generally speaking, conduct the case for the Government.

A stenographic reporter for a retiring board can only be employed on the authority of the Secretary of War obtained in advance of the employment. The authority must be filed with the voucher on which payment is made. The form of voucher used will be that provided for the payment of reporters for general courts-martial with the necessary changes in the wording of the form.<sup>1</sup>

4. Right to a Hearing.—"Except in cases where an officer may be retired by the President upon his own application, or by reason of his having served forty-five years, or of his being sixty-two years old, no officer shall be retired from active service, nor shall an officer, in any case, be wholly retired from the service, without a full and fair hearing before an Army retiring board, if, upon due summons, he demands it."<sup>2</sup>

5. This entitles an officer subject to be thus retired, to appear before the board, with counsel if desired, and to introduce testimony of his own, and to cross-examine the witnesses examined by the board, including the medical members of the board who may have taken part in the medical examination and have stated or reported to the board the result of the same. If the officer does not elect to appear before the board when summoned, he waives the right to a hearing, and can not properly take exception to a conclusion arrived at in his absence.<sup>3</sup>

6. Section 1253, Revised Statutes, does not authorize the President to send a case back to a retiring board after he has once approved and acted upon its report; such approval and action determines that the officer has had "a full and fair hearing."<sup>4</sup>

<sup>4</sup> Miller's Case, 19 Ct. Cls., 338; McBlair's case, id., 528. In both of these cases the officers had been wholly retired, and their successors had been appointed and confirmed.

Attorney General Devens held where a naval officer having appeared before an examining board (organized under secs. 1493-1505, R. S.), and, the examination being temporarily suspended, was granted permission to go home and to be absent until notified by the board to appear, and he failed to receive this notice until after the examination, which was resumed during his absence, had been concluded, and the proceedings and findings of the board were approved by the President and his order in the case duly executed by the retirement of the officer (under sec. 1447, R. S.), but the vacancy created by such retirement remained unfilled, and no rights of any other person had intervened, that the action of the President could be revoked and the officer allowed a hearing. (16 Opin., 20.)

7. Challenge.—The statutory right to a “fair hearing” includes the right to a hearing by an impartial board, and therefore the right to challenge for cause.

8. Oaths.—The members of a retiring board “shall be sworn in every case to discharge their duties honestly and impartially.”<sup>1</sup> The oath is administered by the recorder.

The following form of oath complies with the statute:

“You [naming the members] do swear that you will honestly and impartially discharge your duties as members of this board in the matter now before you. So help you God.”

9. The presiding officer of the board administers the following oath to the recorder:

“You [naming him] do swear that you will, according to your best ability, accurately and impartially record the proceedings of the board and the evidence to be given in the case in hearing. So help you God.”

10. Powers.—A retiring board may inquire into and determine the facts touching the nature and occasion of the disability of any officer who appears to be incapable of performing the duties of his office, and shall have such powers of a court-martial and of a court of inquiry as may be necessary for that purpose. “In the execution of the duty thus imposed by law, the board is required to ascertain the nature and extent of the disability and its character and effect, as temporary or permanent. The evidence upon which to base its findings in this regard should be derived chiefly but not exclusively from the report of the medical officers and from the authenticated extracts from the departmental records which show the cases in which the officer has received medical or surgical treatment during his connection with the military service.”<sup>2</sup>

11. The investigation of a retiring board is not restricted by any statute of limitation. It may inquire into the matter of a disability, however long since it may have originated.<sup>1</sup>

12. "The provision (of section 1248, Revised Statutes) that the board 'shall have such powers of a court-martial and of a court of inquiry as may be necessary,' etc., is indefinite, but has given rise to but little question in practice. Construing it in connection with the other provisions cited, its evident intention is seen to be that the board shall have and exercise such powers of a 'court' as may be requisite to insure a full investigation, to afford a fair hearing, and to enable it satisfactorily to determine the questions referred. Thus it is properly authorized and empowered to call for and entertain such testimony of witnesses, depositions, documents, or papers, as may be material to establish or illustrate the nature or extent of the disability, to pass upon questions of admissibility of evidence, to grant continuances, to give the officer ordered before it a reasonable opportunity of defense if desired, to find and report in his absence if he fail to appear; and further to determine the relevancy and validity of challenges to its members and punish acts in the nature of contempt, according to Arts. 86 and 88 (A. W.), if necessary to an impartial and complete inquiry. But the board can not entertain a charge of a military offense as such, nor assume to try. The disability which it is to inquire into is an existing physical or mental incapacity, not a moral defect or a criminal amenability. If the case be one calling for trial and punishment, it should be referred to a court-martial."<sup>2</sup>

13. "The board having established the fact of incapacity for active service must seek the cause of such incapacity and determine whether the cause so ascertained is an incident of service; that is, a thing which inseparably belongs to, is connected with, or inheres in the military service. Battles, marches, the performance of the several duties in garrison or in the field which are imposed upon officers of the line or staff by law, regulations, the lawful orders of competent military superiors, by an established custom, or by the exigencies or necessities of the military service; all these make up and constitute the 'incidents of service,' one or more of which must be ascertained by the board as the determining cause of an incapacitating disability. If the disabling cause be a wound or injury, the wound or injury must have resulted from an incident of the service; if it be a disease, the disease must have been the result of an incident or a succession or aggregation of incidents of the service; in other words, the board must pass from the disability to the occasion or circumstance of which it is the direct result, and that occasion or circumstance must be a thing so inseparably associated with the military service, so directly connected with it and growing out of it as to entitle it to be regarded as an incident of the service.

"If an officer participates in military operations, or serves in a locality where the climatic or other causes are such as to induce a particular form of disease, and having taken due and reasonable precautions to prevent it contracts such disease, then if disability results its cause would properly be regarded as an incident of service within the meaning of the statute. But when a disease is contracted, not due to exposure or to the existence of conditions such as have been described, the board will require the production of testimony showing that it is not due to vicious or irregular habits, and that there has been neither carelessness nor contributory negligence on the part of the officer, who is bound as a prudent man and a conscientious public officer to use every proper means at his command to preserve his health and to maintain his physical efficiency under all conditions of service."<sup>1</sup>

14. When the retirement is desired by the officer before the board, it is proper, at the beginning of the hearing, for him to state under oath the nature and cause of his disability, the recorder or board asking such questions as will help to bring out the facts. He may also be interrogated as to his military history, if it be deemed desirable to do so. When the retirement is opposed by him, he can not be required to testify against himself.

15. The senior medical officer of the board is the next witness. He is called on to submit the result (reduced to writing and signed by the medical officers) of the medical examination of the officer before the board, and is interrogated as to the cause and permanency of the disability and the degree of incapacity for active service. The other medical officer or officers (if there be more than two) are similarly examined. Whether the disability is an incident of service,<sup>1</sup> is a question for the board to determine on the facts.

16. The recorder then submits the documentary evidence which he has received from The Adjutant-General's Office. It is not the practice of retiring boards to verify the correctness of these records under oath. Other evidence may then be introduced. The officer before the board has the right, as above stated, to object to improper evidence and to interrogate the witnesses, and may himself introduce evidence, if legal, material, and relevant, and may submit a statement in writing, if he desires to do so.

17. Finding.—"When the board finds an officer incapacitated for active service, it shall also find and report the cause<sup>2</sup> which, in its judgment, has produced his

<sup>2</sup> It has been held that the "cause" of "incapacity" intended in section 1249, Revised Statutes, is a physical cause; that moral obliquity was not had in view; and that the matter of the financial integrity of the officer was beyond the jurisdiction of the board. So, held that the board was not authorized to recommend the retirement of an officer because he did not pay his debts. Held also that the inability of a disbursing officer to furnish a bond when duly required to do so was not sufficient ground for his retirement. (Digest Opin. J. A. G., § 2203.)

Held that the law—sections 1248 and 1249, Revised Statutes—contemplated an existing and not a purely prospective and contingent incapacity; and that an inquiry into an officer's general efficiency could be pertinent only in so far as it could be regarded as going to show that his inefficiency, if found was the result of an impairment of health. (Id., § 2204.)

incapacity, and whether such cause is an incident of service.”<sup>1</sup>

18. The board is closed for deliberation and determines whether the officer before it for examination is incapacitated for active service or not. (It is not necessary that the recorder retire.) When it finds the officer incapacitated for active service, it must also find and report the cause which, in its judgment, has produced the incapacity, and whether such cause is an incident of service.<sup>1</sup> The board may modify its findings and decision at any time before forwarding its record of proceedings. The finding should be framed in narrative form, and should not embrace any recommendation.

19. Action on Finding.—“The proceedings and decision of the board shall be transmitted to the Secretary of War, and shall be laid by him before the President for his approval or disapproval and orders in the case.”<sup>2</sup>

20. In any case in which, in the President's judgment, the investigation has not been complete, “or the finding is not justified by the facts, he may, before acting thereon, return the proceedings to the board for a further inquiry or hearing, or a correction of its conclusions, as in a case of a court-martial. But not being a court, and the inquiry not being a trial, the board, upon such revision, may, and should if so directed, reexamine former witnesses or take new testimony.

21. “It is now fully settled that where the President has finally approved the finding of a retiring board, and has acted thereupon by making his order retiring the officer in one of the forms authorized by the statute, his power is exhausted. He can not then reopen the case, nor, though the order made was mistaken or unjust, can he revoke it and substitute another otherwise retiring the officer. If he does so, the second order will be void and inoperative. The action of the President, whose authority in such a case is, in the language of the Supreme Court, ‘wholly dependent upon the letter of positive enactment,' is 'equivalent to the judgment of an appropriate tribunal upon the facts as found, and can not be disturbed.' If injustice has been done, relief can be afforded by Congress alone."<sup>1</sup>

22. "The finding of a retiring board, approved by the President, is conclusive as to the facts. The board finds the facts and the President approves or disapproves the finding, but the law does not empower him to modify the finding or to substitute a different one. There is here a judicial power vested in the two, and not in the President acting singly, and when the power has been once fully exercised it is exhausted as to the case."<sup>2</sup>

RETIREMENT.

1. "When any officer has become incapable of performing the duties of his office, he shall be either retired from active service, or wholly retired from the service, by the President, as hereinafter provided."<sup>3</sup>

"The finding of the retiring board, approved by the President, is the judgment of the tribunal created under the law to determine such questions." (Potts v. United States, supra.)

"The finding, approved by the President, fixes the fact that an officer's incapacity was or was not caused by the service, and the fact once fixed can not be reviewed." (Burchard v. United States, supra.)

"Upon the report of the board, the President had the right to adopt one of three courses with the claimant; he could disapprove the finding, and thereby retain the claimant in the active service; retire him from active service, or wholly retire him from the Army, as he might determine. He had a power to exercise in the disposition of the report, and his action thereon made, in law, the complete exercise of the full measure of authority provided by the statute. It is not a continuing power, but is performed to the extent of its existence by the one act of the President." (McBlair v. United States, supra. <sup>3</sup> Sec. 1245, R. S. (see secs. 1246 to 1258, R. S., inclusive). This section is taken from sec. 16 of "an act providing for the better organization of the Military Establishment," approved August 3, 1861, which prescribed, "that if any commissioned officer of the Army, or of the Marine Corps, shall have become, or shall hereafter become, incapable of performing the duties of his office, he shall be placed upon the retired list and withdrawn from active service and command and from the line of promotion."

2. "When a retiring board finds that an officer is incapacitated for active service, and that his incapacity is the result of an incident of service, and such decision is approved by the President, said officer shall be retired from active service and placed on the list of retired officers."<sup>1</sup>

3. "When the board finds that an officer is incapacitated for active service, and that his incapacity is not the result of any incident of service, and its decision is approved by the President, the officer shall be retired from active service, or wholly retired from the service, as the President may determine."<sup>2</sup>

RETIREMENT UNDER ACT OF OCTOBER 1, 1890.

1. The act of October 1, 1890, providing for examination for promotion in the Army directs: "That should the officer fail in his physical examination and be found incapacitated for service by reason of physical disability contracted in line<sup>3</sup> of duty, he shall be retired with the

<sup>1</sup> Sec. 1251, R. S. It does not affect the authority to retire under sec. 1251, R. S., that the incapacity of the officer may have been found to have resulted from a wound received by him while in the volunteer service before entering the Regular Army.

