AGRICULTURA

Fruits and plains: the horticultural transformation of America

Philip J. Pauly
Cambridge, MA :
Harvard University
Press, 2007.

635.0973 PAU

In telling the histories of Concord grapes and Japanese cherry trees, the problem of the prairie and the war on the med-fly, the author hopes to provide a new understanding of not only how horticulture shaped the vegetation around us, but how it influenced our experiences of the native, the naturalized, and the alien and how better to manage the landscapes around us.

CIENCIAS SOCIALES

The big switch : rewiring the world, from Edison to Google

Nicholas Carr
New York, NY : W. W.
Norton & Co, 2008.

303.4834 CAR

A hundred years ago, companies stopped producing their own power with steam engines and plugged into the newly built electric grid. The cheap power pumped out by electric utilities not only changed how businesses operated but also brought the modern world into existence. Today a similar revolution is under way. Companies are dismantling their private computer systems and tapping into rich services delivered over the Internet. This time it's computing that's turning into a utility. Here, business journalist Carr weaves together history, economics, and technology to explain why computing is changing--and what it means for all of us.

CINEMATOGRAFIA

Hollywood ambitions : celebrity in the movie age

Marsha Orgeron
Middletown, CT :
Wesleyan University
Press, 2008.

302.23 ORG

Working with a varied and untraditional cast of characters, author examines the Hollywood ambitions of a fading western legend, a successful popular author, a poor Brooklyn girl turned flapper icon, a self-proclaimed avant-garde genius, and a frustrated actress on her way to becoming a director. Illustrates the implications of film celebrity during a era in which cinema's impact was first felt.

Through textured case studies of engaged and reluctant readers, this book addresses enduring issues, such as: What do highly engaged adolescent readers do as they read?, What is it about traditional schooling and reading instruction that deters engaged reading and serves to disenfranchise young readers?, What types of interventions can be used in the classroom to help all students, specially reluctant ones, become successful readers?

ELECCIONES

A magnificent catastrophe : the tumultuous election of 1800, America's first presidential campaign

Edward J. Larson
New York, NY : Free
Press, 2008.

324.973 LAR

The 1800 presidential election, the last great contest of the founding period, was so convulsive and so momentous for American democracy that Jefferson would later dub it "America's second revolution." America's first true presidential campaign gave birth to our two-party system and etched the lines of partisanship that have shaped American politics ever since. The contest featured two of our most beloved Founding Fathers, once warm friends, facing off as the heads of their two still-forming parties--the hot-tempered but sharp-minded John Adams, and the eloquent yet enigmatic Thomas Jefferson. Blistering accusations flew: Adams and his elitist Federalists would squelch liberty and impose a British-style monarchy; Jefferson and his radically democratizing Republicans would throw the country into chaos and debase the role of religion in American life. Historian Larson vividly re-creates the tension as Congress was forced to meet in closed session to resolve the outcome.

ESTUDIOS AMERICANOS
