Appendix 4.1

Cumulation in Chapter 62 of the Harmonized System

1. For purposes of determining whether a good of Chapter 62 of the Harmonized System is an originating good, materials produced in Canada or Mexico, which would originate under this Agreement if produced in the territory of a Party, used in the production of such a good, shall be considered as having been produced in the territory of a Party.³

- (a) This Rule shall enter into force on the date on which:
- (i) Each Party, Canada, and Mexico have exchanged written notifications that they have amended their laws, as necessary, and tariff schedules to implement this Rule and the reciprocal application of this Rule with respect to each free trade agreement concluded between Canada and the Central American Parties and Mexico and the Central American Parties, and
 - (ii) Each Party has entered into an agreement with Canada and Mexico to provide for textile verifications substantially similar to those set forth in Article 3.X (Customs Cooperation on Textile and Apparel Trade Matters), including document review and on-site visits, for materials produced in the territory of Canada or Mexico used to produce a good claimed to be an originating good under this Rule.
- (b) For the Dominican Republic, this Rule shall enter into force on the date on which this Rule enters into force for the Central American Parties and the United States, provided that the Dominican Republic has provided written notifications to the Central American Parties and the United States that it has amended its law, as necessary, and tariff schedule to implement this Rule, and has provided copies of the notifications to Canada and Mexico. For purposes of this Rule, operations performed in the Dominican Republic shall be considered as if the operations were performed in the territory of a non-Party beginning five years after the date this Agreement enters into force, unless:
- (i) the Dominican Republic has concluded free trade agreements with Canada and Mexico; and
 - (ii) the Dominican Republic, Canada, and Mexico have exchanged written notifications, and provided copies of the notifications to the Central American Parties and the United States, that they have amended their laws, as necessary, and tariff schedules
- to provide for the reciprocal application of this Rule.
- (b) The Parties may consult to consider whether this Rule should be extended to a country other than Canada and Mexico, subject to application of the conditions in (a) (i) (ii) of this footnote with respect to that country.

2. Such treatment shall be limited to goods imported into the territory of the United States from another Party or Parties up to the overall limit specified in paragraph 3. For purposes of determining the quantity of square meter equivalents (SME) charged against the overall limit, the conversion factors listed in the Correlation: U.S. Textile and Apparel Category System with the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States of America 2003, U.S. Department of Commerce, Office of Textiles and Apparel, or successor publication, will apply.

3. Subject to the sublimits set out below, the overall limit shall not exceed 100 million SME in the first calendar year that goods qualify for entry under this provision. If this provision enters into force after January 1 of that year, these limits shall be reduced in proportion to the number of full months of that year that have expired. Thereafter, during the term of this Agreement, the overall limit may increase up to a maximum of 200 million SME in a calendar year relative to the increase in imports into the territory of the United States from the other Parties of originating goods of Chapter 62 of the Harmonized System.

- (a) Not more than 45 million SME may be cotton or man-made fiber trousers and skirts in textile categories 342, 347, 348, 642, 647, or 648, excluding items identified in subparagraph (b).
- (b) Not more than 20 million SME may be cotton blue denim trousers within sub-headings 6203.42.aa or 6204.62.aa and blue denim skirts within subheading 6204.52.aa.