Secs. 1251 and 1252, R. S., are based on sec. 17 of the act cited in note 3, page 94, ante, which prescribed as follows: "The board, whenever it finds an officer incapacitated for active service, will report whether, in its judgment, the said incapacity result from long and faithful service, from wounds or injury received in the line of duty, from sickness or exposure therein, or from any other incident of service. If so, and the President approve such judgment, the disabled officer shall thereupon be placed upon the list of retired officers, according to the provisions of this act. If otherwise, and if the President concur in opinion with the board, the officer shall be retired as above, either with his pay proper alone, or with his service rations alone, at the discretion of the President, or he shall be wholly retired from the service, with one year's pay and allowances."

The incapacity mentioned is a physical incapacity. (Digest Opin. J. A. G., §§ 2203, 2208.)

<sup>3</sup> The phrase "in line of duty," as used in this act, should be construed as having the same meaning with "incident of service," as used in sec. 1249, R. S.

The following is an extract from a report of the Judge-Advocate-General which, although relating to enlisted men, is in principle applicable in the rank to which his seniority entitled him to be promoted; but if he should fail for any other reason he shall be suspended from promotion for one year, when he shall case of commissioned officers. The action of the War Department on this report was in effect a confirmation of the conclusion arrived at:

“Formerly the expression ‘line of duty’ was much more strictly construed than now. Attorney General Cushing explained it thus:

“The phrase “line of duty” is an apt one, to denote that an act of duty performed must have relation of causation, mediate or immediate, to the wound, the casualty, the injury, or the disease, producing disability or death.

*                     *                     *                     *                     *

“Every person who enters the military service of the country—officer, soldier, sailor, or marine—takes upon himself certain moral and legal engagements of duty, which constitute his official or professional obligations. While in the performance of those things, which the law requires of him as military duty, he is in the line of his duty. But, at the same time, though a soldier or sailor, he is not the less a man and a citizen, with private rights to exercise and duties to perform; and, while attending to these things, he is not in the line of his public duty. In addition to this, a soldier or sailor, like any other man, has the physical faculty of doing many things, which are in violation of duties, either general or special; and in doing these things he is not acting in the line of his duty. Around all those acts of the soldier or sailor which are official in their nature, the pension law draws a legislative line, and then they say to the soldier or sailor: If, while performing acts which are within that line, you thereby incur disability or death, you, or your widow or children, as the case may be, shall receive a pension or other allowance; but not if the disability or death arise from acts performed outside of that line, that is, absolutely disconnected from, and wholly independent of, the performance of duty. Was the cause of disability or death a cause within the line of duty or outside of it? Was that cause appertaining to, dependent upon, or otherwise necessarily and essentially connected with, duty within the line, or was it unappurtenant, independent, and not of necessary and essential connection? That, in my judgment, is the true test-criterion of the class of pension cases under consideration.’ (7 Opin. Atty. Gen., 161, 162.)

“A more liberal construction was the earlier one of Attorney General Rush. Upon this point he said:—

“I should presume, however, that every officer in full commission, and not on furlough, must be considered in the line of his duty, although, at the moment, no particular or active employment is devolved upon him. The same of a soldier who is kept in pay, for it is presupposed of both the one and the other that they are at all times prepared for duty; and it is surely of indispensable obligation upon them to keep themselves detached from other pursuits, so as to be ready at a moment to answer any call emanating from those who may be authorized to command them.’ (1 Opin. Atty. Gen., 182.)

“But neither of these views has been found to be sufficient, and therefore neither has been followed in practice.

“By (the fourth section of) an act of March 3, 1865 (13 Stat., 488), it was provided:—

“That every noncommissioned officer, private, or other person, who has been, or shall hereafter be, discharged from the army of the United be reexamined, and in case of failure on such reexamination he shall be honorably discharged, with one year's pay, from the Army."

2. All questions relating to the physical condition of an officer shall be determined by the full board.

The physical examination will be thorough, and will include the ordinary analysis of the urine.

States by reason of wounds received in battle, on skirmish, on picket, or in action, or in the line of duty, shall be entitled to receive the same bounty as if he had served out his full term.'

"And by an act approved April 12, 1866 (14 Stat., 352), it was declared—

"That the true intent and meaning of the words "or in the line of duty," used in the fourth section of the act approved March 3, 1865, * * * requires that the benefit of the provision of said section shall be extended to any enlisted man or other person entitled by law to bounty who has been or may be discharged by reason of a wound received while actually in service under military orders, not at the time on furlough or leave of absence, nor engaged in any unlawful or unauthorized act or pursuit.'

"In this enactment we have a legislative construction of the expression 'in the line of duty,' as used in the earlier legislation cited. To be in the line of duty, in the sense of that legislation, the soldier must be actually in service under military orders, and he must not be on furlough nor engaged in any unlawful or unauthorized act or pursuit. For the purpose of that legislation this legislative construction would be conclusive, but it is not necessarily so in determining the soldier's condition in other connections—his right of admission to the Soldiers' Home, for example. In determining his general military status or condition in respect to the question under consideration a further limitation has in practice been recognized, namely, that the disability must not be the result of the unlawful or unauthorized act, as a direct or a contributory cause. A circular of the Surgeon General's Office, dated May 11, 1893, approved by the Secretary of War, states the matter as follows:

"It is just to assume that all diseases contracted or injuries received while an officer or soldier is in the military service of the United States occur in the line of duty unless the surgeon knows, first, that the disease or injury existed before entering the service; second, that it was contracted while absent from duty on furlough or otherwise; or, third, that it occurred in consequence of willful neglect or immoral conduct of the sick man himself.'

"I am inclined to believe that the principle as stated in the act of April 12, 1866, modified by the limitation indicated, is as accurate a general statement of the meaning in military administration of the expression 'in the line of duty' as can be given. It is, however, subject to exceptions. Thus a soldier may be on furlough and yet in the line of duty, as when he is en route to his station at the expiration of his furlough, or when during his furlough he is, in compliance with orders, on his way to a place to report his whereabouts. So, certain acts may in a measure be contributory causes of disability, and yet not to such a degree as to bring the case within the general rule, as when the disability is the result of negligence, but the negligence is not of such a degree as to amount to culpable contributory negligence. Such cases can only be properly decided on their own merits.'

Defects of vision, resulting from errors of refraction, that are not excessive, and that may be entirely corrected by glasses, do not disqualify, unless they are due to or are accompanied by organic disease.

3. When the board finds an officer physically incapacitated for service, it shall conclude the examination by finding and reporting the cause which, in its judgment, has produced his disability, and whether such disability was contracted in the line of duty.

4. The record in each case where an officer is found physically disqualified shall be authenticated by all the members, including medical officers, and the recorder. In all other cases the medical officer will not be required to sign the proceedings. If any member dissents from the opinion of the board, it will be so stated.

5. Any officer reported by a retiring board as incapacitated by reason of physical disability, the result of an incident of service, shall, if the proceedings of said board are approved by the President, be regarded as physically unfit for promotion within the meaning of section 3 of the act of October 1, 1890, and will be retired with the rank to which his seniority entitles him whenever a vacancy occurs that otherwise would result in his promotion on the active list; provided, that before the occurrence of such vacancy he shall not have been placed on the retired list.<sup>1</sup>

6. The finding of the board of examination that the officer is incapacitated for duty is not per se final, but must be reported for the action of the Secretary of War and passed upon by him. Where the finding and report of the board have been approved but not yet executed by actual retirement, there may intervene contingencies which would supersede such proceeding—as the trial and dismissal of the officer by court-martial, or the arising of new causes which might make proper that the question of his disability be inquired into by a retiring board convened under section 1246, Revised Statutes. But unless some such new occasion and ground of disqualification be presented, the action of the Secretary of War, in approving the report, remains final and exhaustive, and the officer is entitled to be retired under the act of 1890, and can not legally be ordered before such retiring board.<sup>1</sup>

SECTION 1342, R. S. The armies of the United States shall be governed by the following rules and articles. The word officer, as used therein, shall be understood to designate commissioned officers, the word soldier shall be understood to include noncommissioned officers, musicians, artificers, and privates, and other enlisted men, and the convictions mentioned therein shall be understood to be convictions by court-martial.

ARTICLE 1. Every officer now in the Army of the United States shall, within six months from the passing of this act, and every officer hereafter appointed shall, before he enters upon the duties of his office, subscribe these rules and articles.

ART. 2. These rules and articles shall be read to every enlisted man at the time of, or within six days after, his enlistment; and he shall thereupon take an oath or affirmation, in the following form: "I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States of America: that I will serve them honestly and faithfully against all their enemies whomsoever; and that I will obey the orders of the President of the United States and the orders of the officers appointed over me, according to the rules and articles of war." This oath may be taken before any commissioned officer of the Army.

ART. 3. And any officer who, through neglect or design, omits to send such returns, shall, on conviction thereof, be punished as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 8. Every officer who knowingly makes a false return to the Department of War, or to any of his superior officers, authorized to call for such returns, of the state of the regiment, troop, or company, or garrison under his command; or of the arms, ammunition,

Every officer commanding a troop, battery, or company, is charged with the arms, accouterments, ammunition, clothing, or other military stores belonging to his command, and is accountable to his colonel in case of their being lost, spoiled, or damaged otherwise than by unavoidable accident, or on actual service.

ART. 11. Every officer commanding a regiment or an independent troop, battery, or company, not in the field, may, when actually quartered with such command, grant furloughs to the enlisted men, in such numbers and for such time as he shall deem consistent with the good of the service. Every officer commanding a regiment, or an independent troop, battery, or company, in the field, may grant furloughs not exceeding thirty days at one time, to five per cent of the enlisted men, for good conduct in the line of duty, but subject to the approval of the commander of the forces of which said enlisted men form a part. Every company officer of a regiment, commanding any troop, battery, or company not in the field, or commanding in any garrison, fort, post, or barrack, may, in the absence of his field officer, grant furloughs to the enlisted men, for a time not exceeding twenty days in six months, and not to more than two persons to be absent at the same time.

And whosoever, being so ordered, refuses to obey such officer or noncommissioned officer, or draws a weapon upon him, shall be punished as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 25. No officer or soldier shall use any reproachful or provoking speeches or gestures to another. Any officer who so offends shall be put in arrest. Any soldier who so offends shall be confined, and required to ask pardon of the party offended in the presence of his commanding officer.

ART. 26. No officer or soldier shall send a challenge to another officer or soldier to fight a duel, or accept a challenge so sent. Any officer who so offends shall be dismissed from the service. Any soldier who so offends shall suffer such punishment as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 27. Any officer or noncommissioned officer, commanding a guard, who, knowingly and willingly, suffers any person to go forth to fight a duel shall be punished as a challenger; and all seconds or promoters of duels, and carriers of challenges to fight duels, shall be deemed principals, and punished accordingly. It shall be the duty of any officer commanding an army, regiment, troop, battery, company, post, or detachment, who knows or has reason to believe that a challenge has been given or accepted by any officer or enlisted man under his command, immediately to arrest the offender and bring him to trial.

ART. 28. Any officer or soldier who upbraids another officer or soldier for refusing a challenge shall himself be punished as a challenger; and all officers and soldiers are hereby discharged from any disgrace or opinion of disadvantage which might arise from their having refused to accept challenges, as they will only have acted

Any officer who thinks himself wronged by the commanding officer of his regiment, and, upon due application to such commander, is refused redress, may complain to the general commanding in the State or Territory where such regiment is stationed. The general shall examine into said complaint and take proper measures for redressing the wrong complained of; and he shall, as soon as possible, transmit to the Department of War a true statement of such complaint, with the proceedings had thereon.

ART. 30. Any soldier who thinks himself wronged by any officer may complain to the commanding officer of his regiment, who shall summon a regimental court-martial for the doing of justice to the complainant. Either party may appeal from such regimental court-martial to a general court-martial; but if, upon such second hearing, the appeal appears to be groundless and vexatious, the party appealing shall be punished at the discretion of said general court-martial.<sup>1</sup>

ART. 31. Any officer or soldier who lies out of his quarters, garrison, or camp, without leave from his <sup>1</sup> The "regimental court-martial," under the 30th A. W., can not be used as a substitute for a general court-martial or court of inquiry, for it can not try an officer nor make an investigation for the purpose of determining whether he shall be brought to trial. When, if the soldier's complaint should be sustained, the only redress would be a reprimand to the officer, the matter would not be within the jurisdiction of this court. It can only investigate such matters as are susceptible to redress by the doing of justice to the complainant; that is, when in some way he can be set right by putting a stop to the wrongful condition which the officer has caused to exist. Erroneous stoppages of pay, irregularity of detail, the apparent requirement of more labor than from any other soldiers, and the like, might in this way be investigated and the wrongful condition put an end to. The court will in such cases record the evidence and its conclusions of fact, and recommend the action to be taken. The members of the court (and the judge-advocate) will be sworn faithfully to perform their duties as members (and judge-advocate) of the court, and the proceedings will be recorded, as nearly as practicable, in the same manner as the proceedings of ordinary courts-martial.

