

Effective March 1, 2007, electronic information products that are sold in China will need to conform to China's Management Methods for Controlling Pollution by Electronic Information Products (EIP). Below are links to the Chinese Ministry of Information Industry (MII) on their recent announcement and related standards and other information.

Key documents and Resources:

The Management Methods for Controlling Pollution by Electronic Information Products (EIP).
http://www.mii.gov.cn/art/2006/03/02/art_521_7344.html

Purpose and the goal of China RoHS:
http://www.mii.gov.cn/art/2006/03/03/art_1221_7428.html

EIP scope list:
http://www.mii.gov.cn/art/2006/03/16/art_1221_8441.html

MI's FAQ published on March 3, 2007:
http://www.mii.gov.cn/art/2006/03/03/art_1221_7431.html

MI's FAQ published on June 6, 2006:
http://www.mii.gov.cn/art/2006/06/05/art_1221_14785.html

Standards development close to finalization - August 2006:
http://www.mii.gov.cn/art/2006/08/28/art_2001_22985.html

Announcement of the upcoming three standards:
http://www.mii.gov.cn/art/2006/11/14/art_1221_26861.html

MI's FAQ published on Dec. 1, 2007:
http://www.mii.gov.cn/art/2006/12/01/art_1221_27258.html

MI's FAQ of the three standards published on Dec. 1, 2007
http://www.mii.gov.cn/art/2006/12/01/art_1221_27260.html