

not think they had a future in the United States, but now it is possible for any person to succeed in life. Mr. Scott, I learned a great deal about you through that Supreme Court decision. You were treated unfairly and no one should ever have to go through an ordeal like you did. I leave you now with one of Voltaire's sayings, "All the citizens of a state cannot be equally powerful, but they may be equally free."

Forever thankful,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Teresa Thevary". The signature is written in black ink and is positioned to the left of a faint, diagonal dashed line that extends from the center of the page towards the bottom right.

Teresa Thevary