Semiannual Report to Congress No. 43

U.S. Department of Education Office of Inspector General

Semiannual Report to Congress

No. 43

April 1 — September 30, 2001

Honorable Roderick R. Paige Secretary of Education Washington, DC 20202

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I am pleased to submit to you, in accordance with the Inspector General Act of 1978 (Public Law 95-452, as amended, section 5(b)), this semiannual report on the activities of the Department's Office of Inspector General (OIG) for the six-month period ending September 30, 2001.

The enclosed report highlights our most significant work of the period, with particular focus on the areas of financial management and internal controls, information technology security, and student financial assistance. These areas are also included in the work of the Department's Management Improvement Team. We followed up on our internal control work, and testified twice about the results of that work. Our review of the Department's implementation of the Government Information Security Review Act identified a number of significant deficiencies in the agency-wide and principal office security plans. The Department is working to resolve our recommendations. Our investigations into fraud in the student financial assistance programs resulted in significant convictions, sentencings, and monetary restitutions.

The Inspector General Act requires you to transmit this report within 30 days to the appropriate congressional committees and subcommittees, together with a report containing any comments you wish to make. Your report should also include the statistical tables specified in section 5(b)(2) and (3), and a statement with respect to audit reports on which management decisions have been made, but final action has not been taken, as specified in section 5(b)(4).

We are committed to carrying out our legislative mandate to identify fraud, waste, and abuse, and to recommend appropriate corrective actions. I look forward to continuing to work together with you and Department managers to ensure that Department of Education programs and operations serve the nation's students and taxpayers with efficiency, effectiveness, and integrity.

Sincerely,

Lorraine Lewis

Inspector General's MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

We are pleased to provide this semiannual report on the accomplishments of the Office of Inspector General (OIG), U.S. Department of Education, from April 1, 2001 through September 30, 2001. During this period, we issued 53 audit and inspection reports and memoranda, closed 116 investigations, and testified before congressional committees three times. Our testimony covered financial management and internal controls, distance education, and incentive compensation ban subjects.

My vision for OIG is set forth in our mission statement and is reflected in the work we do. Our mission statement commits us to promote the efficiency, effectiveness, and integrity of the Department's programs and operations.

We also established core values of excellence, accountability, and integrity. These values form the foundation of our mission and our work. Our mission and values statements may be found on the OIG website, at http://www.ed.gov/offices/OIG/.

Our independent oversight is vital to ensure integrity and improve the operation of education programs as the amount of taxpayer dollars committed to the Department's stewardship increases. Our workplan for 2002-2003 provides detailed information on our future initiatives, and is at http://www.ed.gov/offices/OIG/misc/wp2002.pdf.

In this report, we focus on three issues of critical importance to the Department: financial management and internal controls, information technology security, and student financial assistance. In financial management and internal controls, we continue to work in the area of improper payments. We and the Department discussed the importance of this issue recently in letters to Senators Lieberman and Thompson.

These three issues were also a focus of the Secretary's Management Improvement Team (MIT). OIG's work formed the basis of most of the outstanding recommendations the MIT reviewed. OIG provided timely suggestions for the Secretary's Blueprint for Management Excellence and Action Plan, issued on October 30.

We look forward to continuing to work with the Congress and the Secretary on these three issues and other management challenges facing the Department.

Lorraine Lewis

ACTIVITIES AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS

The Office of Inspector General (OIG), for the period April 1 to September 30, 2001, continued its work to improve the programs and operations of the Department of Education (the Department, or ED) and to protect their integrity. In particular, we focused on areas in which we have identified long-standing weaknesses – financial management and internal controls, information technology (IT) security, and the student financial assistance programs.

In response to Congressional, OIG and General Accounting Office (GAO) concerns about the management of the Department, the Secretary this period established a Management Improvement Team (MIT) to, among other things, identify and close as many short-term management improvement recommendations as possible. These are largely OIG recommendations that we identified in our audit, inspection, and investigation work. The Secretary's report, "Blueprint for Management Excellence," may be found at http://www.ed.gov/inits/mit/blueprint.pdf.

