HOTLINE E-newsletter: It's Coming March 15, 2006

Hotline is a valuable resource to the RPCV community. For over a decade it has delivered targeted job announcements and insightful job and transition articles for RPCVs.

Hotline began as a small job listing letter and later expanded to the national newsletter that has faithfully hit your postal box twice a month. Now the next generation of Hotline is almost here as we begin leveraging the latest technologies to more efficiently deliver critical Hotline content! Among other features, these improved tools will enable RVS to accept more jobs for listing without the space limitation found in the paper version.

The new Hotline e-newsletter rolls out on March 15, 2006 and will replace the current paper version, delivering HOTLINE to your email inbox as opposed to your postal box. The HOTLINE e-newsletter has a fresh new look and will continue to provide job announcements, informative articles, and keep you updated on upcoming events. The HOTLINE e-newsletter will give you an opportunity to preview content and link to the complete content should you so desire.

It is necessary that you update your current email address so that you may receive the new Hotline e-newsletter. Beginning with the March 15 issue you will no longer be receiving the print edition, so please update your current email address ASAP. To do so, send us an email at HOTLINEemail@peacecorps.gov with subject “Subscribe” (please see below Note).

In the body of the email, please include

1. Full Name (including middle initial)
2. Name used during service, if different
3. Country of Service, and
4. COS month and year.
5. HTML or Text version

Note: please do NOT use this email address for other correspondence such as mailing address updates. For these updates, visit www.peacecorps.gov/rpcv/records.

For the foreseeable future Hotline in its PDF form will continue to be available through the Peace Corps website at www.peacecorps.gov/rpcv/Hotline. Should you experience a gap in issue delivery, please confirm your email address with RVS at the address provided above and access Hotline at the RPCV website.

Remember to fully explore the Returned Volunteer section on the Peace Corps website (www.peacecorps.gov/RPCV). Here you will find information covering career and transition assistance available to returned Volunteers, benefits such as tuition assistance at participating graduate schools as well as post-service health insurance, and ways to build upon your Peace Corps experience through third goal activities that will continue to enrich your life, both personally and professionally, for many years.

Another prominent feature at the Returned Volunteer section is a list of frequently asked questions (FAQs) (www.peacecorps.gov/RPCV/FAQs) addressing, among other topics, financial issues, Description of Service, assistance with medical issues, and your critical non-competitive eligibility (NCE). NCE confers twelve months of special hiring status for federal GS positions without having to compete with the general public.

Whether it is from the new Hotline e-newsletter, on the Peace Corps website, or through the staff at Returned Volunteer Services and the Office of Domestic Programs, you'll find information about the many ways the Peace Corps is dedicated to helping you make a smooth transition back to life in the States.

HOTLINE E-newsletter It's Coming March 15, 2006!

To continue receiving HOTLINE, request the E-newsletter by e-mailing HOTLINEemail@peacecorps.gov with subject “Subscribe.” In the body of the email, please include:

- Full Name (including middle initial)
- Name used during service, if different
- Country of Service, and
- COS month and year.
- HTML or plain text version.
