So, if the respondent says the person you are asking about completed elementary school, probe to determine what grade that represents.

Completing a given grade in school should be counted as the number of years it normally takes to complete that grade level of education, regardless of how many years it actually took the person to finish. This means that for persons who skipped or repeated grades in elementary school, you will enter the highest grade completed regardless of the number of years they were in school. This rule is true for elementary school through high school and is especially relevant to college. For example, if the person you are asking about is reported as having a 'Bachelor's degree', it should be coded as '16' (College - Fourth Year) regardless of how many years it took him/her to receive it. Code '17' (College - Five or More Years) should be entered only if the person has completed one or more years of graduate or professional school.

The law also creates new requirements for the information that must appear on the authorization form.

Hypertension often has no symptoms, though patients often complain of headaches. Treatment typically includes medications and lifestyle changes, such as weight loss, exercise, and dietary adjustments.

NOTE: Pregnancy-induced hypertension, also known as preeclampsia, can happen in late pregnancy and is characterized by persistently high blood pressure, swelling of the extremities, and protein in the urine.

Typically with pregnancy-induced hypertension, blood pressure returns to normal shortly after delivery. This type of pregnancy-induced hypertension should not be recorded as a Priority Condition.

Typically the taxpayer reports as an itemized deduction for Federal income taxes the amount of State (and Local) income tax withheld from their earnings during the year. Note that not all conditions with the word "poison" in them are the results of accidents or injuries; for example, poison oak, poison ivy, and ptomaine poisoning are diseases. Illnesses such as these, and other types of problems that arise due to a natural process in the body, such as any type of disease, should not be included.

These amounts can be found on form 1099-R.
- A 401(K) is a optional retirement plan supported by many companies. This money is taken out and invested before the employee's paycheck is taxed. The plan is set up by a qualified employer with the primary contributions being deposited by the employee. Often there is a company matching plan where they will also contribute a percentage of the money the employee contributed. While the 401(k) continues to grow, taxes will not be paid on it. When the employee withdraws the money at retirement, he/she will be taxed on the amount in the account. There is a penalty to remove the money prior to retirement age; however, many plans allow the employee to borrow money using the plan as collateral or remove the money without penalty in certain emergencies. Kidney dialysis is also referred to as hemodialysis, dialysis or renal dialysis.

Limited activity ability (for example, work activity) means that a person cannot do the role as long or in the same way as he/she did previous to the impairment or physical or mental health problem, but still does it to some extent (as opposed to not being able to do it at all).

Limited Activities: Difficulties that limit the child's ability to participate in the activities. We are only interested in difficulties that are associated with an impairment or a physical or mental health problem. Limited activity participation (for example, playing games) means that the child cannot do the activity as long or in the same way as he/she did previous to the impairment or physical or mental health problem, but still does it to some extent (as opposed to not being able to do it at all). If the child has had the impairment or physical or mental health problem since birth, limited activity participation means the child cannot do the activity as well as other children of his/her age, or as well as he/she might if he/she did not have the impairment or health problem.

Limited Attendance: Difficulties that limit the child's ability to attend school. We are only interested in difficulties that are associated with an impairment or a physical or mental health problem. If the child has had the impairment or physical or mental health problem since birth, limited school attendance means the child cannot attend school in the same way as other children of his/her age, or in the same way as he/she might if he/she did not have the impairment or health problem.

Limited in Participating: Difficulties that limit the person's ability to participate in the activities. We are only interested in difficulties that are associated with an impairment or a physical or mental health problem. Limited activity participation (for example, playing sports) means that a person cannot do the activity as long or in the same way as he/she did previous to the impairment or physical or mental health problem, but still does it to some extent (as opposed to not being able to do it at all).

Institutions include:

- Nursing Homes -- An institution that provides continuous nursing and other services to patients who are not acutely ill, but who need nursing and personal services as inpatients. A nursing home has permanent facilities and an organized professional staff.
- Other Long-Term Care Institutions (Excluding Community-Based Hospitals) -- An institution, other than a nursing home or a community based hospital, that provides long-term care. Long-term care is care for patients, regardless of age, who have chronic diseases or disabilities, and who require preventative, diagnostic, therapeutic, and supportive services over long periods of time. Living Together as Married (Partner Relationships): In addition to marriage, two people in a "partner" relationship who are not married are considered related. This applies both to partners of the same sex and of different sexes.

Because these are relationships between the household member and the Reference Person that the respondent may not have considered or offered, you may need to probe to determine if this category applies.

Example: If the respondent is the Reference Person and is female and reports the relationship of an unrelated male to be a 'friend', you would want to tactfully probe to determine if she considers him her boyfriend or living together as married partners instead of just friends. If she says they are living together as married, they would be considered related. If they are NOT living together as if they are married partners, they should be viewed as unrelated.

Living Within U.S. This includes all the states in the United States, including Hawaii and Alaska. It does not include the U.S. territories of Puerto Rico or Guam.