Among the Department problems identified by the MIT are the OIG focus areas listed above. We are pleased to be contributing to this effort with our extensive recommendations for improvement, by working with the team to see that these recommendations are resolved, and by detailing two OIG staff members to the team. The Deputy Inspector General, on detail to the Department, leads the MIT.

Below, we highlight our most significant activities during this reporting period, with particular emphasis on our work related to the Department's financial management and internal controls, IT security, and the student financial assistance programs. You may find more detailed descriptions of our activities on our Web site, at http://www.ed.gov/offices/OIG.

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT AND INTERNAL CONTROLS

OIG audits, inspections, and investigations have identified long-standing deficiencies in the Department's internal controls and financial management. In testimony on two occasions this period before the House Subcommittee on Select Education, Committee on Education and the Workforce, the Inspector General and GAO discussed the Department's progress and continued challenges as it seeks to improve its financial management and internal controls. The Inspector General's statements are available on the OIG website, at http://www.ed.gov/offices/OIG/AuditRpts/stmt042001.pdf and http://www.ed.gov/offices/OIG/AuditRpts/stmt072001.pdf.

Disbursement Process

We contracted this period with Ernst & Young, LLP for reviews of the Department's controls over payment systems and processes for three programs. The reviews found that the programs needed better data integrity controls to reduce the risk of erroneous payments. The programs were in the offices of Elementary and Secondary Education (Impact Aid), Educational Research and Improvement, and Vocational and Adult Education. The Department concurred with the findings and agreed to act on the recommendations.

In cooperation with the Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO) and Student Financial Assistance (SFA), Ernst &Young developed business maps documenting the workflow and key internal controls for various disbursement processes. These maps will assist management in continually assessing and evaluating its internal controls to meet the challenges of an everchanging environment.

We began to review the resolution and recovery of duplicate payments after the Department identified several instances of duplicate payments for fiscal years 1998, 1999 and 2000. Our work revealed that there are several Department payment methods. These payment systems and processes are critical elements in the financial management of the Department, and we will continue to evaluate the Department's progress in eliminating duplicate payments and other types of improper payments. We and the Department recently discussed the importance of this issue in letters to Senators Lieberman and Thompson.

Grants Administration and Payment System

We conducted a review of the Department's Grants Administration and Payment System (GAPS) and found that 648 records applicable to the period May 1998 through October 2000 were missing. GAPS, a component of the Department's core financial system, supports grant planning and award management of Department programs, including discretionary and formula grants. The missing records are needed to identify changes made to bank accounts, who made the changes, and when the changes were made. They are critical to ensuring database integrity and management control. As a result of our findings, OCFO has begun efforts to determine why the records are missing. ("Missing Records in the Grants Administration and Payment System," Action Memorandum FIN-01-01, September 25, 2001.)

Purchase Cards and Third-Party Drafts

We issued a follow-up report on the Department's internal control over purchase cards. We found that while the Department has made some improvement, more work is necessary. We had found significant supervisory and procedural weaknesses in previous reviews of internal controls over the purchase card and third-party draft programs (see Semiannual Report No. 42, page 6). The Department has stopped using third-party drafts. We are continuing our review of the Department's controls over purchase cards. GAO also continues to look in this area. ("Follow-up Review of Internal Control Over Purchase Cards," ED-OIG/A&I 2001-04, September 28, 2001.)

Contracting

We reviewed the management of government property by two Department contractors, and identified similar internal control weaknesses at both. Internal controls to ensure the integrity and proper management of Department funds are critical, not only in the Department but also in the operations of contractors who manage Department property and funds.

➤ CONTROLS OVER GOVERNMENT-FURNISHED PROPERTY

Our reviews disclosed significant supervisory and procedural weaknesses in the management of government property. We found that the contractors did not properly identify the property and did not comply with recordkeeping, reporting, or inventory requirements. Internal controls to ensure the integrity and proper management of Department funds are critical not only within the Department, but also within the operations of contractors. Our audits did not disclose any fraud. We recommended several corrective actions. Both contractors generally agreed with our findings. ("Audit of Controls over Government Property Furnished to Affiliated Computer Services, Inc.," ED-OIG/A19-B0004, April 20, 2001 and "Controls over Government Property Managed by Raytheon Systems Company," ED-OIG/A19-B0005, September 19, 2001.)

