

Submitted by:

Tonya Martin

Raymond Park Middle School

8575 E Raymond Street

Indianapolis, IN 46239

317-532-8903

Raymond Park Middle School recently had their Department of Public Works (DPW) snowplow dropped off in their front parking lot. Each fall the DPW invites local students to participate in an annual snowplow painting competition called Snowplowpalooza. This year's given theme is "We Keep Indianapolis Running." The Raymond Park Student Council (sponsored by 7th grade teacher Kelly Patterson) and the after school Art Club (sponsored by Library Teacher Tonya Martin) will be working together to complete this project. They will be incorporating all of the wonderful services that the DPW offers our city such as pothole repair, replacing damaged street lights, removing graffiti, collecting heavy trash, and overall just making Indianapolis a better place to live. The Raymond Park student team will begin work on their plow the last week in September with an anticipated deadline of completion of October 20th.

Below PE teacher Candy Handy-Ogle displays the new addition of a HUGE snow blade to the Raymond Park Campus.

