Benefits Administration Letter

Number: 96-712

Date: December 13, 1996

SUBJECT: Retirement Information and Materials Available from the OPM Home Page on the World Wide Web.

PURPOSE This letter announces that the Office of Personnel Management has made various retirement-related materials available on the World Wide Web (WWW).

BACKGROUND Some retirement-related materials have been published on the WWW to assist agencies and employees who have Internet Service Providers (ISP) with immediate access to the various brochures and information. More items will be added soon.

FORMATS Retirement-related materials are available in the Portable Document Format (PDF) for viewing on-line with the Adobe Acrobat Reader. The brochures are also available in WordPerfect 5.1 format for downloading to local computer hard drives.

WWW LOCATION The OPM Home Page is accessed by pointing your WWW browser at the Uniform Resource Locator (URL)-

<http://www.opm.gov>

The Retirement Programs Home Page can be accessed by using the Index to find the subject area of interest and clicking your mouse on the hyper text link letter. Alternatively, the Retirement Programs Home Page can be accessed by pointing your WWW browser at the Uniform Resource Locator (URL)-

FEEDBACK Agencies and employees are encouraged to provide feedback to OPM so that services can be improved to meet their needs.

ACCESS

Retirement and insurance materials are also available on the OPM Mainstreet Bulletin Board Service (BBS). OPM Mainstreet can be reached with a computer and modem by calling (202) 606-4800.

Please note that the OPM Mainstreet Bulletin Board Service will continue in service as a supplement for agencies and other customers. The BBS will not discontinue service with the advent of the OPM Home Page and the associated retirement and insurance pages.

EMAIL PILOT PROJECT

We will explore the option of sending future Benefits Administration Letters and other guidance directly to agency headquarters level Benefits Officers who can receive internet email. This will provide our customers with the additional flexibility of receiving guidance directly in electronic format so that it may be stored on a local personal computer and/or reprinted on local printers. This will also allow Benefits Officers to forward original OPM guidance immediately to other agency personnel with access to internal or internet email.

Agency headquarters level Benefits Officers who have internet email capability should send a short internet email expressing their interest in receiving benefits information electronically to-asd@opm.gov

It is important to note that OPM uses UUENCODE/ UUDECODE to encode and decode attachments as ASCII documents. If your system uses another protocol, we will provide advice on how you may convert our documents for your local use.