> Investigations

OIG investigations of Department contractors and employees resulted in a number of criminal prosecutions. Our work led to a 19-count indictment of 11 individuals for defrauding the Department of $634,000 of unworked overtime and $300,000 in equipment kept for personal use. Our work in this case resulted in seven guilty pleas in prior reporting periods (Semiannual Report No. 41, page 4 and Semiannual Report No. 42, page 17).

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SECURITY

IT security has been and remains a significant management challenge for the Department, and we continue to dedicate significant audit resources to identify and report on vulnerabilities in its IT systems. Our audit work, and that of GAO, has been a major factor in the Department's identification of IT security as a material weakness in its annual Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act reports since fiscal year 1999. In addition, Ernst & Young identified controls surrounding IT systems as a material weakness in its Report on Internal Controls for Fiscal Year 2000 Financial Statement Audit.

Government Information Security Reform Act

Our audit of the Department's implementation of the Government Information Security Reform Act (GISRA) found that the Department is not in full compliance with the Act's requirements for agency-wide information security programs. We made 15 recommendations based on our audit findings.

GISRA requires agency-wide information security programs to include periodic risk assessments, policies, and procedures to reduce security risks to an acceptable level. It further requires that agencies implement security awareness and training, testing of the effectiveness of security policies and procedures, a process for correcting any significant deficiencies, and procedures for handling security incidents. Agency program officials must review, at least annually, each information security program. GISRA also requires the agency's Inspector General to perform an independent evaluation of the agency's information security program and practices in fiscal years 2001 and 2002.

We identified significant deficiencies in the agency-wide and principal office security plans, programs, and practices. We also identified major weaknesses in management, operational, and technical controls. Our findings confirm that principal offices are not effective in protecting critical resources from unauthorized access or modification, although the Department has made improvements. The Department advised us that it has developed Plans of Action and Milestones to address our findings, to be submitted to the Office of Management and Budget. ("Department of Education's Implementation of GISRA," ED-OIG/A11-B0007, September 7, 2001.)

STUDENT FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

OIG work during the period continued to show the student financial assistance programs as one of the top management challenges facing the Department. One of the Secretary's goals is to remove these programs from the General Accounting Office's High Risk List. Our work during the period revealed areas of concern similar to those of prior periods.

Financial Responsibility

Our review of SFA's enforcement of the Higher Education Act's (HEA) institutional financial responsibility requirements found that SFA has not established sufficient controls and procedures to ensure that it enforces the requirements in a consistent and timely manner. Institutions must meet the HEA's financial responsibility requirements to participate in the student financial assistance programs. We recommended that the Chief Operating Officer for SFA develop and implement policies, procedures, and contract modifications to improve management controls and procedures for enforcing the financial responsibility regulations. SFA concurred with our findings, and advised us that they had previously identified some weaknesses and had begun actions to correct them. ("Student Financial Assistance Enforcement of the Institutional Financial Responsibility Regulations," ED-OIG/A09-A0018, September 28, 2001.)

Course-Length Requirements

We completed audits on course-length requirements at three schools. We found that the schools could not demonstrate compliance with the required number of instructional hours to meet the statutory definition of an academic year. We recommended that William Penn University return $950,593 in Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) funds to lenders and $239,242 in Pell Grant funds to the Department. We also recommended that Olivet Nazarene University return to lenders $434,500 in FFEL funds. Our recommendation for monetary recovery from Indiana Wesleyan University concerned incentive compensation, as described in the section below. The universities did not agree with our conclusions and recommendations. These audits are pending resolution. ("Audit of Course Length at William Penn University," ED-OIG/A07-B0001, September 28, 2001; "Audit of Course Length at Indiana Wesleyan University," ED-OIG/A05-B0004, September 28, 2001; "Audit of Course Length at Olivet Nazarene University," ED-OIG/A05-B0014, September 28, 2001.)

In testimony this period before the House Subcommittee on 21st Century Competitiveness, Committee on Education and the Workforce, the Inspector General urged Congress to provide a statutory definition of instruction. A definition will help assure that all students receive an appropriate amount of instruction, through traditional as well as non-traditional methods, to justify the amount of student financial assistance funds awarded. The Inspector General's statement is available at http://www.ed.gov/offices/OIG/AuditRpts/stmt062001.pdf.

