April 15, 2009

I support reinstating the original UpTick rule as well as one of the Circuit Breaker rules. With both rules in place, the market would run a lot smoother.

Please consider implementing the original UpTick rule asap if only temporarily until the public comment period is over.

If there is no rule in place when the Stress Test results are made public, there will be no stopping the shorts from raiding banks.

The SEC should work in conjunction with the WH administration and Treasury, not after the horse has left the barn!

This poll was taken today on a CNBC website.

Do you think results from the banking stress tests should mostly be made public, or kept private? * 321 responses

Public, let the pieces fall where they may.
80%

Private, otherwise a bank that performs badly could be toast.
20%

John Carter