Peace Corps Response

Peace Corps Week 2008: Celebrate a Legacy of Service at Home and Abroad In Your Community

This year, thousands of your fellow returned Peace Corps Volunteers will tell their stories to schools, community organizations, and at cultural events during Peace Corps Week 2008, February 25 to March 3. Why not join them? You've spent your Peace Corps service focusing on those familiar first two goals of the agency: providing valuable skills, and promoting a better understanding of Americans to people throughout the world. Now that you're home, extend the reach of your service by focusing on the third goal. Share your host country culture and Volunteer stories and broaden Americans' understanding of the world.

The following anecdotes are a few great examples of how RPCVs are making a difference in their communities by sharing their invaluable Peace Corps experience. As you make the transition home, don't forget to tell your story. It will help you make sense of your Peace Corps experience by putting it into perspective. That perspective can help you identify your competitive advantage when seeking a new job or admittance into graduate school.¹

Diane Joyce has presented her Peace Corps story to classes at her school in Pennsauken, NJ, for over 20 years. "One of my former students who saw my presentation as an eighth grader has just entered the Peace Corps. This is a great affirmation of how valuable sharing the Peace Corps story with others is," she said.

Diane Joyce
Sierra Leone 1981-1983

"I am a secondary Spanish and ESL teacher. In my Honors Spanish class we were doing a unit on community service and volunteer work, so Peace Corps Week fit right into the curriculum! I invited another RPCV friend of mine to come and give a presentation with video and regalia from Senegal and Guatemala."

Leslie Burgess
Guatemala 1993-1995

"I spoke to a 10th grade English class in a rural Maine fishing community about my time in Madagascar. Most of the students there have had very limited exposure to other cultures or other types of people. Weeks afterward, the teacher told me that they were still talking about my Malagasy sandals made of old tires." Fran Clairmont Quintana Madagascar, 2003-05

"My presentation took place during the high school students' Native American support classes. Most of the students are Kumeyaay Indians and come from a culture famous for basket making. The baskets I shared from Tanzania were especially appreciated."

Norrie Robbins
Tanzania 1964-1966

"I always ask my younger audiences, 'Who knows any Swahili?' The usual response is dead silence. Then I bring up the movie The Lion King and a few words from it: hakuna matata, simba, rafiki, asante sana and so forth. It's always great to see the kids realize that they have been exposed to other languages without even knowing it."

Craig Trongeau
Kenya 2002-2004

"In conjunction with the Kentucky RPCV Association's annual winter gathering, we coordinated a children's Peace Corps story hour at four branches of the local public

Peace Corps Response

Crisis Corps becomes Peace Corps Response:

Due to a recent organizational name change, Crisis Corps Volunteers will now be referred to as Peace Corps Response Volunteers (PCRV). The duties and requirements for previously listed advertisements remain unchanged; the new name better reflects the diverse range of activities available to RPCVs through our program. Please note the change to our email address: it is now pcresponse@peacecorps.gov.

Eastern Caribbean

Antigua and Barbuda Red Cross in the Eastern Caribbean requests a Peace Corps Response Volunteer (PCRV) to serve as a Community Outreach Volunteer for the Disaster Preparedness and Mitigation (DPM) program for a six-month assignment. Duties: assists with capacity building in four target communities within St. John's Parish and on the island of Barbuda to strengthen skills in disaster preparedness; assists with developing a plan of action; facilitates disaster training sessions and training in the design and implementation of hazard maps. Qualifications: well-developed training and facilitation skills; knowledge of research methods for disaster-related topics, hazard, and risk mapping; familiarity with disaster prone regions in the EC; project management experience; should be a returned Volunteer from the Caribbean region; experience with flood disasters and Spanish language skills.

The Health, Hope and HIV Network (HHH Network) of Antigua & Barbuda has requested a Peace Corps Response Volunteer (PCRV) to work as a Capacity Building Volunteer for a 6 month assignment. HHH Network is a non-profit and non-governmental organization that was formed to address the plight of people living with HIV and AIDS (PLWHA) and supports those who are infected and affected. The PCRV will assist in building the capacity of the HHH Network office to more effectively support PLWHA in Antigua & Barbuda. Duties and Responsibilities include: assist staff in identifying and writing project proposals which would ensure continuous funding for the HHH Network; train members of the HHH Network in proposal writing; train members of the HHH Network in basic computer literacy; advise the HHH Network staff on efficient office administration practices; teach basic Spanish to the staff.

Qualifications: undergraduate degree in social sciences, community development, or related field; experience in NGO development, capacity building, proposal writing, resource development, and training; strong program management skills; minimum two years HIV/AIDS experience, preferably in working with PLWHA; proficient in MS Office applications; high level Spanish skills and ability to teach basic Spanish.

