What Is the National Archives and Records Administration?

*T*he National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) safeguards records of all three branches of the Federal Government. Our mission is to ensure that all Americans have ready access to essential evidence that documents the rights of American citizens, the actions of Government officials, and our national history.

NARA–Northeast Region (Pittsfield) was established in 1994 to provide greater access to microfilm copies of Federal records with high research value. The facility has over 85,000 rolls of microfilm publications created to allow access to information while preserving original documents from deterioration and damage from handling. Through its microfilm holdings, research services, public programs, and affiliation with other NARA regions, it is a national resource in a local setting.

Resources We Have...

Census Records

Microfilm holdings include the existing Federal population census schedules, taken every 10 years for all states from 1790 to 1930 (nearly all 1890 schedules were destroyed by fire in 1921). The facility also has Soundex indexes to the 1880, 1900, and 1920 censuses and partial Soundex indexes to the 1910 and 1930 censuses.

Military Service, Pension, and Bounty Land Warrant Records

Microfilm publications include the compiled military service records and pension and bounty land warrant application files of the Revolutionary War. In addition, there are indexes to compiled military service records of volunteer soldiers who served between 1784 and 1811; the War of 1812; the Mexican War; New England volunteers in the Civil War, 1861–65; the Spanish-American War of 1898; and the Philippine Insurrection, 1899–1902.

For the Regular Army, there are registers of enlistment, 1798–1914. There are also pension indexes for service in the regular military forces, 1815–61, and regulars and volunteers in the War of 1812, Mexican War, Indian Wars, and Civil War and later service. The World War I (1917–18) Selective Service draft registration cards for New England and New York as well as the historical registers of national homes for disabled volunteer soldiers for Togus, Maine (1866–1934), Bath, New York (1876–1934), and Leavenworth, Kansas (1885–1934), are also available.