Any officer or soldier who fails, except when prevented by sickness or other necessity, to repair, at the fixed time, to the place of parade, exercise or other rendezvous appointed by his commanding officer, or goes from the same, without leave from his commanding officer, before he is dismissed or relieved, shall be punished as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 34. Any soldier who is found one mile from camp, without leave in writing from his commanding officer, shall be punished as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 35. Any soldier who fails to retire to his quarters or tent at the beating of retreat, shall be punished according to the nature of his offense.

ART. 36. No soldier belonging to any regiment, troop, battery, or company shall hire another to do his duty for him, or be excused from duty, except in cases of sickness, disability, or leave of absence. Every such soldier found guilty of hiring his duty, and the person so hired to do another's duty, shall be punished as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 37. Every noncommissioned officer who connives at such hiring of duty shall be reduced. Every officer who knows and allows such practices shall be punished as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 41. Any officer who, by any means whatsoever, occasions false alarms in camp, garrison, or quarters, shall suffer death, or such other punishment as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 43. If any commander of any garrison, fortress, or post is compelled, by the officers and soldiers under his command, to give up to the enemy or to abandon it, the officers or soldiers so offending shall suffer death, or such other punishment as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 44. Any person belonging to the armies of the United States who makes known the watchword to any person not entitled to receive it, according to the rules and discipline of war, or presumes to give a parole or watchword different from that which he received, shall suffer death, or such other punishment as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 45. Whosoever relieves the enemy with money, victuals, or ammunition, or knowingly harbors or protects an enemy, shall suffer death, or such other punishment as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 46. Whosoever holds correspondence with, or gives intelligence to, the enemy, either directly or indirectly, shall suffer death, or such other punishment as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 49. Any officer who, having tendered his resignation, quits his post or proper duties, without leave and with intent to remain permanently absent therefrom, prior to due notice of the acceptance of the same, shall be deemed and punished as a deserter.

ART. 50. No noncommissioned officer or soldier shall enlist himself in any other regiment, troop, or company, without a regular discharge from the regiment, troop, or company in which he last served, on a penalty of being reputed a deserter, and suffering accordingly. And in case any officer shall knowingly receive and entertain such noncommissioned officer or soldier, or shall not, after his being discovered to be a deserter, immediately confine him and give notice thereof to the corps in which he last served, the said officer shall, by a court-martial, be cashiered.

ART. 51. Any officer or soldier who advises or persuades any other officer or soldier to desert the service of the United States shall, in time of war, suffer death, or such other punishment as a court-martial may direct; and, in time of peace, any punishment, excepting death, which a court-martial may direct.

ART. 52. It is earnestly recommended to all officers and soldiers diligently to attend divine service. Any officer who behaves indecently or irreverently at any place of divine worship shall be brought before a general court-martial, there to be publicly and severely reprimanded by the president thereof. Any soldier who so offends shall, for his first offense, forfeit one-sixth of a dollar; for each further offense he shall forfeit a like sum, and shall be confined twenty-four hours. The money so forfeited shall be deducted from his next pay, and shall be applied, by the captain or senior officer of his troop, battery, or company, to the use of the sick soldiers of the same.

ART. 53. Any officer who uses any profane oath or execration shall, for each offense, forfeit and pay one dollar. Any soldier who so offends shall incur the penalties provided in the preceding article; and all moneys forfeited for such offenses shall be applied as therein provided.

ART. 55. All officers and soldiers are to behave themselves orderly in quarters and on the march; and whoever commits any waste or spoil, either in walks or trees, parks, warrens, fish ponds, houses, gardens, grain fields, inclosures, or meadows, or maliciously destroys any property whatsoever belonging to inhabitants of the United States (unless by order of a general officer commanding a separate army in the field), shall, besides such penalties as he may be liable to by law, be punished as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 56. Any officer or soldier who does violence to any person bringing provisions or other necessaries to the camp, garrison, or quarters of the forces of the United States in foreign parts, shall suffer death, or such other punishment as a court-martial may direct.

ART. 57. Whosoever, belonging to the armies of the United States in foreign parts, or at any place within the United States or their Territories during rebellion against the supreme authority of the United States, forces a safe-guard, shall suffer death.

ART. 58. In time of war, insurrection, or rebellion, larceny, robbery, burglary, arson, mayhem, manslaughter, murder, assault and battery with intent to kill, wounding, by shooting or stabbing, with an intent to commit murder, rape, or an assault and battery with an intent to commit rape, shall be punishable by the sentence of a general court-martial, when committed by persons in the military service of the United States, and the punishment in any such case shall not be less than the punishment provided, for the like offense, by the laws of the State, Territory, or District in which such offense may have been committed.

If, upon such application, any officer refuses or willfully neglects, except in time of war, to deliver over such accused person to the civil magistrates, or to aid the officers of justice in apprehending him, he shall be dismissed from the service.<sup>1</sup>

[7] Who, having charge, possession, custody, or control of any money or other property of the United States, furnished or intended for the military service thereof, knowingly delivers, or causes to be delivered, to any person having authority to receive the same, any amount thereof less than that for which he receives a certificate or receipt; or

[8] Who, being authorized to make or deliver any paper certifying the receipt of any property of the United States, furnished or intended for the military service thereof, makes or delivers to any person such writing, without having full knowledge of the truth of the statements therein contained, and with intent to defraud the United States; or

But officers released from arrest, under the provisions of this article, may be tried, whenever the exigencies of the service shall permit, within twelve months after such release from arrest.

So help you God."

No person shall be tried or punished by a court-martial for desertion in time of peace and not in the face of an enemy, committed more than two years before the arraignment of such person for such offense, unless he shall meanwhile have absented himself from the United States, in which case the time of his absence shall be excluded in computing the period of the limitation: Provided, That said limitation shall not begin until the end of the term for which said person was mustered into the service.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Wharton says (Criminal Law, § 1259): "Perjury before courts-martial is by statute made indictable in most jurisdictions; but even when a statute does not apply, the weight of authority is that it is perjury at common law." It is a statutory crime, under sec. 5392, R. S. So that false swearing before a court-martial, if it possesses the other elements of perjury, is perjury, and can be tried as such by court-martial under the 62d A. W. The rules of evidence in regard to perjury will then apply. When any of the elements of perjury are lacking the offense will properly be charged as "false swearing;" e. g., when the matter is not material to the issue.

<sup>1</sup> In the record of the proceedings of a court-martial, at its organization for the trial of a case, the officers detailed as members and judge-advocate will be noted by name as present or absent. In the record of the proceedings of subsequent sessions in the same case, the following form of words will be used, subject to such modifications as the facts may require: "Present, all the members of the court and the judge-advocate." When the absence of an officer who has not qualified, or who has been relieved or excused as a member, has been accounted for, no further note will be made of it.

<sup>2</sup> It is the duty of a judge-advocate to ascertain, if possible, the cause of absence. If a member is absent by order, the number and date of order will be given if the order emanate from the convening or higher authority; but if absent by telegraphic authority, a post order, etc., a copy of the authority should be appended to the record; if absent sick, a surgeon's certificate of sickness and inability to attend will be furnished by the absent member, and appended to the record.

The court then proceeded to the trial of Private ———, ———th Company, Coast Artillery Corps, who, having been brought before the court, stated that he did not desire counsel; (or) introduced ——— as counsel.

| ——— was duly sworn as reporter. <sup>2</sup>

The order convening the court (and the order or orders modifying the detail, if any) was (or were) read to the accused, and he was asked if he objected to being tried by any member present named therein; to which he replied in the negative.

[CHALLENGES.]

(or) that he objected to ——— on the following grounds:

(Insert objections.)

The challenged member stated:

(Insert the statement of the challenged member, who should always be requested to respond to the challenge and inform the court upon its merits. Should the accused, after the statement, desire to put the challenged member upon his voir dire, the record should continue:)

The accused having requested that the challenged member be sworn upon his voir dire,<sup>3</sup> ——— was duly sworn by the judge-advocate, and testified as follows:<sup>4</sup>

<sup>1</sup> To facilitate use of form, subheads "reporter," "challenges," etc., are inserted and followed by marginal lines. To use form in case no reporter is employed, follow form to "reporter," and then omit as far as marginal line under "reporter" extends. In like manner omit when necessary for other subheads.

<sup>4</sup> The form of examination should be similar to that given for witness for the defense, page 154, post. The accused should first ask his questions, and then the judge-advocate and court such as they may deem pertinent.

The challenged member, the accused, (his counsel,) (the reporter,) and judge-advocate then withdrew,<sup>1</sup> and the court was closed, and on being opened the president announced in their presence that the objection of the accused was not sustained<sup>2</sup> (or) that the objection was sustained. — — then withdrew.

The accused was asked if he objected to any other member present;<sup>3</sup> to which he replied in the negative, (or) that he objected to — — on the following grounds:

(Insert objection in full and record as before.)

The members of the court and the judge-advocate were then duly sworn.<sup>4</sup>

[INTERPRETER.]

(If an interpreter is required, he should now be sworn.)<sup>5</sup>

[DELAY.]

(If delay is desired for cause known, application should now be made and the proceedings of the court recorded.<sup>6</sup> If no delay is requested, the record should continue.)

The accused was then arraigned upon the following charges and specifications:<sup>7</sup>

Charge I: — —.

Specification 1st: — —.

Specification 2d: — —.

<sup>1</sup> See page 25, par. 7, ante.

<sup>3</sup> Only one member at a time can be challenged, and a record of the proceedings in each case must be made.

<sup>3</sup> When considered desirable the first question may be as to the identity of the witness.

<sup>4</sup> The record should set forth fully all the testimony introduced upon the trial, the oral portion as near as practicable in the precise words of the witness. <sup>1</sup>All documents and papers made part of the proceedings, or copies of them, will be appended to the record, in the order of their introduction, after the space left for the remarks of the reviewing authority, and marked in such a manner as to afford easy reference. It is not necessary to encumber a record by spreading upon it documents or other writings, or matter excluded by the court. The record should simply specify the character of the writings and the grounds upon which they were ruled out.

<sup>2</sup>The statement of the accused, or argument in his defense, and all pleas to the jurisdiction in bar of trial or in abatement, when in writing, should be signed by the accused, referred to in proceedings as having been submitted by him, and appended to the record, whether he is defended by counsel or not.

NOTES ON FORMS 13A AND 13C.

The Paymaster is, under paragraphs 999 to 1003, Army Regulations, 1908, governed by the following rules in the treatment of voucher for travel expenses of civilian witnesses before military courts:

1. The voucher must be accompanied by authenticated copy of the order convening the court or appointing summary court.

2. The certificate of the judge-advocate or summary court officer (on face of voucher) is required in all cases.

3. A civilian not in Government employ, duly summoned to appear as a witness before a military court, or at a place where his deposition is to be taken for use before such court, will receive $1.50 a day for each day of actual attendance for such purpose, and 5 cents a mile from place of residence to place of trial or taking deposition, and return, except as follows:

Porto Rico and Cuba, $1.50 a day, 15 cents a mile for necessary travel by stage or private conveyance and 10 cents by railway or steamship line.

Alaska, east of one hundred and forty-first degree west longitude, $2 a day and 10 cents a mile; west of that degree, $4 a day and 15 cents a mile.

Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, California, $3 a day, 15 cents a mile for necessary travel by stage or private conveyance, 5 cents by railway or steamship line, and $3 a day for the time necessarily occupied in such travel. (See A. R., 1000, amended by G. O. 128, 1908. Also R. S., 848; sec. 30, act June 6, 1900, 31 Stat., 332; act Mar. 2, 1901, 31 Stat., 954; act June 13, 1902, 32 Stat., 35; Regs. Atty. Gen., July 21, 1902; act May 27, 1908, Public 141.)

A retired army officer is a civilian not in Government employ in contemplation of Army Regulation 1000. (10 Comp., 51.)

Civilian witnesses, not in Government employ, summoned to attend courts-martial in the Philippine Islands, are entitled to the per diem and mileage allowed witnesses in attendance upon United States courts, i. e., $1.50 per day for each day in attendance on the court, and 5 cents per mile for the distance traveled to and from the court. If furnished with transportation by the Government, 42.858 per cent of the 5 cents per mile will be deducted as cost of transportation furnished and 57.142 per cent allowed for subsistence and other expenses of the witness.