The St. John Ambulance Association of Antigua and Barbuda in the Eastern Caribbean is requesting a Peace Corps Response Volunteer (PCRV) to serve on a six month project as a Hospice Development Advisor to its Humanitarian Assistance program. The PCRV will work with the St. John Ambulance Association and key stakeholders to develop a three-year Strategic Plan for a Hospice Thrift Shop and a permanent Hospice Center. Duties include the start up of both facilities and training to ensure sustainability, identifying available resources to eliminate or reduce redundancy, and developing winning proposals for both projects. Qualifications: Mandatory qualifications include: significant experience in service management, especially related to HIV/AIDS, strong strategic planning, budgeting and proposal writing skills, ability to network and establish relationships, and a passion for providing care to the terminally ill. Desired qualifications include: an advanced degree in health management or related field, prior experience with the Foundation Center or other foundation databases, prior experience living and working in the EC, Spanish language skills and experience related to the start up of a medical facility.

Disabled Peoples International North America and Caribbean Region (DPI NAC) has requested a Peace Corps Response Volunteer (PCRV) to work as a Program Development Volunteer for a 6 month assignment. DPI NAC has been working to raise awareness about the relationship between the experiences of persons with disabilities and human rights issues in the Caribbean region. At the forefront of the disability movement is the ability to effectively address, encourage, and change how society relates to health education and awareness for persons with a disability as this issue is very much applicable to the rise of HIV/AIDS within disabled communities. Duties and Responsibilities include: advise the Regional Development Officer in developing a strategic program plan/framework for incorporating HIV/AIDS into DPI programming in the region; create and develop accessible and comprehensive databases (using Microsoft Access) of local funders and sponsors who support HIV/AIDS relative to disability; organize and develop current print resources on project planning and management, disability awareness, and current global issues within the disability movement; and more.

Qualifications: Experience working with people with disabilities; post-secondary degree or diploma in social work and/or international development studies; minimum 2 years coordination experience working in program development within a non-profit organizational structure; experience working within the context of youth, HIV/AIDS awareness, and communications with skills in facilitation and workshop design; proven track record of developing, implementing, and evaluating both short and long term program plans; diverse writing ability and above-average editing skills; competent in all Microsoft Office programs; and more.

The Dominica Red Cross in the Eastern Caribbean is requesting a Peace Corps Response Volunteer (PCRV) to serve on a six month project as a Program Assistant for their Disaster Preparedness and Mitigation Program (DPM). Duties include providing a community-based disaster program through trainings in risk assessment and risk mapping, disaster preparedness simulations and behavior change communication/modification. The PCRV will also assist with strengthening the existing Red Cross branches in the various communities.

Qualifications: Mandatory qualifications include: Degree in Disaster Management, Emergency Management with extensive experience in community outreach/capacity building or significant experience in disaster/emergency management, excellent communication skills, materials development, training/facilitation skills, hazard/risk mapping, and successful completion of two-year Peace Corps service within the EC region or Latin America.

The Ministry of Health/Department of Community Based Health Services in St. Kitts and Nevis in the Eastern Caribbean is requesting a Peace Corps Response Volunteer (PCRV) on a six month assignment as an Adolescent Health Program Volunteer for Humanitarian Assistance program. The PCRV will assist the ministry in providing adolescent friendly reproductive health services. Duties include reviewing existing documentation and statistics relating to adolescent reproductive health needs and preferences for service delivery, research best practices in the Caribbean and other countries for delivery methods of adolescent-friendly health services, assist with the identification of training needs, service delivery model and promotional materials, and provide comprehensive training. Qualifications: Mandatory qualifications include: experienced, motivated individual capable of working with all levels of personnel from ministry officials to people living with HIV/AIDS (PLWA), undergraduate degree in health related field, social work or community development, significant experience working with adolescent health issues including HIV/AIDS, grant writing and resource development skills, developing IEC promotional materials and successful completion of a two-year Peace Corps program. Desired qualifications include the following: advanced degree in health, international affairs, social work, or related area, experience living and working in the Eastern Caribbean, and considerable project management experience.

The National Emergency Management Office (NEMO) in Saint Lucia has requested a Peace Corps Response Volunteer (PCRV) to work as a Community Outreach and Program Development Volunteer for a 6 month assignment. NEMO places great emphasis on assisting communities to prepare for disasters and the goal of this current project is to strengthen communities as well as NEMO to plan for and respond to disasters. Duties and Responsibilities: assist in the formulation of a Natural Hazard Mitigation Program to articulate the National Policy and Plan; work with the two communities within Castries Central to develop an Evacuation Plan; work with the NEMO Corporate Planning Officer to review and update the Secretariat Continuity of Operations Plan; work with the National Council of and for Persons with Disabilities/Older Persons to create a Business Continuity Plan; review and update the National Data Security Guide; and possibly assist NEMO in responding to a disaster. Qualifications: degree in Disaster Management or Environmental Management with a focus on disaster or emergency preparedness OR a year of experience working in the disaster preparedness and mitigation field; extensive experience in community outreach and/or training; above average research skills (internet); successful completion of two years Peace Corps service in the Eastern Caribbean or any other Caribbean or Latin American country; experience working in a government agency; ability to work independently and in somewhat intense situations.

