

June 8, 2006

To the Securities and Exchange Commission:

EDGAR Online is fully supportive of the actions taken by Chairman Cox and the SEC to bring the power of interactive data to investors. A combination of strong taxonomy management and the right XBRL tools and technology can bring enormous benefits in transparency and financial understanding to both the professional and individual investor communities. Having processed over 10,000 US and ADR company financial statements into XBRL for inclusion in our information products, we have been able to demonstrate the direct benefits that can be derived from financial data that is machine readable, interactive and comparable across companies industries and borders. This "revolution", as it was described by Chairman Cox in a recent speech, can help alleviate the pain and frustration felt by anyone attempting to understand financial performance as it relates to their own investments and future financial security.

Sincerely,

Susan Strausberg
President and CEO
EDGAR Online, Inc.