

Lucy Gomez-Feliciano, BFA

Health Organizer/Active Living by Design Coordinator
Logan Square Neighborhood Association

Lucy works and lives in Chicago's Logan Square Community, serving as the Lead Health Organizer and the Active Living by Design Coordinator for the Logan Square Neighborhood Association (LSNA). Lucy strives to build a healthier Logan Square by building community capacity. Recently completing an asset-based survey that will be used to promote a culture of "Auyda Mutua" (Mutal Help), focusing on physical activity.

She currently serves on the board of the Friends of the Bloomingdale Trail, a proposed 2.5 elevated trail/linear park to touch 4 inner city neighborhoods. She is also working closely with the Chicagoland Bicycle Federation to establish "Sunday Parkways" modeled after Bogotá's Cylcovia Program.

For over 20 years Lucy has been dedicated to building the minds, bodies and spirits of youth and families through work in community based organizations and schools. She earned a Bachelor of Fine Arts at the University of Illinois at Chicago with an emphasis in photography.