Dear Federal Reserve Board Director:

Banks should simply not be allowed to enroll their customers without their permission in systems that approve overdrafts without warning, and that artificially increase the number of $35 fees the banks can charge for a shortfall. This practice is out of control. It is costing working people big chunks of their hard-earned income.

The "gotcha" practices that banks are using to inflate overdraft fees are not acceptable. Tell the Fed you want opt-in, and if you have been burned by banks' unfair overdraft practices, tell them your story.

I support the proposed requirement that would require financial institutions to obtain consumers' affirmative consent (or opt-in) before any overdraft fees or charges may be imposed on consumers' accounts.

Banks should get explicit permission before enrolling customers in the most expensive overdraft system, automatically covering overdrafts and charging high fees, and should be stopped from using unfair practices to increase their overdraft fees.

Sincerely,

Silvia Hall
