Dear Ms. Hunt:

Please tell our present administration (George Bush, etc.) not to move forward with their guidance on cost-benefit analysis (known as the OMB Draft Guidelines for the Conduct of Regulatory Analysis and the Format of Accounting Statements). As a matter of principle, one life should not be valued more than another. I'm concerned that this analysis could water down anti-pollution regulations and harm the health of senior citizens. I strongly urge the current administration to prevent this terrible injustice to our older citizens. Surely his father's and mother's lives have been rich and full enough to remind him that seniors are just as worthwhile as anyone else of any other age. I'm appalled that he could have even voiced such an opinion! Deborah Carter Day, a resident of Michigan.
