Notice of Intent To Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement for Continued Operation of the Sound Source Installed by the Acoustic Thermometry of Ocean Climate (ATOC) Project North of Kauai

SUMMARY: Pursuant to section 102(2)(c) of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), the Office of Naval Research (ONR) is announcing its intent to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) to continue operation of the sound source installed by the ATOC Project north of Kauai.

DATES: Public scoping meetings will be held in: (1) Hanalei, Kauai on June 29, 1999 at 7 PM at the Wai'oli Hui'ia Church, Mission Hall, 5-5363 Kuhio Highway; (2) Lihue, Kauai on June 30, 1999 at 7 PM at the Kauai Community College Dining Room, 3-1901 Kaunualii Highway; and (3) Honolulu, Hawaii on July 1, 1999 at 7 PM at the Hawaii Imin Intl. Conference Center, East-West Center, 2nd Floor, Pacific Room, 1777 East-West Road. Written comments regarding the scope of this environmental document must be submitted by 08/15/99.

ADDRESSES: Comments and requests for additional information should be addressed to ATTN: Office of Naval Research, c/o Kathleen J. Vigness, (703) 465-8404, Marine Acoustics, Inc., 901 N. Stuart St., Suite 708, Arlington, VA 22203.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Kauai ATOC Feasibility Study began in October 1997, and included a Marine Mammal Research Program (MMRP) for which a Scientific Research Permit was obtained. The sound source installed by the ATOC Project is located approximately 14.7 km (8 nm) north of Kauai at 22° 20.94 N, 159° 34.18 W at a depth of 807 m (2648 ft). During the ATOC Project, a team of marine mammal researchers utilized transmissions of the sound source to conduct simultaneous observations of marine mammal behavior. The acoustic objectives of the ATOC Feasibility Study were to determine the precision with which acoustic methods could be used to measure large-scale changes in ocean temperature and heat content, thereby refining climate models and gaining a better understanding of the potential for global warming. The objectives of the MMRP were to determine the potential effects of the sound source on marine animals.

The results of the ATOC Project demonstrate that acoustic travel times can be measured much more accurately than expected. These travel times can then be used to estimate range- and depth-averaged temperatures with a precision of about 0.006°C at ranges of 3,000 to 5,000 km. The marine mammal research indicates that transmissions by the sound source do not affect the abundance, distribution or singing behavior of humpback whales in the vicinity of the sound source, and that there were no biologically significant short-term effects observed in conjunction with the transmissions. The MMRP found that the distance and time between successive whale surfacings increased slightly with increasing sound levels.

With these positive results, the Office of Naval Research will prepare an EIS to continue operation of the sound source installed by the ATOC Project. The sound source would remain at its present location, and transmissions would continue with the same signal parameters and approximately the same transmission schedule. The current schedule maintains six 20-minute transmissions (one every four hours), every fourth day, with each transmission preceded by a 5-minute ramp-up period, representing an average duty cycle of 2%. With the possible exception of equipment failures or short duration testing, this schedule would continue for a period of five years. The signals transmitted by the source have a center frequency of 75 Hz and a bandwidth of approximately 35 Hz (i.e., sound transmissions are in the frequency band of 57.5-92.5 Hz).

Approximately 260 watts of acoustic power are radiated during transmission. At 1 m (3.28 ft) from the source, the sound intensity is about 195 dB referenced to the intensity of a signal with a sound pressure level of 1 microPascal (on a "water standard" basis). These signal parameters and source level have been found to provide adequate, but not excessive, signal-to-noise ratios at the receiver ranges of interest.

The EIS will address the potential effects of the transmissions on the marine environment, including potential auditory, behavioral, and physiological effects on marine mammals and other marine creatures. Alternatives will be studied, including the no action alternative.

Dated: June 8, 1999.

Background

This dispute concerns the alleged failure of the United States Department of Defense, Department of the Air Force (Air Force) to renew an expiring food service contract with the Louisiana Department of Social Services, Rehabilitation Services, the State licensing agency (SLA).

The Air Force operates Barksdale Air Force Base (Barksdale) in Louisiana. On March 29, 1994, the Air Force awarded a food service attendant services contract to the SLA. The contract was awarded on a non-competitive basis pursuant to the Randolph-Sheppard Act (20 U.S.C. 107 et seq.) The contract was for a six-month period with two one-year options. A blind licensee was chosen to manage the facility.

By memorandum dated July 8, 1996 the Air Force proposed "to offer the reprourement solicitation" for the food service attendant services contract to the SLA as a non-competitive acquisition. The period for this reprourement was from October 1, 1996 through September 30, 1997 with four one-year options. However, on August 23, 1996, the Contracting Officer for the Air Force sent the blind licensee a memorandum stating that the Air Force viewed the priority provisions of the Randolph-Sheppard Act (the Act) as not being applicable to the contract. The Air Force further stated that the solicitation for the contract would be issued as a competitive acquisition set-aside for small businesses.

Thereafter, the SLA's current contract was extended for an additional six-month period until March 31, 1997 to allow a solicitation for the contract to be issued on a competitive basis, with a set-aside for small businesses. The SLA filed a protest of this action with the Air Force. The Air Force rejected the protest by memorandum dated September 24, 1996. The Air Force's objection stated in part that the contract merely supported the Air Force's operation of the dining facility. The Air Force concluded that the operation of the dining hall resided with the Air Force. The Air Force's position was that the Randolph-