Incentive Compensation

Our audits at three schools disclosed violations of the HEA's incentive compensation provision, which prohibits institutions from paying individuals or organizations based on their success in enrolling students or obtaining student financial aid for the school. In each case, we found the school paid the Institute of Professional Development a percentage of tuition for all students enrolled in certain of its programs. In our largest recommendation for monetary recovery in this area this period, we recommended that Indiana Wesleyan University return $30,022,551 in FFEL funds to lenders. The schools did not agree with our conclusions and recommendations. These audits are pending resolution. ("Audit of Commissioned Sales at Olivet Nazarene University," ED-OIG/A05-A0030, May 21, 2001; "Audit of Commissioned Sales and Course Length at Indiana Wesleyan University," ED-OIG/A05-B0004, September 28, 2001; "Audit of Commissioned Sales at William Penn University," ED-OIG/A07-90035, May 15, 2001.)

We are concerned that payments based on success in securing student enrollment create incentives to engage in misrepresentation or other improper recruiting tactics, and recommend that a complete ban on improper incentives is the most effective way to protect students. The Inspector General also addressed incentive compensation in the testimony cited above ("Course-Length Requirements").

Institutional and Recipient Fraud

OIG investigations continued to result in prosecution of individuals who defraud the student financial assistance programs. These individuals engaged in various types of fraud, including fraud involving loan defaults and collections and submission of Pell Grant applications for non-existent or ineligible students. This period we also saw significant results in our cases against financial aid preparers. Highlights of our work follow.

FRAUD INVOLVING LOAN DEFAULTS/COLLECTIONS

OIG cases against school officials and others who attempted to defraud the Department's loan programs with loan fraud schemes led to three indictments, a sentencing, and civil settlements. Two examples follow.

- A Maryland attorney devised a scheme to collect monies from borrowers, but did not forward all of the funds he collected to the guaranty agencies. He was sentenced to four months in a halfway house, four months home detention and two years of supervised probation, and was ordered to pay $16,655 in restitution.
- A proprietary school and a default management company operating in Oklahoma and Kansas entered into civil settlements in which they agreed to pay the Department a total of $475,000. The case involved allegations that employees at both institutions submitted fraudulent forbearance forms to lenders, which had the effect of lowering the schools' cohort default rates, thereby preserving their participation in student loan programs.

► ELIGIBILITY FRAUD

OIG agents uncovered eligibility fraud schemes that led to sentencings for the school owners and officials who perpetrated them. Examples include the following.

- The co-owner of a two-campus Texas proprietary school was sentenced to 37 months incarceration and ordered to pay restitution of $1,105,789 for disbursing student financial assistance funds to students at one of the campuses before the Department had approved its participation in the student financial assistance programs.
- The former admissions representative/director at a Missouri school was the fourth official from that school to be sentenced for participating in a conspiracy to submit fraudulent Pell Grant applications and supporting documentation to obtain student financial assistance funds. The school's high default rate had caused it to lose eligibility to participate in the Guaranteed Student Loan program several years before.
- The president of a Florida community college was sentenced to 46 months in prison for her role in a scheme to enroll elderly clients in Pell-eligible courses that offered only exercise and handcrafts. (See Semiannual Report No. 42, pages 14-15 for a report on four guilty pleas in this case.)

The owner of a Midwest career college was sentenced to 51 months incarceration for instructing employees to falsely report that ineligible students admitted to the school were eligible for student aid. (See Semiannual Report No. 41, page 11, for additional information on this case.)

> Preparer Fraud

OIG investigations continue to identify individuals, known as student aid "preparers," who assist parents in filling out false financial aid forms enabling them to fraudulently obtain student financial assistance funds for their children. This period, five preparers, five parents and two students pled guilty or were sentenced in the Northern District of Illinois for participating in such schemes. Fines, restitutions and civil settlements resulting from preparer cases totaled more than $500,000.

