

Presentations for BEA Advisory Committee Meeting

14 May 2004

BEA Data Detail New Guidelines

- Requests for unpublished supplementary detail received in the past were reviewed on an individual basis; requests honored conditioned on resource costs.
- Information Quality Guidelines placed a standard of quality on disseminated information that necessitated a change in practice.
- Two major concerns: Quality of the information and equal access.
- Striving for consistency of principles across programs while allowing for variations in practice to suit needs of users.
- NIWD publishes underlying detail tables that supplement routinely provided tables.
- International publishes estimates that are frequently requested
- Industrial Economics Division will now provide supplemental data as well. Some information will be posted immediately and a plan for future information is also presented. (Will provide example of web page with the new data and plans)