An employee of the civil government of the Philippine Islands, paid from insular funds, is not in the employ of the Government within the meaning of Army Regulation 999.

In case a witness duly subpoenaed before a general court-martial refuses to appear or qualify as a witness or to testify or produce documentary evidence as required by law, he will at once be tendered or paid by the nearest paymaster these fees and mileage and will thereupon be again called upon to comply with the requirements of law. Civilian witnesses will be paid by the Pay Department. (A. R., 1001.)

4. The certificate of the judge-advocate will be evidence of the fact and period of attendance and place from which summoned, and will be made on the voucher.

5. Upon execution of the certificate the witness will be paid upon his discharge from attendance, without awaiting performance of return travel. The charges for return journeys will be made upon the basis of the actual charges allowed for travel to the court.

No other items will be allowed.

6. Travel must be estimated by the shortest usually traveled route—by established lines of railroad, stage, or steamer—the time occupied to be determined by the official schedules, reasonable allowance being made for unavoidable detention.

7. Whenever needed, judge-advocates can procure blank accounts for civilian witnesses from any army paymaster or the Paymaster-General's office. The accounts may then be made out upon the witness's discharge from attendance. If no paymaster be present at the place where the court sits, the accounts, authenticated as above directed, may be transmitted to any paymaster with confidence that the witness will receive his pay without unnecessary delay.

8. Accounts of citizen witnesses are not transferable. (See Circular 13, A. G. O., 1895.)

9. Signature of witnesses when signed by mark must be witnessed.

voucher. The correctness of the items will be attested by the affidavit of the witness, to be made, when practicable, before the judge-advocate.

5. The certificate of the judge-advocate will be evidence of the fact and period of attendance and show place from which summoned, and will be made on the voucher.

6. Upon execution of the affidavit and certificate the witness will be paid upon his discharge from attendance, without awaiting performance of return travel. The charges for return journeys will be made upon the basis of the actual charges allowed for travel to the court.

No other items will be allowed.

7. Civilian witnesses in Government employ will receive as follows:

(a) Amount actually paid for cost of transportation or travel fare.

(b) Amount actually paid for cost of transfers to and from railway stations, not exceeding 50 cents for each transfer.

(c) Amount actually paid for cost of one double berth in sleeping car or on steamers where an extra charge is made therefor.

(d) The actual cost of meals and rooms at a rate not exceeding $3 per day for each day unavoidably consumed in travel or in attendance on the court.

8. Travel must be estimated by the shortest available usually traveled route; the charge for cost of travel—items (a), (b), (c)—by established lines of railroad, stage, or steamer should not exceed the usual rates in like cases; the time occupied to be determined by the official schedules, reasonable allowance being made for unavoidable detention.

9. The voucher, or the order for attendance, will be presumed to show in all cases, by indorsement or otherwise, if transportation in kind or commutation of rations has been furnished.

Transportation in kind will, for any distance covered thereby, be a bar to payment of item (a).

Indorsements of transportation furnished are scrutinized to ascertain if any part of item (c) has been included.

Commutation of rations will be a bar to payment of item (d).

Transportation and commutation of rations will be a bar to any payment.

10. No per diem allowance can be made where the attendance upon court does not require the witness to leave his station. (This applies only to civilians in Government employ.)

11. Compensation to civilians in or out of Government employ, for attendance upon civil courts, is payable by the civil authorities. (A. R., 1004.)

12. If the witness is in Government employ the judge-advocate will state the fact. If it does not appear in the certificate or elsewhere in the papers, and is not known to the paymaster, it will be assumed that the witness is not in Government employ.

13. Whenever needed, judge-advocate can procure blank accounts for civilian witnesses from any army paymaster or the Paymaster-General's office. The accounts may then be made out upon the witness's discharge from attendance. If no paymaster be present at the place where the court sits, the accounts, authenticated as above directed, may be transmitted to any paymaster, with confidence that the witness will receive his pay without unnecessary delay.

If a minor sixteen years old or over claims to be twenty-one years of age or over and enlists without the consent required by section 1117, Revised Statutes, the contract of enlistment is not voidable by the minor, nor by his parents or guardian, if at the time of the filing of the petition the soldier is held in pursuance of a sentence of a court-martial, or any step has been taken with a view to bringing him before such court.

A minor over sixteen years of age, who at the time of his enlistment makes affidavit that he is twenty-one years of age, will not, on his own application, be released on habeas corpus on the ground that he was a minor at the time of his enlistment, and that the written consent of his guardian was not obtained.

Davenport*, 87 Federal Reporter, 318.

In the Morrissey case the Supreme Court of the United States settles this beyond question. Morrissey, a minor of seventeen years of age, enlisted without the consent of his mother, who was living. He deserted, remained in concealment until he reached his majority, and then presented himself before a recruiting officer and demanded his discharge from the Army on the ground that he was a minor when enlisted. The court said that the provision of section 1117, Revised Statutes—is for the benefit of the parent or guardian, * * * but it gives no privilege to the minor. * * * An enlistment is not a contract only, but effects a change of status. It is not, therefore, like an ordinary contract, voidable by the infant. * * * The contract of enlistment was good so far as the petitioner is concerned. He was not only de facto, but de jure, a soldier—amenable to military jurisdiction.

All the cases cited are instructive as illustrative of the different circumstances under which this principle has been declared.

In the Lawler case the deserter was arrested and "held as such awaiting trial, which will be as soon as a court-martial can be convened and organized for that purpose."

In the case of Solomon v. Davenport, the deserter was held by a sheriff under a warrant of a United States commissioner.

In the Spencer case the court said:

The authorities which have been read to me seem to establish very conclusively this rule—that the enlistment of a minor is voidable, not necessarily void; and that he does really become by such enlistment, although under age, engaged in the service of the United States, and subject to the power and jurisdiction of the military authorities; and, such being the case, the court-martial had jurisdiction to arrest and try him for the charge of desertion.

2. CONTRACT NOT VOIDABLE BY PARENTS OR GUARDIANS
IF THE SOLDIER IS HELD PURSUANT TO A SENTENCE
OF A COURT-MARTIAL OR ANY STEP HAS BEEN TAKEN WITH A VIEW TO BRINGING HIM BEFORE SUCH COURT.

In re Kaufman, 41 Federal Reporter, 876; In re Dohrendorf, et al., 40 Federal Reporter, 148; In re Cosenow, 37 Federal Reporter, 668; In re Dowd, 90 Federal Reporter, 718; In re Miller, 114 Federal Reporter, 838; U. S. vs. Reaves, 126 Federal Reporter, 127; In re Lessard, 184 Federal Reporter, 305; Ex parte Anderson, 16 Iowa, 595; McConologue's case, 107 Massachusetts, 170; In re Carver, 142 Federal Reporter, 623.

In the Kaufman case, the father sought the discharge of his son, who was held by the military authorities and had been ordered before a military court for trial as a deserter. Quoting from the syllabus:

A minor who enlists in the United States Army upon his representation that he is of age, and receives pay and clothing and afterwards deserts and is arrested as a deserter, and at the time of his petition is held by the United States awaiting trial by a court-martial for the crime of desertion, will not be released under a writ of habeas corpus upon the ground that being a minor his enlistment was unlawful and contrary to the Revised Statutes of the United States.

In the Cosenow case the minor swore that he was twenty-one years and seven months old at the time of enlistment. He deserted, and at the time of the filing of the petition was held in custody awaiting the action of the reviewing authority on the proceedings of the court-martial. His father sought the discharge of his son on the ground of infancy at the time of enlistment. The court refused to discharge him, holding that "an enlistment contrary to law is not void, but voidable;" that the court-martial had jurisdiction of the offense, and the soldier "must be remanded to await the result of his trial."

The Dowd case arose on the application of the mother for the release of her son, who was held under sentence of a summary court. The court held, quoting from the syllabus:

The enlistment of a minor in the Army without the consent of his parents or guardian, required by Revised Statutes, section 1117, is not void, but voidable only, and while he remains in the service under such enlistment the minor is amenable to the Articles of War, and can not be remanded to the custody of his parents by a civil court on a writ of habeas corpus while undergoing a sentence imposed on him by a court-martial for a violation of such articles.

In the Anderson case it appears that a minor enlisted without his father's consent, and being held for trial before a court-martial for desertion, his father sought his discharge on habeas corpus. The court refused to discharge the soldier, saying "he must abide by the decision of the latter court (court-martial) before the question of the validity of his enlistment can be determined in the civil courts on habeas corpus."

In McConologue's case the court said:

A minor's contract of enlistment is indeed voidable only and not void, and if, before a writ of habeas corpus is sued out to avoid it, he is arrested on charges of desertion, he should not be released by the court while proceedings for his trial by the military authorities are pending.

By act of July 27, 1892, "fraudulent enlistment, and the receipt of any pay or allowance thereunder, is . . . declared a military offense and made punishable by court-martial under the 62d Article of War." A minor who procures his enlistment by representing himself to be over age commits this offense, and the statute authorizes his punishment therefor. In general it may be stated that where a minor has committed a military offense the interests of the public in the administration of justice are paramount to the right of the parent and require that the soldier shall abide the consequences of his offense before the right to his discharge be passed upon. (Digest Opin. J. A. G., secs. 1258 and 1264, and notes.)

The soldier should not be allowed to escape punishment for his offense, even though his parents assert their right to his services. A minor in civil life is liable to punishment for a crime or misdemeanor, even though his confinement may interfere with the rights of his parents. In re Miller (114 Fed. Rep., 838), it was held that a minor 16 years old or over "enlisting without the consent of his parents, on representation that he is of age, becomes a soldier amenable to military jurisdiction for military offenses, and subject to release from service only on application from his parents, who can not prevent his court-martial for past military offenses." In the opinion of the court (page 842) it is said:

The common law, unaided by statute, fully recognized the parents' rights to the custody and services of their minor child; but it has never been held that they could, by the writ of habeas corpus or otherwise, obtain his custody and his immunity when he was held by an officer of a civil court of competent jurisdiction to answer a charge of crime. His enlistment having made the prisoner a soldier notwithstanding his minority, he is answerable to the military law just as the citizen who is a minor is answerable to the civil law. The parents can not prevent the law's enforcement in either case. * * *

These views were cited with approval in U. S. v. Reaves (126 Fed. Rep., 127), where, upon full consideration of the authorities, the circuit court of appeals remanded Reaves, a minor who had deserted from the Navy, to the custody of the naval authorities as represented by the chief of police who had apprehended him.

See also in re Carver (142 Fed. Rep., 623), where the case of U. S. v. Reaves, supra, was followed, the decision of the court, as stated in the syllabus, being as follows:

"A minor under the age of 18 years, who unlawfully enlisted in the Army without the consent of his father, can not be discharged from the service on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by his father so long as he is under arrest for desertion, nor until he has been discharged from such custody or has served the sentence imposed on him by the military tribunal."

MANUAL FOR COURTS-MARTIAL.

CHANGES }
No. 1. }

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, January 27, 1912.

