LAW DAY IN D.C.

The D.C. Courts is hosting an open house on Law Day for residents to learn more about the D.C. judicial system. The free event will feature a judicial town hall meeting with judges taking questions from the audience, a job fair, free legal assistance and student mock trials. The D.C. Courts will also hold workshops such as “Bankruptcy and Debt Management,” “I’m Not Rich, Why Do I Need a Will?”, child support, elder abuse and guardianship issues. On display will be The Wills Project — an exhibit of 13 wills of famous Washingtonians, including Frederick Douglass and several U.S. presidents. The open house is from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday at the Moutrie Courthouse and the newly renovated Historic Courthouse, 400
