

SNAPSHOT U.S. - Mexico

CONSULAR Affairs

June 2009

One hundred and eighty five consular officers and 485 locally engaged staff provide consular services in Mexico. Almost one out of every five new Foreign Service Officers works in Mission Mexico's consular section.

On average, consular officers in Mission Mexico interview over 25,000 non-immigrant visa applicants each week.

Our new Consulate General office compound in Ciudad Juarez is the largest consular operation in the world. Specializing in immigrant visa processing, this facility adjudicates over 800 cases a day.

Our network of consular agencies provides passport and other American citizen services in 14 locations.

The Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative (WHTI) has increased passport workload by 190% since September 2006.

With an Embassy, seven Consulates General, and two Consulates, Mission Mexico has the largest consular operation in the world. There are over one million legal border crossings daily, one million American citizens resident in Mexico and over twelve million American citizens visiting Mexico for business or tourism each year.

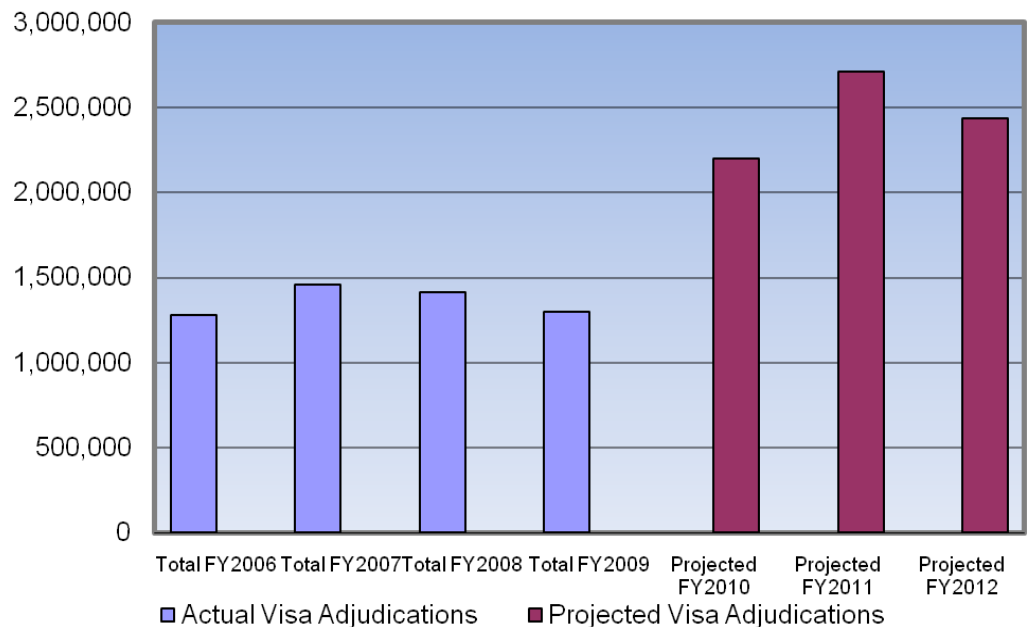

U.S. Citizen Consular Services

About 50,000 American citizens came to the Embassy or one of its nine consulates and fourteen consular agencies in Mexico for assistance during the past year. Services provided include passport issuance, reports of birth and death, notarizations, and others. The Embassy also provides assistance in case of natural disasters and in the past few years has responded to numerous hurricanes, tropical storms and the H1N1 influenza epidemic.

Visa Services to the Mexican Public

In the fiscal year ending September 2008, Mission Mexico processed applications for over 1,300,000 non-immigrant visas (visitor, student, temporary work, and other categories) and 150,000 immigrant visas.
