

Search for Census Bureau Information Quickly and Easily!

Now there's no need to know about Census Bureau programs or terminology when looking for information online. Search the Census Bureau's Web site for information in three ways:

1. Enter a keyword in the Search feature at the top of the homepage and hit "Go."
2. Go to Subjects A to Z at the top of the homepage and click on the first letter of your topic of interest.
3. Browse frequently asked questions and answers by selecting FAQs, then enter your topic choice and hit "Go."

No matter which method you use to search the Census Bureau's Web site, you'll find accurate answers to frequently asked questions such as:

- Where do I go to get international trade statistics?
- Does the Census Bureau have genealogical information?
- What correlation is there between the new North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) and the old Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) codes?
- How will 2010 Census information be used?
- What does the Census Bureau do when it is not counting the population?
- What materials do you have for school teachers and children?
