

Since Hurricane Katrina hit, the FCC has received many questions and concerns. We have written the attached two Consumer Advisories to provide valuable information on two of the most prevalent concerns:

* To help ensure that consumers continue to have access to telecommunications services necessary the FCC is providing an estimated $211 million in Universal Service Fund support to Hurricane Katrina victims.

<http://www.fcc.gov/cgb/consumerfacts/KatrinaTelephone.html>

* Our Wireless advisory responds to the hundreds of questions from victims, relatives, and other concerned Americans about placing and receiving phone calls, restoration of communications networks, bills, and service contracts, among other issues.

<http://www.fcc.gov/cgb/consumerfacts/KatrinaWireless.html>

Please share these Advisories with your family, friends, co-workers, and constituencies.