

Hierarchical Clustering

Hierarchical clustering allow user to create hierarchical clustering by using a number of different closeness computations, which includes Squared Chi-Squared Distance, Canberra distance, Eucilean distance, Cosine distance, Pearson correlation, and combination of Eucilean distance and the correlation. The clustering can be applied to samples or genes.

User may right click mouse over the cluster node to assign color to the cluster or flip the underlying two leafs.