OTHER SIGNIFICANT ACTIVITIES

Elementary, Secondary, and Other Education Programs

Our work relating to elementary, secondary and other education programs disclosed findings relating to management controls over Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) performance data, monitoring, and adult education.

▶ CONTROLS OVER DATA COLLECTION AND REPORTING

Reviewing grantees' compliance with Government Performance and Results Act (GPRA) requirements is an ongoing priority for OIG. The integrity of IDEA, Part B state-reported data is of particular importance because the Department relies on it to provide Congress an objective and accurate measure of the success of its special education programs, as required under GPRA.

Our audits at the Michigan and Kansas state departments of education found that both need to take additional steps to improve management controls over the collection and reporting of data. Both Michigan and Kansas generally agreed with our findings and have already taken steps to correct some of the deficiencies. We also issued an information memorandum to the Department on our GPRA/IDEA reviews. The memorandum did not require a response. ("Michigan Department of Education Management Controls over IDEA," ED-OIG/A05-A0031, September 21, 2001; "Kansas State Department of Education, Management Controls Over IDEA, Part B – Special Education Performance Data," ED-OIG/A07-A0020, July 20, 2001; State and Local Information Memorandum No. 01-02, September 28, 2001.)

> VIRGIN ISLANDS

We issued two reports on the continuing lack of adequate management controls in the Virgin Islands Department of Education (VIDE). We determined that the Department cannot rely on the financial management and personnel practices used by the Virgin Islands government in administering salary costs for the IDEA, Part B programs. VIDE generally concurred with our findings and recommendations. ("Audit of the Virgin Islands Department of Education, Special Education Payroll," ED-OIG/A04-B0013, July 17, 2001; "The Virgin Islands Government Lacks Adequate Management Controls Over the Administration of Its IDEA, Part B Grant Program Salary Costs," ED-OIG/A04-A0015, July 27, 2001.)

This work follows our previous work at VIDE. Last period, we alerted the Department to concerns we identified during our ongoing audit of VIDE's compliance with IDEA, Part B (Semiannual Report No. 41, page 10). We remain concerned about VIDE's administration of Department programs and the progress being made to correct deficiencies. We continue to meet with Department and interagency teams to discuss problems in the Virgin Islands.

> PUERTO RICO DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Our review of the Puerto Rico Department of Education's (PRDE) administration of contracts under the Title I programs found PRDE's cash management practices inadequate and its internal controls ineffective to administer the programs. We recommended that the Department require PRDE to establish adequate controls over its procurement procedures.

We continue to be concerned about PRDE's administration of Department programs. We have been meeting with Department and PRDE officials to discuss deficiencies identified in OIG audits and single audits performed under the Single Audit Act of 1984, which established uniform entity-wide audit requirements for state and local governments receiving federal financial assistance. This period we met with Departmental, PRDE, and Puerto Rico Governor's Office officials to discuss issues regarding this audit and one we did last period on PRDE Title I contracts. Puerto Rico officials were in general agreement with our findings. ("Puerto Rico Department of Education Did Not Administer Properly Title I Contracts with National School Services of Puerto Rico for the 1999/2000 and 2000/2001 School Years," ED-OIG/A02-B0012, September 2001.)

> INVESTIGATIONS RELATING TO ADULT EDUCATION

OIG investigative efforts resulted in indictments of two community-based organizations that received adult education funds and allegedly submitted false claims to the Department. Both received Department funds through the California Department of Education to provide adult education courses, including courses in adult basic education, English as a Second Language (ESL), and ESL-citizenship. The total amount of Department funds at risk in these cases is an estimated $3,938,000.

Nonfederal Audit Activities

Participants in Department programs are required to submit annual financial statements and to comply with audits performed by independent public accountants (IPAs). In accordance with the Inspector General Act's direction to assure that work performed by nonfederal auditors complies with federal government auditing standards, we publish audit guidance specific to Department programs to assist IPAs in performing these audits.

We performed 48 quality control reviews of audits by 42 different IPAs. Of these, 30 were acceptable, 14 were technically deficient, and 4 were substandard. We also referred four IPAs to the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and/or the appropriate State Board of Accountancy for possible disciplinary action: two for substandard work reported in a prior semiannual report, and two because they could not provide working papers for our review.
