DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

Voluntary Agreement and Plan of Action to Implement the International Energy Program

AGENCY: Department of Energy.

ACTION: Notice of intention to amend "Voluntary Agreement and Plan of Action to Implement the International Energy Program."

SUMMARY: The Department of Energy (DOE) gives notice that the Department of Justice intends to amend the "Voluntary Agreement and Plan of Action to Implement the International Energy Program" ("Voluntary Agreement") to implement changes recently enacted by Public Law 105-77 to the antitrust defense in section 252 of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act (EPCA) for U.S. oil companies participating in the International Energy Agency's ("IEA") emergency preparedness program. The Voluntary Agreement, which was adopted in 1976, implements the EPCA section 252 antitrust defense. The Administration sought the changes to EPCA section 252 to conform legal authority for U.S. oil company participation in IEA emergency preparedness activities to current U.S. and IEA emergency response policy for oil supply disruptions. Prior to the enactment of Public Law 105-77, the EPCA section 252 antitrust defense was available only for planning and implementing the IEA's emergency international oil allocation system in response to significant international oil supply interruptions. Now the antitrust defense extends to the participating U.S. oil companies when they assist the IEA in planning and implementing coordinated drawdown of government-owned or government-controlled petroleum stocks, a policy the U.S. successfully urged upon its IEA partners. The Department of Justice intends to amend the existing Voluntary Agreement 20 days after publication of this Notice, to implement the changes to EPCA section 252 enacted by Public Law 105-177.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

The IEA, the main forum for energy cooperation among 24 industrialized countries,<sup>1</sup> was created in 1974 by its governing treaty, the Agreement on an International Energy Program (the "IEP Agreement"). Based in Paris, the IEA is an autonomous agency within the framework of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development ("OECD"). The IEA's main decision-making body is its Governing Board, composed of senior energy officials from each member country; the work of the Agency is supported by a Secretariat headed by an Executive Director.

The IEA was formed in the aftermath of the 1973-74 Arab-Israel War crisis. That crisis—and the failure to mount any effective joint response to the supply disruption that it involved—shocked the nations of the industrialized world into action to reduce their vulnerability to future disruptions. It was the United States that took the initiative, calling an international conference in Washington in 1974 that led to negotiation of the IEP Agreement. Through that Agreement the IEA's founders charged it with responsibility for international cooperation on oil supply disruption responses, long-term policies to reduce dependence on oil, energy information systems, oil market transparency, energy research and development, and relations with OECD and non-OECD oil producers and consumers.

The IEP Agreement contains, in addition to its institutional arrangements, a body of obligations that are binding on the member governments. These include both long-term cooperation obligations, and emergency response commitments, including the commitment to participate in oil sharing with one another, in accordance with an agreed formula, in case the IEP's emergency measures are activated by a serious supply disruption.

The IEP's international oil sharing system has never been triggered, and over the years the IEA's emergency preparedness strategy has evolved significantly, reflecting the growing experience as well as the dramatic changes that have occurred in oil markets and IEA member countries. Taking into account the lessons of the so-called "Second Oil Crisis," beginning with the Iranian revolution in 1979 and continuing during the Iran/Iraq War,
