U.S.-AFRICA TRADE IS UP: NON-OIL AGOA TRADE EXPANDS

- AGOA has been a success, increasing our two-way trade with Africa and diversifying the range of products being traded.
- In 2004, AGOA imports (including GSP) totaled $26.6 billion, up 88 percent.
- Take oil away from AGOA, and you find that non-oil AGOA imports totaled $3.5 billion, up 22 percent.
- Apparel and agricultural products accounted for more than half of non-oil AGOA imports.
- AGOA apparel products totaled $1.6 billion, up 35 percent; and agricultural products were $265.1 million, up 10 percent.
- Particularly impressive is the growth in AGOA imports of footwear, up 223 percent since 2000; toys and sportswear, up 79 percent; fruits and nuts, up 68 percent; and cut flowers, up 58 percent.
- Two-way total trade (exports plus imports) between the United States and sub-Saharan Africa increased 37 percent to just over $44 billion in 2004.
- U.S. total exports to Africa rose 25 percent to $8.6 billion, and U.S. total imports (AGOA and non-AGOA) from Africa increased by 40 percent to $35.9 billion.