Living With This Family: Person is living with this family at the time of the current round interview. This is the person's usual place of residence where the person plans to live for the foreseeable future.

Locating Address: Address where the RU members actually live. This will not necessarily be the same as the address where mail their mail is received or as their legal or voting residence. It is the address you will use to locate the RU for the in-person interview. Try to obtain as complete an address as possible, verifying or obtaining house numbers and apartment numbers when necessary. If the locating address is a description (for example, brick house with green shutters and front porch), probe the respondent for the actual address, such as the one the post office uses to deliver mail to the home. Be sure to verify all parts of the address, including the zip code. If the respondent reports that there is a separate mailing address (for example, a post office box), tell the respondent that you will be asking for the mailing address at the end of the interview.

Long-Term Care in a Nursing Home (Health Insurance): Refers to an insurance policy that pays only for a nursing home or other long term care.

Long term care does not include living in a "life care center" even though long term care may be available as part of the living arrangement. If the respondent mentions a "life care center" as a policy, record that information using the code "91" (Other) and record the name "life care center" on the "Specify" line. This study does not consider this coverage to be health insurance.

Long-Term Care Insurance: Refers to an insurance policy that pays only for a nursing home or other long-term care. Long-term care does not include living in a "life care center" even though long-term care may be available as part of the living arrangement.

Long-Term Care Place that Provides Respite Care: Care received for only a limited time by severely disabled or impaired persons (e.g., quadriplegics, developmentally disabled children, or Alzheimer patients) in a long-term care place (e.g., a nursing home) or another person's home, as a way of providing an interval of rest or relief to family members who are the usual primary caregivers at home. This question is interested in eliciting only care received at long-term care places.

Long-Term Health Care Institution: An institution that provides long-term care. Long-term care is care for patients, regardless of age, who have chronic diseases or disabilities, and who require preventative, diagnostic, therapeutic, and supportive services over long periods of time. Long term care may call on a variety of health care professionals (such as physicians, nurses, physical therapists, and social workers) as well as non-professionals (family, others) and may be delivered in a health care or other institution

Looking for Work: Whether or not an RU member is looking for work is determined by their activities while they have been jobless. Activities which constitute an active job search are: registering at an employment office; visiting, telephoning, or writing applications to prospective employers; placing or answering advertisements for a job; and being "on-call" at a union hiring hall.

Low Lying Placenta (Placenta Previa): A placenta, or afterbirth, which attaches in the lower uterus, in the zone of dilation, so that it covers or adjoins the internal cervical opening. The most common symptom of low lying placenta is painless internal bleeding in the last trimester, particularly during the eighth month.

Low Income/Medically Needy: Persons who have sufficient income to cover routine daily expenses but are unable to pay for health care.

Low Option: With a low option choice, the premiums are typically much lower, however, the cost-sharing requirements are usually much higher. For example, the percentage the family must pay for services such as hospital stays, x-rays, outpatient visits, other diagnostic tests, etc., after the deductible is met, is typically higher, such as 25% versus 10% with a high option choice.

Made a Copayment: A co-payment is a fixed sum that a person pays for health services, regardless of the actual charge (the insurer pays the rest of the actual charge). For example, the person may pay $10 for each office visit, $75 for each day in the hospital, and $5 for each drug prescription.

If only one current business, that business is the main one. If more than one current business, the respondent should designate as main, the business he/she considers the most important or the one worked the most hours. The main business is not necessarily the business held the longest.

Main Job: A definite arrangement for regular work every week or month, for pay or other compensation (e.g., profits, anticipated profits, or pay in kind, such as room and board). A job may also be a formal arrangement with one or more employers to work on a continuing basis for a specified number of hours per week or days per month, but on an irregular schedule during the specified week or month. If only one current job, that job is the main one. If more than one current job, the respondent should designate as main, the job he/she considers the most important or the one worked the most hours. The main job is not necessarily the job held the longest.

Managed Indemnity Health Insurance Plan: A health insurance plan with the same features as traditional indemnity coverage except for limited implementation of cost containment or managed care concepts. For example, a managed indemnity plan may require approval for hospital admissions or second surgical opinions.

Because these are relationships between the household member and the Reference Person that the respondent may not have considered or offered, you may need to probe to determine if this category applies.

Example: If the respondent is the Reference Person and is female and reports the relationship of an unrelated male to be a 'friend', you would want to tactfully probe to determine if she considers him her boyfriend or living together as married partners instead of just friends. If she says they are living together as married, they would be considered related. If they are not living together as if they are married partners, they should be viewed as unrelated.

Partnership: An unincorporated business owned by two or more individuals, needing only a business license to operate.

