Peace Corps Week: Celebrate a Legacy of Service at Home and Abroad in Your Community

A great many of your 182,000 fellow returned Peace Corps Volunteers will tell their stories to schools, clubs, and congregations during Peace Corps Week (February 27 to March 5, 2006). Why not join them—and extend the reach of your Peace Corps service by enlightening Americans about the peoples and land you served! Need ideas? Inspiration? RPCVs offer an impressive array of suggestions that succeeded in making Peace Corps Week 2005 a rewarding experience for their communities.

I gave a presentation to a Girl Scout troop and found their interest to be boundless and their questions wonderfully insightful. So, I decided that I'd try to talk to a new group each year and try to give a presentation to a Boy Scout troop as well.
Keith Odeen
Ecuador 1996–1999

My presentation took place during the high school students Native American support classes. Most of the students are Kumeyaay Indians and come from a culture famous for basket making. The baskets I shared from Tanzania were especially appreciated.

Norrie Robbins
Tanzania 1964–1966

I am a secondary Spanish and ESL teacher. In my Honors Spanish class we were doing a unit on community service and volunteer work, so Peace Corps Week fit right into the curriculum! I invited another RPCV friend of mine to come and give a presentation with video and regalia from the Senegal and Guatemala.

Leslie Burgess
Guatemala 1993–1995

*I always ask my younger audiences, “Who knows any Swahili?” The usual response is dead silence. Then I bring up the movie The Lion King and a few words from it; hakuna matata, simba, rafiki, asante sana and so forth. It's always great to see the kids realize that they have been exposed to other languages without even knowing it.*

Craig Trongeau
Kenya 2002–2004

In conjunction with the Kentucky RPCV Association's annual winter gathering, we coordinated a children's Peace Corps story hour at four branches of the local public library. RPCVs told and read stories, talked about their Peace Corps experience, and led crafts and other activities.

Kay Roberts
Ecuador 1982–1984

The Milwaukee Peace Corps Association had 25 Volunteers from 22 different countries, from 10am to 4pm at the Betty Brinn Children's Museum in Milwaukee, doing crafts, face painting, storytelling, language learning, folk singing, slide shows, and cultural demonstrations and exhibits. All in all, we had 270 parents and children attend our events, and the BBC Museum was so happy that they invited us back for next year.

Allegra Troiano
Senegal 1980–1982

Thirteen RPCVs representing 10 different countries organized a display of our countries of service during Peace Corps Week at the Census Bureau, where we work. There was an announcement broadcast through the Census Bureau's Intranet site and the display was located in a conference room next to the cafeteria.

Julie Buckley-Ess
Paraguay 1978–1980, 1982–1983

I appeared on KCUR 89.3, the NPR station in Kansas City, along with the local Peace Corps recruiter and two other RPCVs. The one-hour program featured a discussion about our experiences in the Peace Corps, how to get involved with the Peace Corps, international understanding and exchange, and development.

Christie Applehantz
Ukraine 2001–2002