I. Paragraphs 2 and 3, pages 61 and 62; paragraphs 9 and 10, page 68; paragraphs 1 and 2, page 70; paragraph 7, page 72, and paragraph 11, page 73, Manual for Courts-Martial (corrected to August, 1910), are amended to read as follows, to take effect February 15, 1912:

2. Courts-martial in awarding sentences upon general prisoners are restricted to imposing additional confinement to be served upon the completion or termination of their existing sentences, and will not interfere with the manner of executing such sentences by prescribing loss of good conduct time, solitary confinement, or confinement on bread-and-water diet, leaving all such punishments to be imposed by the commanding officer as the ordinary means of enforcing discipline.<sup>3</sup> (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

3. When the sentence of a general court-martial prescribes confinement, so much of the sentence as relates thereto will be expressed in substantially the following form: "To be confined at hard labor, at such place as the reviewing authority may direct, for ——," leaving to the reviewing authority the designation of the place of confinement. (Par. 981, A. R.) (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

9. The authority which has designated the place of confinement, or higher authority, may change the place of confinement of any prisoner under the jurisdiction of such authority (par. 987, A. R.); but when a military prison or post has been designated as the place of confinement of a prisoner under sentence, no power is competent to increase the punishment by designating a penitentiary as the place of confinement. (Par. 983, A. R.) (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

10. A penitentiary may, and ordinarily will, be designated as the place of confinement of a general prisoner sentenced to be confined for more than one year upon conviction of an offense punishable by confinement in a penitentiary under some statute of the United States or of the State, Territory, or District in which the offense was committed or under the common law as the same is in force in such State, Territory, or District. The United States Military Prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., or a military post will be designated as the place of confinement of a general prisoner convicted of military offenses alone. The Pacific Branch of the United States Military Prison at Alcatraz, Cal., or a military post, will be designated as the place of confinement of a general prisoner whose case does not come within the terms of either of the preceding provisions of this paragraph. Detailed instructions to supplement the general provisions of this paragraph will be issued from time to time by the Secretary of War. (Par. 982, A. R.) (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

1. Enlisted men * * * who have been tried will, prior to the promulgation of the result, be designated as "awaiting result of trial;" enlisted men serving sentences of confinement, not involving dishonorable discharge, will be designated as "garrison prisoners." Persons sentenced to dismissal or dishonorable discharge and to terms of confinement at military posts or elsewhere will be designated as "general prisoners." (Par. 943, A. R.) (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

2. Prisoners awaiting trial by, or undergoing sentence of, general court-martial and those confined for serious offenses will be kept apart, when practicable, from those confined by sentence of an inferior court, or for minor offenses. Enlisted men awaiting trial or awaiting result of trial will not be sent to work with garrison prisoners or general prisoners if it can be avoided, and, in the discretion of the commanding officer, may be required to attend drills, or may be sent to work under charge of a sentinel, during the usual working hours. General prisoners will not be confined with other prisoners except in cases of necessity. (Par. 947, A. R.) (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

7. General prisoners, other than those confined in penitentiaries, will be allowed in abatement of their terms of confinement when serving sentences of over three months and not over twelve months five days for each complete period of twenty-five days during the whole of which their conduct has been good; but the abatement of five days so authorized shall not have the effect in any case of reducing the confinement below three months. On sentences exceeding one year they will be allowed the foregoing abatement for the first year of the sentence including abatement, and thereafter ten days for each complete period of twenty days during the whole of which their conduct has been good. Abatements thus authorized may be forfeited, wholly or in part, by subsequent misconduct, such forfeiture to be determined by the commanding officer of the post where the prisoner is confined. A general prisoner serving sentence in a penitentiary will be allowed the abatement authorized for convicts in that penitentiary.

Garrison prisoners will be allowed in abatement of their terms of confinement when serving sentences of one month five days for good conduct. On sentences exceeding one month they will be allowed the foregoing abatement for the first month of the sentence, and thereafter ten days for each complete period of twenty days during the whole of which their conduct has been good. Abatements thus authorized may be forfeited, wholly or in part, by subsequent misconduct, such forfeiture to be determined by the commanding officer of the post where the prisoner is confined. * * * (Par. 957, A. R.) (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

11. No general prisoner will be released from confinement except on an order communicated by the commanding officer, who, before giving such order, will verify the date of expiration of the prisoner's sentence by examining all orders fixing or modifying his term of confinement. (Par. 956, A. R.) (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

[1859416 E—A. G. O.]

II. Forms 2, 4, and 6, page 171, Manual for Courts-Martial (corrected to August, 1910), when employed by general courts-martial (par. 981, A. R.), are modified to read as follows, to take effect February 15, 1912:

Form 2. Confinement: * * * "to be confined at hard labor,<sup>1</sup> at such place as the reviewing authority may direct, for — (—) days." (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

Form 4. Confinement and forfeiture: * * * "to be confined at hard labor, at such place as the reviewing authority may direct, for — (—) months, and to forfeit — (—) dollars per month for the same period." (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

Form 6. Dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of pay and allowances, and confinement: * * * "to be dishonorably discharged the service of the United States, forfeiting all pay and allowances due him, and to be confined at hard labor, at such place as the reviewing authority may direct, for — (—) years." (C. M. C. M., No. 1, Jan. 27, 1912.)

5. Officers will not be placed in arrest for light offenses. For these the censure of the commanding officer will generally answer the purpose of discipline. Whenever a commanding officer places an officer in arrest without preferring charges, he will make a written report of his action to the brigade or Coast Artillery district commander, stating the cause. The brigade or Coast Artillery district commander, if he thinks the occasion requires, will call on the officer arrested for any explanation he may desire to make, and take such other action within his authority as he may think necessary, forwarding the papers, with his recommendation, to the department commander, who will, in case a trial is not deemed advisable, forward the papers to The Adjutant General of the Army for file with the officer's record, or for further action. In the case of officers belonging to organizations not attached or belonging to a brigade or Coast Artillery district, the report will be sent directly to the department commander. (Par. 939, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

4. In the United States military service, the following-named courts-martial are authorized: 1st, the "General Court-Martial"; 2d, the "Special Court-Martial"; 3d, the "Summary Court-Martial." (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

5. The General Court-Martial, being the most important, will be first considered. But, as all courts-martial have much in common in regard to their jurisdiction, procedure, punishment, etc., the text may, as a rule, be regarded as apposite to all, unless the general court is specially mentioned. Exceptions in regard to jurisdiction, etc., will be made as each of the other courts is considered. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

6. A General Court-Martial may consist of any number of officers from five to thirteen, inclusive,<sup>1</sup> and a judge advocate. Authorities competent to appoint a general court-martial will endeavor to obtain the maximum number of members for the trials of officers and for important trials of enlisted men. When, in the course of a trial, the court is reduced in number by reason of absence, challenge, or the relieving of members, it may proceed with business so long as five members remain. When from any cause a general court is reduced below the minimum, five, it can transact no other business than to direct the judge advocate to report the fact to the convening authority and to adjourn to await further orders. In such a case, if the trial has not been entered upon, new members may be added; but if any testimony has been taken, the court should preferably be dissolved and a new one ordered.<sup>2</sup> (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

1. The President is empowered to institute general courts-martial—1st, as Commander in Chief of the Army, under the Constitution; 2d, as provided in the next paragraph; 3d, in the particular cases provided for by section 1230, Revised Statutes. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

2. The President of the United States, the commanding officer of a territorial division or department, the Superintendent of the Military Academy, the commanding officer of an army, a field army, an army corps, a division, or a separate brigade, and when empowered by the President, the commanding officer of any district or of any force or body of troops, may appoint general courts-martial whenever necessary; but when any such commander is the accuser or the prosecutor of the person or persons to be tried the court shall be appointed by superior competent authority, and no officer shall be eligible to sit as a member of such court when he is the accuser, or a witness for the prosecution, nor shall any officer be brought to trial before a general court-martial appointed by the Superintendent of the Military Academy. (See notes 1 and 2, p. 13.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

3. Omit.

4. The officer who appoints a court-martial—general or special—may dissolve it, and control its existence, but not the subject matter of its deliberations. In the absence of special orders or legislation to that effect, personal presence within the territorial limits of his department is not essential to the validity of commands given by a department commander to be executed within such limits, such, for instance, as the appointment of a court-martial.<sup>4</sup> (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

4. As a rule, military jurisdiction ends when a soldier is discharged. The present exceptions to this rule are, discharged officers and soldiers guilty of fraud against the United States under the Sixtieth Article of War; discharged officers granted trial after summary dismissal, under section 1230, Revised Statutes; and general prisoners.<sup>5</sup> (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

SEC. II. General courts-martial shall exercise as regards persons and with reference to other courts-martial, exclusive jurisdiction over officers,<sup>7</sup> cadets,<sup>8</sup> and "candidates for promotion."<sup>9</sup> Over enlisted men, other than candidates for promotion, and general prisoners, they shall exercise concurrent jurisdiction with the special and summary<sup>10</sup> courts in cases cognizable by said courts.<sup>11</sup> (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

2. As regards offenses,<sup>1</sup> general courts-martial have exclusive jurisdiction over all offenses punishable capitally, and over those set forth in the Fifty-eighth Article, when committed in time of war. Over other offenses they have concurrent jurisdiction with the special and summary courts; but all offenses for which the limit of punishment is in excess of the limits of the punishing power of special courts, as well as all serious noncapital offenses for which limits of punishment have not been prescribed will, ordinarily, be tried by general courts-martial. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

3. (Added.) When charges are preferred against an enlisted man for trial other than by summary court, the charges, accompanied by the statement of service properly filled out, the proper evidence of previous convictions, if any, and a brief statement of the evidence expected from each witness, together with a statement of any other available evidence in the case, will be submitted to the officer exercising special court-martial jurisdiction over the command to which the accused belongs. If this officer deems trial by general court-martial expedient, the charges, accompanied by the prescribed papers, will be forwarded to the authority competent to appoint a general court-martial for the trial. If the officer to whom the charges are submitted decides that trial should be had by special or summary court-martial, he will take action accordingly. (Par. 969, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

SEC. IV. Before forwarding charges they will be carefully investigated by the commanding officer, or an officer designated by him, other than the officer preferring the charges, and in forwarding the charges the name of the officer making the investigation will be noted in the commanding officer's indorsement. The commanding officer will state in his indorsement whether or not, in his opinion, the charges can be sustained. (Par. 970, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

2. Charges against an enlisted man forwarded to the authority ordering a general court-martial, or referred to a special or summary court, must be accompanied by the proper evidence of previous convictions.

General and special courts-martial will consider only such evidence of previous convictions as is referred to them by the convening authority. (Pars. 969, 978. A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

3. Charges against an enlisted man other than for trial by summary court will also be accompanied by a statement of service in accordance with the form given on page 145, post. In case of a deserter the surgeon's report required by paragraph 126, Army Regulations, 1910, will also be forwarded with the charges. (See notes 1 and 2. p. 20.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

(Page 20.—Organization.)

1. The authority appointing a general or special court-martial designates the place for holding the court, the hour of meeting, the members of the court, and a judge advocate. (Pars. 959, 960, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

3. When a member is prevented from attending a session of the court he will communicate the cause to the judge advocate, and the same will be entered in the record of proceedings of a general court-martial, but need not be recorded in the record of a special court-martial. If the member fails to do so it is the duty of the president at the next meeting of the court to call upon him for such explanation as he may desire to make. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

2. The commanding officer of a post where a general or special court-martial is convened will, at the request of any person who is to be arraigned, detail a suitable officer as counsel for the defense. If there be no such officer available for detail, the fact will be reported to the authority appointing the court for his action. (Par. 977, A. R., 1910. See note 1. p. 26.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

3. An officer detailed as counsel for a soldier before a general or a special court-martial should guard the interests of the accused by all honorable and legitimate means known to the law, so far as they are not inconsistent with military relations. He should not obstruct the proceedings with frivolous and manifestly useless objections. (Par. 977, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

2. A judge advocate of a general or special court-martial or military commission, and a recorder of a court of inquiry, may employ, when authorized by the convening authority, a stenographic reporter, not an enlisted man, who shall be paid at the following rates of compensation by the Quartermaster Corps on vouchers certified to be correct by the judge advocate or recorder, who will forward a copy of the same with the record:

For each case not to exceed $1 an hour for time actually spent in court during the trial or hearing except when the court or commission sits less than three hours during the first day, when the allowance for such day shall be $3. Time will be reckoned to the nearest half of an hour.

Fifteen cents for each 100 words for transcribing notes and making that portion of the original record which is typewritten; but no allowance shall be made for the first carbon copy of that portion of the record which is typewritten or for original papers which are appended as exhibits.

Ten cents for each 100 words for copying papers material to the inquiry, and 2 cents for each 100 words for each carbon copy of the same, when ordered by the court or commission for its use.

Two cents for each 100 words for the second and each additional carbon copy of the record when authorized by the convening authority.

Except for such part of the journey as may be covered by Government transportation, mileage at the rate authorized for a civilian witness not in Government employ, and $3 a day for expenses when the judge advocate or recorder keeps him, at his own expense, away from his usual place of employment for 24 hours or more, on public business referred to the court or commission, shall be allowed the reporter for himself, and, when ordered by the court or commission, for each necessary assistant.

The judge advocate or recorder shall require the reporter to furnish the typewritten record of the proceedings of each session of the court or commission with one carbon copy of the same not later than 24 hours after the adjournment of that session. The complete record will be finished, indexed, bound, and ready for authentication not later than 48 hours after the completion of its action by the court or commission on the merits of the case or hearing.

