

Subject: Question on Small Entity Status

Is the license of software (e.g., shrink wrap license) to a large entity, which might include an invention for which a patent application is pending, enough to change the small entity status to large entity?