The Saint Lucia Crisis Center (SLCC) has requested a Peace Corps Response Volunteer (PCRV) to work as a Community Outreach Facilitator for a 6 month assignment. The SLCC opened its doors in 1988 to deal with the growing problems of domestic violence and its associated ills in Saint Lucia and has since counseled over 7000 clients in areas such as child abuse, rape, domestic violence, harassment and dysfunctional relationships. The PCRV will participate in the SLCC's project to empower community members and enable them to better understand and deal with domestic violence, sexual assault, rape, and abuse as well as to prevent such by making resources available at the community level. Duties and Responsibilities: assist in the continued training of community facilitators, hotline and crisis intervention volunteers in the fight against these abuses; work with the Director and Senior Counselor as well as key stakeholders in the development, implementation and evaluation of public education and awareness campaigns geared towards domestic violence, sexual assaults, rape and abuse; work with the Director and Senior Counselor in the implementation of hotline services, victim assistance services, and support groups to assist with mitigating the effects of these abuses; develop up-to-date and innovative education/promotion materials and the preparation of the resource and information kits for the prevention of these abuses. Qualifications: Qualifications: strong background in education and promotion at the community level with regard to domestic violence, sexual assault, rape and abuse; knowledge of awareness, education, and communication of these abuses; experience with victim support programs and hotline services; strong background in the behavior change communication (BCC) methodology and its application; experience in training of trainers in the utilization of the BCC methodology for education campaigns in these abuses; internet research skills; experience developing education materials; successful completion of two years Peace Corps service in the Eastern Caribbean or any other Caribbean, Latin American, or African country; and more.

library. RPCVs told and read stories talked about their Peace Corps experience, and led crafts and other activities.”

Kay Roberts
Ecuador 1982-1984

“Thirteen RPCVs representing 10 different countries organized a display of our countries of service during Peace Corps Week at the Census Bureau, where we work. There was an announcement broadcast through the Census Bureau's Intranet site and the display was located in a conference room next to the cafeteria.”

Julie Buckley-Ess
Paraguay 1978-1980, 1982-1983

“I appeared on KCUR 89.3, the NPR station in Kansas City, along with the local Peace Corps recruiter and two other RPCVs. The one-hour program featured a discussion about our experiences in the Peace Corps, how to get involved with the Peace Corps, international understanding and exchange, and development.”

Christie Applehanz
Ukraine 2001-2002

“I gave a presentation to a Girl Scout troop and found their interest to be boundless and their questions wonderfully insightful. So, I decided that I'd try to talk to a new group each year and try to give a presentation to a Boy Scout troop as well.”

Keith Odeen
Ecuador 1996-1999

Ward Stone, father of a PCV in Tanzania, spoke to a Virginia Lions Club about the Peace Corps mission, history, and principles, as well as the steps to becoming a PCV. He told the Peace Corps Week team,

“Your online PC Week 2007 PowerPoint presentation was well done and helpful, and so was the support material you mailed, especially the map and the World Wise Schools brochure.”

Let us help you prepare for your third goal activity during Peace Corps Week—or at any time during the year. Visit the Peace Corps Week website, www.peacecorps.gov/pcweek, to officially register your participation and to gather ideas, suggestions, and resources. Finally, send us an email at pcweek@peacecorps.gov and let us know the good work you are doing in your community toward the third goal.

Peace Corps' Office of Domestic Programs, Returned Volunteer Services Introduces SIGI³

What is SIGI³?

SIGI³ is a highly interactive career assessment tool that is designed to help you make informed and rational decisions about your field of study and career. SIGI³ can help you assess your work-related values, interests, and skills. SIGI³ will help you examine key motivators and match work-related values, interests, and skills to educational and career pathways. First you will enter your work-related preferences, and then SIGI³ will search its built-in library and find those careers that most closely match your preferences. SIGI³'s library is so large that it may well find career options that you never even considered or knew existed!

How do I register for access to SIGI³?

To access SIGI³, e-mail RVS at rvsinfo@peacecorps.gov with your full name, country and dates of Peace Corps service.

SIGI 3 is licensed to the United States Peace Corps. Use of this license by individuals not officially and directly authorized by Peace Corps' Office of Domestic Programs/Returned Volunteer Services is prohibited.**
