Carrier Locator: Interstate Service Providers

This report lists 4,822 companies that provided interstate telecommunications service as of December 31, 1999. For each carrier, this report shows an address, a telephone number and the types of services that the carrier provided. This report is used by customers and other carriers to identify and locate sources of telecommunications service, by equipment vendors to identify potential customers, and by the FCC for various regulatory purposes.

This report was compiled using information from FCC Form 499-A Telecommunications Reporting Worksheets. Virtually all providers of telecommunications service must file a Form 499-A. These forms are not filed directly with the FCC but rather with the Universal Service Administrative Company (USAC), the data collection agent for the Form 499-A. The worksheets were due on April 1, 2000, but some carriers filed late. By September 5, 2000, the Form 499-A database contained contact information and revenue data for 4,822 filers. Carriers that filed after September 5 or that filed incomplete information may not be shown in the tables. In some instances the database reflects mergers and name changes subsequent to the April 1 filing date.

In the Form 499-A, each carrier is asked to select a single category that best describes its telecommunications business even though it may provide more than one type of service. Table 1 lists the categories available on the form and shows the number of carriers that selected each category. In some cases filer selections were changed based on supplemental information. Table 2 shows the number of carriers that reported revenue for each of five broad service categories. As many carriers report revenues in more than one service category, the numbers in Table 2 sum to more than the number of filing carriers. Table 2 also shows which filers reported carrier's carrier revenues and revenues from end users, and which filers contribute to the maintenance of universal service based on 1999 interstate end-user revenues.

Table 3 lists current interstate service providers, the mailing address of their corporate headquarters, a telephone number that can be used for customer inquiries, and the carrier type. Table 3 provides each filer's holding company or a common management company for filers that are run by the same, unaffiliated entity. Table 3 also indicates whether the company reported local service, mobile service, pay telephone, operator and card service, other toll service, carrier's carrier or end-user revenues. Finally, Table 3 shows whether the filer contributes to the maintenance of universal service based on 1999 interstate end-user revenues. The Commission's rules require that the Form 499-A data collection agent keep confidential all revenue information contained in the Form 499-A worksheets. Many carriers have requested that the reported revenue amounts be accorded proprietary treatment. Consequently, the amount of revenue reported by each carrier for 1999 is not published.

Table 3 lists all filers alphabetically by legal name. Form 499-A filers are instructed to provide their legal name, the name of any management company that actually runs their operation, the name of any affiliated holding company, and also the predominant name under which they provide telecommunications service. All of the information contained in Table 3, as well as the principal trade name, are included in a single LOTUS spreadsheet that can be downloaded from the FCC-State Link internet site at <http://www.fcc.gov/ccb/stats>.

The information contained in the tables reflects the information reported by the filers, with some corrections made by the Form 499-A data collection agent and FCC staff. Please contact the Form 499-A data collection agent, at (973) 560-4400 to make corrections or to identify carriers that did not file, but should have done so.
