C. Senior Corps

Terms and Definitions for Senior Corps

The terms used specifically within this section profiling the three Senior Corps programs are defined below.

Foster Grandparent Program (FGP). Since 1965, Foster Grandparents have provided valuable aid to children and youth with exceptional needs. Foster Grandparents serve an average of 20 hours a week and receive stipends set at $2.65 an hour. They must be age 60 or above and must have incomes at or below 125 percent of poverty to receive the stipend. In addition to the stipend, Foster Grandparents receive accident, liability, and automobile insurance coverage, if needed, during their assignments.

Project. The Senior Corps grantee or sponsor in a community that hosts and manages Senior Corps volunteers.

RSVP. The RSVP program matches Americans age 55 and over who are willing to help with local problems in their communities. RSVP volunteers choose how and where they want to serve, and they determine how many hours a week they serve. RSVP volunteers do not receive a stipend, but their project may reimburse them for some of the costs associated with their service activities.

Senior Corps. Through the National Senior Service Corps, more than half a million Americans age 55 and older share their time and talents to help solve local problems. Seniors serve as Foster Grandparents, who work one-on-one with young people with special needs; as Senior Companions, who help other seniors live independently in their homes; and with the RSVP program, to meet a wide range of community needs.

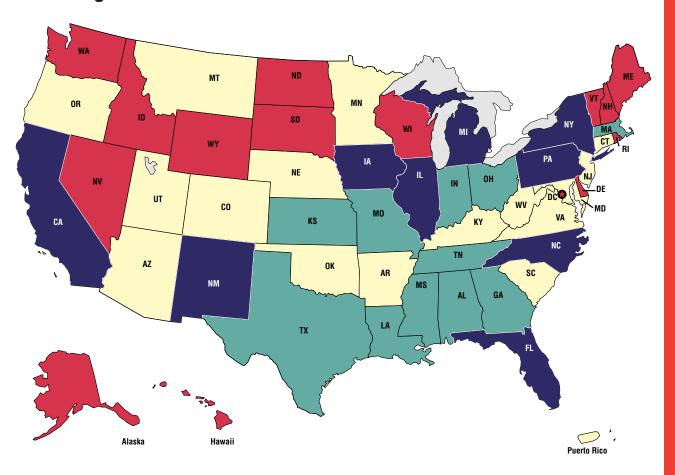

Senior Companion Program (SCP). Senior Companions assist frail, homebound individuals (most of them elderly) who have difficulties with daily living tasks. Senior Companions help these individuals retain their dignity and their independence by assisting them with chores such as bill paying, buying groceries, and finding transportation to medical appointments. The SCP, like the Foster Grandparent Program, provides low-income persons age 60 and over the opportunity to serve those in need. Senior Companions receive stipends set at $2.65 an hour and serve an average of 20 hours a week. In addition to the stipend, Senior Companions receive accident, liability, and automobile insurance coverage, if needed, during their assignments.

Volunteer Stations. Community organizations that serve as the base of operations for Senior Corps volunteers. Stations sign Memoranda of Agreement with Senior Corps grantees, but do not receive money from grantees.
