About ImageScan

ImageScan is a joint project of the FBI Computer Analysis Response Team (CART) and the Regional Computer Forensics Laboratory (RCFL) Program. CART developed the ImageScan system to help investigators locate the presence of picture files that may contain contraband on a computer, while the actual training is conducted by RCFL personnel in their state-of-the-art classrooms.

Your Feedback is Valuable

Please visit the RCFL National Program Office Web site at www.rcfl.gov to take a brief survey about your experience with the ImageScan training. Once there, click on the Training Portal, then click on the Evaluation link. The password is "training." Your feedback can help us enhance this important service offering.

About the Regional Computer Forensics Laboratory Program

The Regional Computer Forensics Laboratory (RCFL) Program is built on partnerships between the FBI and other law enforcement agencies at the federal, state and local levels operating within a geographic area.   An RCFL is a one-stop, single service forensics laboratory and training devoted to the examination of digital evidence in support of criminal investigations and to the detection and prevention of terrorist acts. Each laboratory is equipped with a modern classroom and offers coursework about digital forensics for all skill levels.

Digital forensics is the application of science and engineering to the recovery of digital evidence in a legally acceptable method. The primary forensics responsibilities of an RCFL are to—

- Conduct a comprehensive examination of digital evidence
- Provide a complete and timely report to the contributor
- Provide testimony as needed
- Act as a regional focal point for digital evidence issues.