An enlisted man may be detailed to serve as stenographic reporter, and while so serving shall receive extra pay at the rate of not to exceed 5 cents for each 100 words taken in shorthand and transcribed. (Par. 1003, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

4. No person in the military or civil service of the Government can lawfully receive extra compensation for clerical duties performed for a military court, except as provided in paragraph 2, last preceding. (Par. 1004, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

3. Courts should be liberal in passing upon challenges, but they will not entertain an objection that is not specific, nor one upon the mere assertion of the accused, if it is not admitted by the challenged member. A challenge upon the ground, admitted or proven, that a member has investigated the charges and expressed an opinion that they can be established, should be sustained by the court. In the absence of a challenge, however, the court of itself can not, except as required in the succeeding paragraph, excuse a member from sitting on the trial of a case. A member not challenged, but who thinks himself disqualified for reasons other than those indicated in the succeeding paragraph, can be relieved only by application to the convening authority. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

4. No officer shall be eligible to sit as a member of a general or special court-martial when he is the accuser or a witness for the prosecution.<sup>2</sup> After the accused is brought before the court, but before the court is sworn, any member thereof who is or believes himself to be the accuser in the case will formally announce that fact to the court, whereupon he will be excused. When the accused, his counsel, the judge advocate, or any member of the court, at any time before the finding, shall have reason to believe that any member thereof may be the accuser in the case, such belief shall be communicated to the court, and, if the court, after hearing the facts, find that such member is the accuser, he shall be excused. When the judge advocate, the accused, his counsel, or any member of the court has reason to believe that any member thereof may be called as a witness for the prosecution, such belief shall be communicated to the court, and, if the judge advocate state that the member is to be so called, he will be excused. If at any subsequent stage of the proceeding prior to the findings any member of the court be called as a witness for the prosecution, he shall, before qualifying as a witness, be excused from further duty as a member. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

6. (Added.) No member who has been absent during the taking of evidence shall thereafter take part in the trial; but this provision shall not be construed as invalidating the proceedings of courts-martial if no objection is made, and the court permits the member to sit, but is to be regarded as a requirement which should always be complied with when practicable.

Especially should a member who has been absent during an important part of the proceedings not be permitted to resume his seat. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

Oaths.—For last two lines, page 29, and first two lines, page 30, substitute the following: The judge advocate shall administer to each member of a general court-martial before the court proceeds upon any trial. the following oath, which shall also be taken by all members of a special court-martial: (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

SEC. II. 1. In case a civilian witness duly subpoenaed before a general court-martial refuses to appear or qualify as a witness, or to testify or produce documentary evidence, as required by law, he will at once be tendered or paid by the nearest quartermaster one day's fees and mileage for the journeys to and from the court, and will thereupon be again called upon to comply with the requirements of the law. The fees and mileage of civilian witnesses residing beyond the limits of the State, Territory, or District in which the court-martial is held will not be paid in advance, as such witnesses can not be punished if they refuse to obey the summons. (Par. 1008, A. R., 1910. See act of Mar. 2, 1901.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

2. For third and fourth subparagraphs substitute:

Depositions may also be taken before the assembling of the court, on interrogatories and cross-interrogatories or on reasonable notice, subject in each case to exceptions when read in court.

In the case of a military or civilian witness not stationed or residing at or near a post, command, or detachment, the judge advocate will send the interrogatories direct to the commanding general of the department within the territorial limits of which the witness resides. In the case of a military or civilian witness stationed or residing at or near a military post, command, or detachment, the judge advocate will send the interrogatories direct to the commanding officer of the post, command, or detachment, at or near which the witness may be stationed or residing. In each instance the interrogatories will be accompanied by a request that the deposition of the witness may be taken. Upon receipt of the request the officer receiving it will take the deposition or cause it to be taken. The deposition will be taken without delay, and when taken will be sent at once direct to the president of the court-martial trying the case. If in any instance where interrogatories are received by the commanding officer of a post, command, or detachment, travel is necessary to enable the deposition to be taken, a request will promptly be made on the proper authority for travel orders. If more than 24 hours will be required to communicate by letter with such authority, the request for travel orders will be by telegraph. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

3. In the case of a civilian witness the interrogatories will be accompanied by the proper subpoenas and account for civilian witness and by a request that the proper data be supplied in the account for civilian witness and that the post-office address of the witness be given, so that the account may be certified by the judge advocate and transmitted to the proper paymaster for payment. In the case of a military witness subpoenas will not accompany the interrogatories, but the officer before whom the deposition is to be taken or the officer who causes it to be taken will direct the witness to appear and depose at the proper time and place. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

1. Whenever a soldier is convicted of an offense for which a discretionary punishment is authorized, the court will receive evidence of previous convictions, if there be any; such evidence being limited, except as provided in section 5, page 59, post, to previous convictions by courts-martial of an offense or offenses within one year preceding the date of any offense charged and during the current enlistment. General and special courts-martial will, after a finding of guilty, be opened for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is such evidence and, if so, of receiving it. These courts will consider only such evidence of previous convictions as is referred to them by the convening authority. (See notes 1 and 2, p. 48.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

SEC. 1. Such evidence shall be limited, except as provided in section 5 of this article, to previous convictions by court-martial of an offense or offenses within one year preceding the date of commission of any offense charged and during the current enlistment. These convictions must be proved by the records of previous trials and convictions, or by duly authenticated copies of such records, or by duly authenticated copies of the orders promulgating such trials and convictions. Charges forwarded to the authority competent to order a general court-martial, or referred to a special or a summary court-martial, must be accompanied by the proper evidence of previous convictions. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

SEC. 2. Whenever a soldier is convicted of an offense for which a discretionary punishment is authorized, the court will receive evidence of previous convictions (see section 1 of this article), if there be any. General and special courts-martial will, after a finding of guilty, be opened for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is such evidence and, if so, of receiving it. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

Omit the heading of section 3, "Previous convictions in connection with inferior court offenses." (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

Omit the heading of section 4, "Previous convictions in connection with general court-martial offenses." (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

1. Each general court-martial shall keep a complete and accurate record<sup>3</sup> of its proceedings, separate for each case. Each special court-martial and each summary court-martial shall keep an accurate record of its proceedings, separate for each case, which record shall contain such matter as may be required or indicated in the forms prescribed for the records of such courts, respectively. The record of each case tried by a general or special court-martial will be authenticated by the signatures of the president and the judge advocate. The judge advocate should affix his signature to each day's proceedings. Whenever, by reason of the death or disability of the judge advocate occurring after the court has decided on the sentence, the record can not be authenticated by his signature, it must show that it has been formally approved by the court and must be authenticated by the signature of the president. The record of a general or a special court-martial must show that the court was organized as the law requires, that the prisoner was asked if he wished to object to any member and his answer to such question, and that the members of the court and the judge advocate were duly sworn. (Par. 995, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

4. The entire proceedings of a general court-martial will be spread upon the record; all orders and rulings of the court; all motions, propositions, objections, arguments, statements, etc., of the judge advocate or the accused; the testimony of each witness, as nearly as possible in his own language; in short, every feature of the proceedings material to a complete history of the case and to a correct understanding of every point of the same by the reviewing authority will be recorded at length. In the record of a special court-martial statements and arguments made before the court will not be recorded nor will the testimony taken before such special courts-martial be reduced to writing unless directed by the authority referring the case to the court for trial. (Par. 976, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

7. The "statement of service" referred to on page 19, paragraph 3, ante, will not be introduced in evidence nor made a part of the record of the trial, but will be considered by the court and shown to the accused, with a view to its correction by the introduction of evidence should it be required. The statement will be forwarded with the record. (See note 1, p. 65.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

6. The power to remit or mitigate punishment imposed by a court-martial, vested in the authority who appointed the court or the corresponding authority under whose jurisdiction the sentence is being executed, extends only to unexecuted portions of a sentence. If the punishment be one imposed by a general court-martial, it may be remitted or mitigated only by an officer competent to order a general court-martial and under whose jurisdiction the sentence is being executed. The fact that a soldier has been dishonorably discharged through his sentence does not affect this power. An application for clemency in case of a prisoner sentenced to confinement in a penitentiary, or in the United States Military Prison or any branch thereof, will be forwarded to The Adjutant General of the Army for the action of the Secretary of War and the President. A military prisoner sentenced to confinement in a penitentiary, or in the United States Military Prison or any branch thereof, will, so far as concerns the exercise of clemency, be considered to have passed beyond the jurisdiction of a department commander from the date of the approval of his sentence, without regard to the fact of his being temporarily retained within the command of the department commander pending transfer to a penitentiary, or the United States Military Prison or any branch thereof. The power to commute sentences imposed by military tribunals, not being vested in military commanders, can be exercised by the President only. (Par. 958, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

16. Trials by general courts-martial, including so much of the proceedings as will give the charges and specifications, the pleas, findings, and sentence, and the action and remarks of the reviewing authority, will be announced in general orders issued from the War Department or in general court-martial orders from the headquarters of territorial departments. If the charges contain matter which for any reason is unfit for publication, such matter will be omitted from the order, but a copy thereof will be promptly furnished by the reviewing authority to the commanding officer of the post at which the officer or soldier is confined, to be included with the papers required by paragraph 953 to be sent to the commanding officer of the post or military prison where the sentence of confinement is to be executed. (Par. 1000, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

4. Prisoners will be forwarded from places of trial to places at which they are sentenced to serve confinement only on orders of department commanders or higher authority. The strength of guards to accompany them will be limited to the necessities of safe delivery. Orders detailing guards in charge of military prisoners will provide for the return journey of the guard and for commutation of rations, when such commutation is necessary. The commanding officer of a post from which a prisoner is transferred will send, under seal, to the commanding officer of the post or prison to which the prisoner is transferred, the following papers in his case, viz: Descriptive list, orders promulgating and modifying sentences, statement of conduct while under sentence to date of transfer, and a list of clothing in possession of the prisoner when forwarded.<sup>2</sup> In the case of a general prisoner the commanding officer will send the discharge papers of the prisoner, together with all the other papers hereinbefore described, except the descriptive list; in lieu of that list the commanding officer will send a certified copy of the prisoner's record as recorded on the form furnished by The Adjutant General's Department for keeping such records. (Par. 953, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

5. All serviceable clothing and blankets which are the property of a prisoner will accompany him to the post designated for his confinement, and will be fully itemized on the clothing list mentioned in the preceding paragraph. The guard in charge of the prisoner during transfer will be furnished with a duplicate of this list and will be held responsible for the delivery, with the prisoner, of all articles itemized therein. (Par. 954, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

2. Should a writ of habeas corpus issued by a State court or judge be served upon an Army officer, commanding him to produce an enlisted man or a general prisoner, and show cause for his detention, the officer will decline to produce in court the body of the person named in the writ, but will make respectful return<sup>1</sup> in writing to the effect that the man is a duly enlisted soldier of the United States or a general prisoner under sentence of court-martial, as the case may be, and that the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that a magistrate or court of a State has no jurisdiction in such a case. (Par. 1015, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

1. The Judge Advocate General revises and is the custodian of the records of all general courts-martial, courts of inquiry, and military commissions.

The original proceedings of all general courts-martial, courts of inquiry, and military commissions, with the decisions and orders of the reviewing authorities made thereon, and the proceedings of all general courts-martial, courts of inquiry, and military commissions which require the confirmation of the President, but which have not been appointed by him, will be forwarded, after having been finally acted upon by the appointing authority, or his successor in command, directly to the Judge Advocate General. One copy of the order promulgating the action of the court and a copy of every subsequent order affecting the case will be forwarded to the Judge Advocate General with the record of each case. When more than one case is embraced in a single order, a sufficient number of copies will be forwarded to enable one to be filed with each record. The proceedings of all courts and military commissions appointed by the President will be sent directly to the Secretary of War. (Pars. 930, 932, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

4. Judge advocates of departments are the custodians of the reports of cases tried by summary courts and of all records of proceedings of special courts-martial. (Par. 998, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

5. Post and other commanders will, on the last day of each month, make a report to the department headquarters of the number of cases determined by summary court during the month, setting forth the offenses committed and the penalties awarded.<sup>6</sup> (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

6. After having been finally acted upon by the officer appointing the court or by the officer commanding for the time being, the record of each trial by special court-martial, and monthly reports of cases tried by summary courts will be transmitted without delay to department headquarters, there to be filed in the office of the judge advocate of the department for a period of two years, at the end of which time such records and reports may be destroyed.<sup>2</sup> (Par. 998, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

Omit pages 78 to 85, inclusive, and substitute therefor the following:

SPECIAL COURTS-MARTIAL.

(See act of Mar. 2, 1913.)

