I support the opt-in option.

I'm sick of these fees, as I have experienced the domino effects of ODP fees as there deplete your account.

The greed off the banking system is out of control with this so called "customer support".

We give these banks our money and pay to much already in fees as they build lavish banks on every street corner, prize only the wealthy with freebies, and ask the very hand that feeds them to bail them out when they make a "mistake".

The banks need more oversight!

They have to much power and money and it's not fair to hard working people trying to make ends meet.

Thank you,

Sean
