RE: Proposal to Change Loan Classification
 FIL-22-2005
 March 28, 2005

Union Bank & Trust Company is not in agreement with the proposal to change Loan Classification. We feel that our current system of “special mention”, “substandard” and “doubtful” is one all banks understand as well as it is terminology used and understood by our regulators and auditors. If this change was implemented it would cause vast confusion among our industry. In addition the new system would be more complex and extremely burdensome to our bank and to all smaller institutions.

Again, we are against this proposed change and ask that you not implement this new system.

Sincerely,

Zach McClendon
Chairman, President and CEO
