Theodore Roosevelt's Maltese Cross Cabin

The Maltese Cross Cabin belonged to President Theodore Roosevelt when he actively ranched in the North Dakota Badlands. It was built in the winter of 1883-1884 by his two ranch managers. Originally the cabin was located seven miles south of Medora, ND. It stands today next to the South Unit Visitor Center in Theodore Roosevelt National Park.

Fold

Base of Cabin
Use cardboard or stiff paper (text facing down)

Maltese Cross Ranch Brand

Cut in order to fold =>

<= Cut in order to fold

Fold

Fold

Fold

Fold

Fold

Fold

Fold back behind wall

Fold Under

Fold Under

Fold Under

Fold Under

Fold Under

Color and Build the Maltese Cross Cabin!