The Proposal

The FAA is considering an amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to establish Class E airspace at Nicholasville, KY. Class E airspace designations for airspace areas extending upward from 700 feet or more above the surface of the earth are published in Paragraph 6005 of FAA Order 7400.9N, dated September 1, 2005, and effective September 16, 2005, which is incorporated by reference in 14 CFR 71.1. The Class E airspace designation listed in this document would be published subsequently in the Order.

The FAA has determined that this proposed regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore, (1) is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a Regulatory Evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule, when promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Docket No. OST-2005-23194

RIN 2105-AD56

Price Advertising

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary (OST), U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT).

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM).

SUMMARY: The Department is considering amending its rule on price advertising, and it is seeking comment on several options. Under the existing rule, the Department considers any advertisement that states a price for air transportation that is not the total price the consumer will pay to be unfair or deceptive in violation of the statute under which this provision was adopted in 1984. Although it has not amended the codified rule, in practice the Department has long allowed an exception to it for certain taxes, fees, and other charges that are imposed by a government entity. As a matter of prosecutorial discretion, the Department does not take enforcement action against any advertisement that omits these charges from the quoted fare, provided that the charges are collected on a per-passenger basis and are not ad valorem in nature, and provided further that the advertisement clearly indicates the existence and amount of these charges so that consumers can easily calculate the total fare. The Department has consistently prohibited sellers of air transportation from breaking out other cost elements, such as fuel surcharges, from the advertised fare. Although the Department has denied a recent request to allow separate listing of the fuel surcharges that carriers are adopting in response to soaring fuel costs, the Department has also decided that the time is ripe after 21 years of marketing innovations for a reexamination of the fare-advertising rule and its long-time enforcement policy. Therefore, the Department is asking interested persons to comment on four alternative options: Maintain the current practice either with or without codifying all of its elements in the rule; end the exception for government-imposed charges and enforce the rule as written; revise the rule to eliminate most or all requirements for airfare advertisements but to require that consumers be apprised of the total purchase price before the purchase is made; or eliminate the full-fare advertising rule in its entirety.

DATES: Comments must be received by February 13, 2006. The Department will consider late-filed comments to the extent practicable.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Background

The Department of Transportation requires generally that in advertisements of air transportation, the price advertised must be the full price that the consumer will pay. Our Statements of General Policy, codified in 14 CFR part 399, include a rule on price advertising adopted by our predecessor agency, the Civil Aeronautics Board, in December of 1984. The rule states that the Department considers any advertisement of passenger air transportation, a tour, or a tour component that states a price that is not the entire price the consumer must pay to be an unfair or deceptive practice. Our rules governing public charters, codified in 14 CFR part 380, contain an analogous requirement for charter air transportation.

Both rules were adopted pursuant to 49 U.S.C. section 41712 (formerly section 411 of the Federal Aviation Act), which empowers the Department to prohibit unfair and deceptive practices and unfair methods of competition in air transportation and its sale. Specifically, this provision provides among other things that the Department may investigate and decide whether an air carrier, foreign air carrier, or ticket agent is or has been engaging in an unfair or deceptive practice or an unfair method of competition in air transportation or its sale and that if, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, the Department finds in the affirmative, it may order the offending party to stop the conduct at issue. Violations of regulations adopted pursuant to section 41712 are also violations of the statute itself and may incur civil penalties, see 49 U.S.C. 46301(a)(7).