Partnership or S Corporation (for tax Filing Purposes): Since partnerships and S corporations are not taxable entities, their net profit or loss is taxed, in general, directly to the members of the partnership or shareholders in the S corporation. Pension: Employment benefit which provides income payments to employees upon their retirement. Pension plans provide benefits to employees who have met specified criteria, normally age and/or length of service requirements. The two main types of pension plans are:

- defined benefit plans – retirees receive a fixed monthly payment from their former employer, determined by years of service and average earnings; and

Physician Assistant: A Physician Assistant (PA) is a medical person who provides health care services with the direction and supervision of a doctor of medicine (MD) or osteopathic physician (DO). Physician's Assistants train for several years in order to earn the certification to perform diagnostic, therapeutic, preventive, and health maintenance services. Not to be confused with non-medical persons who also "assist" the physician.

Policyholder: The person in whose name the policy is written or the primary insured person.

Policy Information: Booklets or any other printed materials that describe the amount and type of coverage included in a health insurance policy are considered policy information. For example, this material may be:

- A brochure or pamphlet summarizing a plan's benefits;
- A brochure or pamphlet that describes ALL the plans offered by an insurer (e.g., employer, union, federal government) (so that plans can be compared); or
- A copy of the actual health insurance policy.

We are interested in the type of information that an employer or union usually provides those with coverage under a health insurance plan.

Only collect policy booklets or information for the person who is the policyholder or primary insured person, unless the only booklets available are for a covered dependent.

Policy Number (Insurance Card): Enter the complete policy number of the health insurance plan as printed on the card. This may be identified on the card as the Group Number, the Employer Number, the Control Number, the Contract Number, the Policy Identification Number or some similar phrase. It is generally a unique number assigned by the insurance or managed care company to the organization sponsoring the insurance (such as a state program, an employer, a union, etc.).

POS - Point of Service Plan: There are two types of POS plans. One type is tied to an HMO, so that the POS option allows members/patients to use providers who are outside of the HMO panel and receive some reimbursements, usually at a much lower rate.

There are also POS plans that are not tied to an HMO. Similar to a PPO or an EPO, there is an arrangement between purchasers and providers to deliver health services to a group of employees/patients. An insurance carrier or employer negotiates discounted fees with providers in return for guaranteeing a certain volume of patients. Members/patients receive the most benefits when they use providers who are "in plan." They receive lower reimbursements when they use providers who are "out-of-plan." There is often a third and lowest level of reimbursement when members/patients use providers who have no arrangement with the plan at all. Providers are usually reimbursed by discounted fee-for-service.

- Some other training school after high school -- Secretarial school, mechanical or computer training school, nursing school where a college degree is not offered, and any other vocational, trade, or business school where a college degree is not offered. The person need not have obtained a high school diploma or equivalency to attend this type of school.

PPO - Preferred Provider Organization: An arrangement between purchasers and providers to deliver health services to a group of employees/patients. An insurance carrier or employer negotiates discounted fees with providers in return for guaranteeing a certain volume of patients. Members who use preferred providers receive a higher level of benefits than members who use out-of-plan providers.

Prayer or Spiritual Healing: The restoration or maintenance of physical, mental, emotional, or spiritual health through prayer, meditation, or drawing on the help of powers or beings from another realm.

For ROUND 1, this is likely to be the person who was the respondent for the NHIS interview and, in most cases, was the person contacted on the advance contact effort. For ROUNDS 2-5, the best respondent is the person who was respondent for the previous round's interview.

Preferred Provider: Any health care provider (for example, a physician, dentist, other health care professional, hospital, skilled nursing facility or other health care institution) who participates in a managed care plan's network. Members usually pay less (or nothing) for services from preferred providers. Preferred providers contract with a managed care plan to provide services on a discounted basis in return for increased patient volume.

Pregnancy Related (including prenatal care and delivery): Consultations and examinations relating to pregnancy, i.e., prenatal (before delivery) and postnatal (after delivery) care of the mother up to six weeks after childbirth. Prescription medicines do not include:

- medicines administered to the patient during the event in the office as part of the treatment (such as an antibiotic shot for an infection, a flu shot, or a medicine taken orally)
- diaphragms and IUD's (Intra-Uterine Devices);
- prescriptions for eyeglasses or contact lenses; or
- over-the-counter medications that do not have a written prescription from a doctor.

Some state laws require prescriptions for over-the-counter medicines. Sometimes physicians write a prescription for over-the-counter drugs such as aspirin. Therefore, consider any medicine a prescribed medicine if the respondent reports it as prescribed. If it is an over-the-counter drug, however, the prescription must be a written one to be filled by a pharmacist, not just an oral instruction. If in doubt, probe whether the patient got a written prescription to fill at a pharmacy. If there is still any doubt, report the medicine as a prescription medicine.

The plan is set up by a qualified employer with the primary contributions being deposited by the employee. Often there is a company matching plan where they will also contribute a percentage of the money the employee contributed. While the 401(k) continues to grow, taxes will not be paid on it. When the employee withdraws the money at retirement, he/she will be taxed on the amount in the
