
From: Kendal Cullen [mailto:kcullen@mkacap.com]
Sent: Thursday, April 09, 2009 2:11 PM
To: LLPComments
Cc: George Baker
Subject: inquiries

A few questions that have yet to be firmed up by the FDIC.

-In the Legacy Loans Program, as an investor, what are the bidder qualifications required by the FDIC?

-Is there a ballpark range established for what the size of these pools will be?

-What will the deposit requirements be to begin the bidding process?

-How long will the due diligence period be before the actual bid date?

- Will a list of FDIC approved loan portfolio sales groups be released? (First Financial network, Debt X, Keefe Bruyette & Woods, Stifel Nicolaus, ect.)

In the Legacy Loans Program, as a contractor, how can we become an "approved asset manager subject to oversight by the FDIC"?

How can we become a registered due diligence contractor for the FDIC, the Fed and the Treasury department?

Kendal Cullen
MKA Capital Group Advisors, LLC

kcullen@mkacap.com

26 Corporate Plaza, Suite 250
Newport Beach, CA 92660
949-270-3252 Direct Line
949-270-3235 Direct Fax

Please consider the environment before printing this email.