1. Special courts-martial may consist of any number of officers from three to five, inclusive, and a judge advocate. The remarks regarding the eligibility of officers for court-martial duty on page 11, paragraphs 1 to 3, ante, apply also to special courts-martial. When for any cause a special court-martial is reduced below the minimum, three, it can transact no other business than to direct the judge advocate to report that fact and the status of the trial to the convening authority and to adjourn to await further orders. In such a case if no evidence has been presented to the court new members may be added, but if evidence has been presented the court will be dissolved and a new one appointed. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

2. The commanding officer of a district, garrison, fort, camp, or other place where troops are on duty, and the commanding officer of a brigade, regiment, detached battalion, or other detached command, may appoint special courts-martial for his command; but such special courts-martial may in any case be appointed by superior authority when by the latter deemed desirable, and no officer shall be eligible to sit as a member of such court when he is the accuser or a witness for the prosecution. (Act of Mar. 2, 1913.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

3. Special courts-martial shall have power to try any person subject to military law, except an officer, for any crime or offense not capital made punishable by the Articles of War: Provided, That the President may by regulations, which he may modify from time to time, except from the jurisdiction of special courts-martial any class or classes of persons subject to military law. (Act of Mar. 2, 1913.)

A special court-martial shall not try candidates for promotion. (Sec. II, p. 15, M. C. M.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

4. Special courts-martial shall have power to adjudge punishment not to exceed confinement at hard labor for six months or forfeiture of six months' pay, or both, and in addition thereto reduction to the ranks in the cases of noncommissioned officers, and reduction in classification in the cases of first-class privates. (Act of Mar. 2, 1913.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

5. The order convening a special court-martial, the charges submitted for trial thereby, the procedure before the court, and the record will be similar to the order, the charges, the procedure, and the record, respectively, in the case of a general court-martial, except that as to the procedure and the record in trials by special court-martial, the statements and arguments made before the court will not be recorded, nor will the testimony taken before such special courts-martial be reduced to writing unless directed by the authority referring the case to the court for trial. (Par. 976, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

6. Each special court-martial shall keep an accurate record of its proceedings separate for each case, which record shall contain such matter as may be required or indicated in the form prescribed for the record of a special court-martial. The record of each case tried will be authenticated by the signatures of the president and the judge advocate. A judge advocate should affix his signature to each day's proceedings. Whenever, by reason of the death or disability of the judge advocate occurring after the court has decided on the sentence, the record can not be authenticated by his signature, it must show that it has been formally approved by the court, and must be authenticated by the signature of the president. (Par. 995, A. R., 1910.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

THE SUMMARY COURT-MARTIAL.

(See act of Mar. 2, 1913.)

1. A summary court-martial shall consist of one officer. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

2. The commanding officer of a garrison, fort, camp, or other place where troops are on duty, and the commanding officer of a regiment, detached battalion, detached company, or other detachment may appoint summary courts-martial for his command; but such summary courts-martial may in any case be appointed by superior authority when by the latter deemed desirable: Provided, That when but one officer is present with a command he shall be the summary court-martial of that command and shall head and determine cases brought before him. (Act of Mar. 2, 1913.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

3. When more than one officer is present with a command the commanding officer should not designate himself as the summary court. When but one officer is present with a command, no order appointing the court will be issued, but the officer will enter on the record that he is the "only officer present with the command." (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

4. Summary courts-martial shall have power to try any soldier, except one who is holding the privileges of a certificate of eligibility to promotion, for any crime or offense not capital made punishable by the Articles of War: Provided, That noncommissioned officers shall not, if they object thereto, be brought to trial before a summary court-martial without the authority of the officer competent to bring them to trial before a general court-martial. (Act of Mar. 2, 1913.)

Summary courts-martial may also try general prisoners for like offenses. (Sec. 5, Act of June 18, 1898.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

5. The accused has no right to object to trial by summary court except as provided in the preceding paragraph, nor does the law require that when the trial officer is the accuser the case shall be tried by another court. (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

6. Summary courts-martial shall have power to adjudge punishment not to exceed confinement at hard labor for three months or forfeiture of three months' pay, or both, and in addition thereto reduction to the ranks in the cases of noncommissioned officers and reduction in classification in the cases of first-class privates: Provided, That when the summary court officer is also the commanding officer no sentence of such summary court-martial adjudging confinement at hard labor or forfeiture of pay, or both, for a period in excess of one month shall be carried into execution until the same shall have been approved by superior authority. (Act of Mar. 2, 1913.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

7. Summary courts have power to administer oaths; to hear and determine cases; and, when satisfied of the guilt of an accused party, to adjudge the punishment to be inflicted. (See Act of July 27, 1892.) (C. M. C. M., No. 2, Apr. 21, 1913.)

8. The accused will be arraigned and allowed to plead, according to court-martial practice. When the accused pleads not guilty, witnesses will be sworn and evidence received, the accused being permitted to testify in his own behalf and make a statement, but the evidence and statement will not be recorded. The summary court, as soon as the trial is concluded, will record its findings and sentence in the summary court record and submit it to the officer appointing the court, who will record thereon his approval or disapproval, in part or in whole, with date and signature. The findings and sentence of every trial by summary court, after having been signed by the summary court officer, must be approved or disapproved, in whole or in part, and signed by the commanding officer as such, even though the latter be the only officer present with the command and sit as summary court. WAR DEPARTMENT.

WASHINGTON, March 31, 1914.

Paragraph 15, under the heading "Retiring Boards," page 94, Manual for Courts-Martial (corrected to August, 1910), is changed to read as follows:

15. Two medical officers, not members of the retiring board, will be designated under instructions from the War Department, to make the physical examination of the officer ordered before the board, and will be directed to report to the board as witnesses. Each of these medical officers will submit to the board a report in writing, giving the result of his examination of the officer ordered before the board, and will subsequently be called as a witness and interrogated by the board. The nature, causes, and permanency of any disability, and the degree of any incapacity for active service found to exist will be stated in the written report of the physical examination and made the subject of inquiry when the examining medical officer is before the board as a witness. While evidence as to the physical condition of the officer before the board will ordinarily be furnished otherwise than by the medical members of the board, the foregoing provisions will not be construed so as to prevent a physical examination of the officer being examined by the board by the medical members thereof, if the board so directs, nor to prevent any medical or other member of the board from giving testimony before the board. Whether any disability that may be found to exist is an incident of the service is a question for the board to determine upon the facts. (C. M. C. M., No. 3, Mar. 31, 1914.)

SEC. 2. Upon conviction by a court-martial of any offense for which confinement at hard labor for a period of five days or more may be adjudged, authorized substitutions considered, a noncommissioned officer who is subject to reduction by sentence of court-martial may be sentenced to reduction. A similar rule will apply in respect of first-class privates.

SEC. 3. Neither hard labor without confinement nor confinement at hard labor will be adjudged against a noncommissioned officer unless the sentence includes reduction to the ranks.

SEC. 4. When a soldier shall, upon one arraignment, be convicted of two or more offenses, none of which is punishable under Article II of this order or the custom of the service with dishonorable discharge, but the aggregate term of confinement for which, as specified in said article, may exceed six months, dishonorable discharge with forfeiture of all pay and allowances due and to become due may be adjudged in addition to the authorized confinement.

SEC. 5. If, in any case in which the limit of punishment is dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances due and to become due, and confinement at hard labor for a stated number of months, dishonorable discharge be not adjudged, the limit of forfeiture shall be two-thirds of the soldier's pay per month for a period equal to the prescribed limit of confinement.

SEC. 6. When a soldier is convicted of an offense or offenses for which dishonorable discharge is not authorized he may, nevertheless, upon proof of five previous convictions, be sentenced to be dishonorably discharged with forfeiture of all pay and allowances due and to become due in addition to the confinement at hard labor authorized for the offense or offenses of which he is convicted.

ARTICLE V.

SECTION 1. When a soldier is convicted of an offense the court will receive evidence of previous convictions, if there be any. General and special courts-martial will, after a finding of guilty, be opened for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is such evidence and, if so, of receiving it. Evidence of such previous conviction will be considered by the court in determining the measure of punishment in cases in which discretionary punishment is authorized and by superior authority in determining action upon the sentence and upon requests for clemency.

SEC. 2. The introduction and use of evidence of previous convictions will be limited to that pertaining to previous convictions by court-martial of an offense or offenses committed within one year next preceding the commission of any of the offenses charged and during the current enlistment. These convictions must be proved by the records of previous trials and convictions or by duly authenticated copies of such records or by duly authenticated orders promulgating such trials and convictions.

ARTICLE VI.

SECTION 1. Hard labor, when imposed as a punishment without confinement, will be adjudged in terms of days or months and shall be performed in addition to other duties normally falling to the soldier. No soldier shall be excused or relieved from any military duty for the purpose of performing hard labor imposed as a punishment without confinement, but a sentence imposing such punishment will be considered as satisfied when the soldier has performed hard labor during available time in addition to performing his military duties.

SEC. 2. Pay detained pursuant to the sentence of a court-martial will be detained by the Government until the soldier is discharged from his current enlistment, at which time the authority for the detention and the amount thereof will be noted on the final statement and the amount detained, if not forfeited, paid to him out of the appropriation for the pay of the Army in force at the time.

SEC. 3. A sentence to be dishonorably discharged and to forfeit all pay and allowances due and to become due operates to forfeit pay detained under a prior sentence. In other cases of sentences to forfeit pay, detained pay will not be forfeited unless the sentence expressly so provides.

ARTICLE VII.

SECTION 1. This order prescribes the maximum limit of punishment for each of the offenses described, and thus indicates an appropriate punishment in cases in which the offense is attended by aggravating circumstances or in which there is evidence of a number of previous convictions. In all other cases the punishment will be graded down according to the circumstances of the case.

SEC. 2. Offenses not herein provided for remain punishable as authorized by the Articles of War and the custom of the service.

ARTICLE VIII.

This order, which will take the place of existing orders establishing limits of punishment, shall become operative in the United States, in Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, and in occupied territory in Mexico, on October 1, 1914, and elsewhere within the jurisdiction of the United States on November 1, 1914.

WOODROW WILSON.

[2206114, A. G. O.]

II. In connection with the foregoing Executive order, the following is published:

1. Punishment for desertion.—The policy of the department respecting punishment for desertion was announced in General Orders, No. 77, War Department, June 10, 1911. Corrective confinement and forfeiture were suggested in case of inexperienced soldiers who by surrender manifested a disposition to atone for their offenses. The number so punished and saved to the service has increased each year that this policy has been enforced with fairly satisfactory results. In addition, a limited number of this class of offenders have been restored to duty without trial under provisions of paragraph 131, Army Regulations.

Since the issue of that order important changes have been introduced in our military penology. Under a recently approved construction of section 1352, Revised Statutes, purely military offenders serving sentences in the military prison and its branches may be restored to an honorable status and complete their enlistment. By the act of August 22, 1912, reenlistment of this class of offenders is authorized with the approval in each case of the Secretary of War. Under the provisions of the act of April 27, 1914, dishonorable discharge may be suspended with a view to restoration to duty by remission thereof should the conduct of the prisoner warrant. There are now additional means of saving men to the colors, men whose offenses are thoughtless acts due to youth or inexperience or committed under some special stress and for these reasons have in them less of the element of culpability. Supplementing these methods is the establishment of disciplinary organizations at our military prisons where the prisoners of this class who desire reenlistment or restoration may receive an intensive practical training to fit them for efficient service from the moment of rejoining. It is confidently believed that men restored in this way will make better soldiers than those restored by the old methods, viz, without trial under paragraph 131, Army Regulations, or with trial and a short period of corrective punishment.

These old methods may be continued in the limited number of cases where there are good grounds for belief that a soldier restored by that method will creditably complete his enlistment period; but all doubtful cases should be sent before a court competent to adjudge dishonorable discharge and the longer periods of confinement prescribed in this order, to the end that the more effective methods of reformation and training by hard labor and intensive practical military instruction now provided at the prisons may be availed of. These periods of confinement are graduated so as to prevent inequalities of punishment for like degrees of culpability and are sufficient, it is believed, to meet the ends of punishment where restoration to duty is not in contemplation. Where restoration is in contemplation, as in case of purely military offenders, including deserters, the period of confinement imposed is, under the new policy, in practical effect, the maximum of an indeterminate sentence. In other words, the period for which the offender is held depends entirely upon himself. With good conduct and proper progress toward reform evidencing efficiency in training and fitness to resume service relations, the sentence of confinement terminates and honorable status of duty with the colors is resumed.

While it is the effect of this order to mitigate the condition of the peace deserter who desires to redeem his record and earn an honorable restoration to duty with the colors, it carries no substantial mitigation as to other classes of deserters. Experience has not thus far demonstrated the wisdom of any change in the policy of severe punishment for this latter class. An engagement for military service has little in common with an ordinary private contract for personal service, and the fact that an individual may abandon such a contract with only minor consequences to himself furnishes no suggestion that a corresponding rule may be properly adopted in the Army. Nor does the fact that the early requirement of the common law that a call to civil office or civil employment under the Government could not be disregarded by the citizen, nor the obligations of such office or employment be laid down at his will, no longer obtains, furnish any such suggestion. An engagement for military service creates a special status, and many obligations flow from that status which are not obligations of the citizen in the civil service of the Government or under a private contract for personal service. Other closely related considerations inherent in the nature of military service support this view. The Army is an emergent arm of the public service which the nation holds ready for a time of great peril. Military service is an obligation which every citizen owes the Government. It is settled law that such service may be compelled, if necessary, by draft. Nor is the obligation of the soldier who volunteers for a fixed period different from that of the drafted soldier. By his act of volunteering he consecrates himself to the military service. His engagement, supported by an oath of allegiance, is that the Nation may depend upon him for such service during the fixed period, whatever may be the emergency. When this engagement is breached a high obligation to the Nation is disregarded, a solemn oath of allegiance is violated, and the Government is defrauded in the amount of its outlay incident to inducting the soldier into the military service, training, clothing, and caring for him while he remains in that service, and transporting him to the station from which he deserts. Desertion is thus seen to be, not simply a breach of a contract for personal service, but a grave crime against the Government; in time of war perhaps the gravest that a soldier can commit, and at such times punishable with death. These facts furnish ample justification for a continuance of the policy of severe punishment for the offense of desertion in time of peace, subject only to the qualification that it should not be severe to the degree of barring an honorable restoration to duty of the thoughtless, young, or inexperienced offenders who desert and who, on return, manifest a desire to atone for their desertions and qualify themselves in character and training for such restoration by service in the disciplinary battalions and companies now organized at our prisons.

2. Relative severity of punishments.—The punishments mentioned in the Executive order published in Paragraph I hereof may be arranged in the following order as expressive of their relative severity, beginning with the least severe: (1) Detention of pay, (2) forfeiture of pay, (3) reduction, (4) hard labor without confinement, (5) confinement at hard labor, and (6) dishonorable discharge. In the absence of evidence of two or more previous convictions, a minor offense the nature of which appears to demand punishment by hard labor should ordinarily be punished by hard labor without confinement rather than by confinement at hard labor. For offenses properly punishable by detention of pay, forfeiture of pay, reduction, or hard labor without confinement, those forms of punishment should, as a rule, be resorted to before confinement at hard labor is imposed. It is to be noted that no mention is made in the foregoing Executive order of solitary confinement on bread and water diet. The omission is based upon the theory that solitary confinement on a restricted diet should be regarded rather as a means of enforcing prison discipline than as a punishment to be imposed by sentence of a court-martial.

3. Adaptation of punishment.—The best interests of the service and of society demand thoughtful application of the following principles: That because of the effect of confinement upon the soldier's self-respect confinement is not to be ordered when the interests of the service permit it to be avoided; that a man against whom there is no evidence of previous convictions for the same or similar offenses should be punished less severely than one who has offended repeatedly; that the presence or absence of extenuating or aggravating circumstances should be taken into consideration in determining the measure of punishment in any case; that the maximum limits of punishment authorized are to be applied only in cases in which, from the nature and circumstances of the offense and the general conduct of the offender, severe punishment appears to be necessary to meet the ends of discipline; and that in adjudging punishment the court should take into consideration the individual characteristics of the accused with a view to determining the nature of the punishment best suited to produce the desired results in the case in question, as the individual factor in one case may be such that punishment of one class would serve the ends of discipline while in another case punishment of a different class would be required. As an instance of the necessity for adapting punishment to the particular case under consideration, it is to be noted that prior experience with detention of pay by sentence of court-martial indicates that this form of punishment, while not generally applicable, was nevertheless found to be an effective means of restraint and discipline for a considerable number of offenders.

4. Duplication of charges.—The duplication of charges for the same act or omission will be avoided except when, by reason of lack of definite information as to available evidence, it may be necessary to charge the same act or omission as constituting two or more distinct offenses. When the same act or omission in its different aspects is charged as constituting two or more offenses, the court, even though it arrives at a finding of guilty in respect of two or more specifications, should impose punishment only with reference to the act or omission in its most important aspect, and if this rule be not observed by the court the reviewing authority should take the necessary action. For example, a soldier should not be punished under authority of the thirty-third article of war for failure to report for an ordinary stated duty when he is punished for absence without leave in violation of the thirty-second article of war for the same period. Neither, as a rule, should a soldier be punished for disorderly conduct and also for assault when the disorderly conduct consisted in making a disturbance incident to the assault.

5. Forms of sentences.—Sentences adjudged by courts-martial will be expressed substantially in one or the other of the following forms:

Form 1. To have his pay for —— days detained until he is discharged from his current enlistment.

Form 2. To have —— (a fraction) of his pay per month for —— months detained until he is discharged from his current enlistment.

Form 3. To forfeit —— days' pay.

Form 4. To forfeit —— (a fraction) of his pay per month for —— months.

Form 5. To be reduced to the ranks (or to the grade of private or second-class private).

Form 6. To perform hard labor for —— days (or months).

Form 7. To perform hard labor for —— months and to forfeit —— (a fraction) of his pay per month for a like period.

Form 8. To be confined at hard labor at such place as the reviewing authority may direct for —— months and to forfeit —— (a fraction) of his pay per month for a like period.

Form 9. To be dishonorably discharged the service of the United States and to forfeit all pay and allowances due or to become due.

Form 10. To be dishonorably discharged the service of the United States; to forfeit all pay and allowances now due, or to become due while in confinement under this sentence; and to be confined at hard labor at such place as the reviewing authority may direct for —— months (or years).

6. Suspension of sentences not involving dishonorable discharge.— By direction of the President the authority competent to order the execution of a sentence adjudged by court-martial is authorized, if the sentence does not involve dishonorable discharge, to suspend the execution of the whole or any part of the sentence; and the soldier under sentence may be restored to duty during the suspension of confinement. At any time within three months after the sentence would have been executed in the absence of an order suspending the execution thereof, the order of suspension may, for sufficient cause, be vacated and the execution of the sentence directed by the authority competent to order the execution of like sentences in the command to which the soldier under sentence belongs or in which he may be found; but if the order of suspension be not vacated within the period here indicated the suspended sentence shall be held to have been remitted, as shall also be the case if the soldier be honorably discharged. The form of action of the reviewing authority in a case in which he directs a suspension of the execution of a sentence will be substantially as follows:

(a) When the execution of the entire sentence is to be suspended:

In the foregoing case of ——— the sentence is approved but the execution thereof is suspended, until otherwise ordered by competent authority, during the soldier's good behavior. Subject to these conditions he will be released from arrest (or confinement) and restored to duty.

(b) When the execution of so much of the sentence as relates to confinement at hard labor, or to confinement alone, or to hard labor without confinement, is to be suspended, leaving the remainder of the sentence to be executed:

In the foregoing case of ——— the sentence is approved but the execution of so much of the sentence as relates to confinement at hard labor (or to confinement, or to hard labor without confinement) is suspended, until otherwise ordered by competent authority, during the soldier's good behavior. Subject to these conditions he will be released from arrest (or confinement) and restored to duty.

The form of an order vacating an order of suspension will be substantially as follows:

————— having by his conduct violated the conditions under which the execution of the sentence of a ——— court-martial, approved on ——— (if the sentence is by special or general court-martial, cite order here) was suspended, the order of suspension is vacated and the sentence so suspended will be carried into execution.

7. Suspension of sentences of dishonorable discharge.—Under the provisions of the act of April 27, 1914, reviewing authorities in approving sentences of general courts-martial may, whenever the character of the offense for which the sentence is imposed and the facts developed by the evidence indicate that there is a probability of reclaiming the soldier to honorable service, suspend, until the soldier's release from confinement, the execution of that part of the sentence providing for dishonorable discharge. Should it subsequently develop that the soldier's retention in the service is not warranted, the authority having general court-martial jurisdiction over the command in which the soldier is held will vacate the order directing a suspension of that part of the sentence providing for dishonorable discharge and direct that dishonorable discharge immediately issue. The form of order of suspension will be:

The execution of that portion of the sentence imposing dishonorable discharge is suspended until the soldier's release from confinement, unless sooner ordered by competent authority.

The form of an order vacating such an order of suspension will be substantially as follows:

The order suspending the execution of the sentence of dishonorable discharge in the case of ——— (G. C. M. O. —) is hereby vacated, and the sentence so suspended will be carried into execution.

8. Effect of plea of guilty to be explained.—In each case tried by a general court-martial in which the accused enters a plea of guilty it shall appear of record that the meaning of his plea and the extent of the punishment to which it may subject him was adequately explained to the accused by the president of the court, and that the accused was, after such explanation, asked if he desires to have the plea of guilty stand. If he replies in the affirmative, the plea of guilty will stand; otherwise, a plea of not guilty will be entered. The explanation of the president and the reply of the accused thereto shall appear upon the record of trial. The same rule will apply in cases tried by special court-martial when the evidence heard is made of record.

9. Right of accused to testify.—In each case tried by a general court-martial in which the accused does not testify or make any statement in his own behalf, it shall appear of record that the president of the court explained to the accused that he may testify in his own behalf if he so desire, or may make a statement to the court in denial, in explanation, or in extenuation of the offense with which he stands charged. The explanation by the president and the reply of the accused thereto shall appear upon the record of trial. The same rule will apply in cases tried by special court-martial when the evidence heard is made of record.

10. Statute of limitations.—In each case tried by general court-martial in which, upon the face of the record, it appears that the accused might successfully plead the one hundred and third article of war, but in which he has not interposed such plea, it shall be made to appear of record that the president of the court advised the accused of his legal rights in the premises.

11. Reasons for findings and sentence.—A court-martial may spread upon the record of trial a brief statement of reasons upon which its findings and sentence are based. In many cases such a statement will aid the reviewing authority in determining the action to be taken by him.

12. Recommendations to clemency.—When a court-martial, or any member thereof, desires to submit a recommendation to clemency, including a recommendation for the suspension of the whole or of any part of the sentence imposed by the court, such recommendation will be signed by each member of the court desiring to participate therein. The communication carrying the recommendation will include a statement in succinct form of the reasons upon which the recommendation is based and will be appended to the record of trial.

13. Preliminary investigation.—The investigation required before forwarding a charge with the recommendation that the accused be brought to trial before a general court-martial, shall include giving the accused an opportunity to make any statement or present any evidence he may desire then to have considered in connection with the accusation against him; and the statement of evidence forwarded with the charge when trial by general court-martial is recommended shall include a summary of any material statement made by the accused or any material evidence presented by him, and particularly a summary of any extenuating circumstances connected with the case.

14. Mitigation of certain sentences.—Subject to the limitations expressed in Article III of the Executive order published in Paragraph I hereof, forfeiture of pay adjudged by a court-martial may be mitigated to detention of pay for a like period, and confinement at hard labor mitigated to hard labor without confinement for a like period.

15. Reports of trial judge advocates.—On Saturday of each week each judge advocate of a general court-martial will report, through the president of the court and the post commander, to the convening authority, a list of charges on hand, showing the date of receipt of each; and if any case has been in the hands of the judge advocate for one week or more and the record of trial has not been forwarded to the convening authority, the report will include a statement of the reasons for the delay. The president of each general court-martial will take the proper steps to insure prompt trial and disposition of all charges referred for trial.

16. Judge advocate advising accused.—When the accused is an enlisted man and without counsel the following rules will be observed. In so far as such action may be taken without prejudice to the rights of the accused any advice given him by the judge advocate should be given or repeated in open court; and in any case in which the accused has been advised by the judge advocate that fact and the general nature of the advice will be noted upon the record of the trial.

17. Conformity to Federal Penal Code.—It is to be noted that in the limits of punishment prescribed in the Executive order quoted in Paragraph I hereof for offenses denounced by the Federal Penal Code, the limit of punishment prescribed by that code has in no case been exceeded.

18. When effective.—The forms for sentences of dishonorable discharge and dishonorable discharge with confinement at hard labor set forth in section 5 of Paragraph II of this order shall become operative from the date this order is received at posts or stations of the Army. By direction of the President all other parts of this order shall, notwithstanding the provisions of Article VIII of the Executive Order published in Paragraph I, become operative in the United States, Porto Rico, and Canal Zone on November 1, 1914, and elsewhere within the jurisdiction of the United States on December 1, 1914.

[2206114, A. G. O.]

III. . All orders or parts of orders in conflict with the provisions of Paragraphs I and II of this order are rescinded.
